Worrying the Burglar.
Worrying the President.
Worrying Britain.
Worrying Christianity.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

MR. LOUIS PIERSON, of New York's Irving Trust Company, delights in annoying burglars. He built, far underground, below his new 50-story building, a safety vault lined with toughest steel, thick as the ancient walls of Jerusalem. It is the biggest vault in the world except those of our Reserve Bank and the Bank of England.

NOW he surrounds his steel walls with a thick layer of water, so that the poor bank burglar even if he did break through the heavy steel would have to do his work in a diving suit, most awkward for handling dynamite and drills.

President Hoover touches the rebellious ones in a weak spot, asking them why they don't work together, help business and build prosperity?

THIS government asked "permission" of Great Britain to build one great battleship that would equal the British "Rodney," the greatest battleship in the world.

British authorities said no, and worry. They think we plan to build the greatest of all dreadnaughts, a ship "unsinkable."

There is no such ship, not the faintest danger of our building anything more than first-class targets for airplanes and submarines.

Taxpayers are fortunate that British authorities, to which we voluntarily submit, tell us we can't spend the money.

RUSSIA'S atheist newspaper calling itself "The Godless One" demands that every church be closed. Promoting anti-church parades by workmen, the "Godless One" demands that the gigantic "Cathedral of Our Saviour" in Moscow, Russia's biggest church, be used for workmen's "cultural purposes." There is more "culture" in the Saint Chapelle in Paris, and below the vast dome of St. Peter's in Rome than would emerge from all the culture centers that Russia will establish. You can't create culture overnight.

CHINA is not like Russia. Newton Hayes, learned theologist, after years of work, is unable to count the gods that China worships. In India 33,339 divinities are worshipped. Ancient Greeks had 30,000. China has many more, and in addition to thousands of idols, worships horses, cows, snakes.

Some believe that "insects that devour human bodies have supernatural powers."

AMONG China's divinities there is no one supreme God, which is confusing and not very intelligent. But even that is an improvement on a system that says "There is no God."

IF RUSSIANS really believe, as they pretend, that there is no God, why get so much excited?

Millions of Americans believe that there is no Santa Claus, but they take it calmly, do not forbid children to have their Christmas trees or hang up their stockings.

GANDHI embodies the best definition of a dangerous man—one who "believes every word he says."

Gandhi's present plan in the fight to free India from British control is a campaign of disobedience.

Don't obey the law; don't pay taxes; don't sit in the local legislatures; don't do anything.

THIS worries Britain, for 300,000,000 natives not doing anything that Britain wants done would present a difficult problem.

You can manage a skittish horse, calm a rearing horse, or curb a pulling horse. But a balky horse defies you. Even if you light a fire under him, which you should not do, he may move up a step and burn your wagon.

TWO $50,000 speed boats, each carrying three Liberty motors, with 38 knots speed, will help hunt rum runners in New York waters.

Other fast boats, costing $250,000, will be put on the lakes to check rum running there.

AUTOMOBILE makers will spend 15 millions scrapping old cars to clear the way for new cars and moderate the second-hand car nuisance.

R. H. Grant, vice president of General Motors, one of the best salesmen in America, is chairman of the scrapping committee.

Perhaps Mr. Grant could find a way to ship those old cars, knocked down, to foreign countries, China, Africa, anywhere. Ten million old cars scattered over the earth would soon create an appetite for ten million new cars, just as the little car creates a demand for a bigger car.

NEW YORK'S Legislature yesterday adopted a resolution to send the sympathy of New York's people "to the Christian people of Russia in the terrible hours of their agony, in being denied the right to worship God in their country and the use of their churches, convents, monasteries and schools."

LENINGRAD'S "Union of Militant Atheists" yesterday denounced the "Pope's criticism of Russia's attitude on religion" saying "there will come a time when the atheist workers of the entire world will convert the Vatican into a museum."

BROWN GETS IN GOVERNOR CONTEST

Ultimatum to Grundy Warns Of Warm Fight; Harris Declines to Enter Race

1—William S. Vare's ultimatum to the Mellon-Grundy faction is reported as "compromise on slate or fight."

2—Francis Shunk Brown announces definitely his candidacy for governor. If Senator Grundy will accept Brown, Vare is expected to withdraw.

3—State Senator Frank J. Harris has declined to run for lieutenant governor on a Mellon-Grundy slate.

4—Nominating petitions for Vare for U. S. senator were put in circulation in Philadelphia.

ABOARD ATLANTIC COST LINE TRAIN NO. 72, Feb. 19.—(AP.)—The Mellon-Fisher-Grundy faction of the Republican party of Pennsylvania can participate in the selection of a ticket for state offices in the May primary, if they show an attitude to compromise for the sake of harmony, or they can gird themselves for a bitter fight with the Vare faction.

This, in effect, is the ultimatum Vare leaders are carrying to Washington and Philadelphia today, following a three-day conference with their chief in Florida. These leaders — State Senator Salus, Recorder of Deeds Hazlett and William D. Douglas, secretary to Vare—were to reach Philadelphia late this afternoon, with the exception of Douglas, who is to stop in Washington to

RIOT CALL AT FORD PLANT

A riot call sent into Oakland Police Station today during an alleged attempt to organize employes at the Ford motor plant, Baum boulevard and Morewood avenue, into a union, resulted in charges being lodged against three reputed leaders.

The men were docketed as John Sara, 25; John Casper, 27, and George Patrias, 32, of 611 Penn avenue, who admitted they were representatives of the International Workers' Relief. A quantity of alleged radical literature was found on the men when arraigned, police said. All are being held on charges of being suspicious persons and of violating a city ordinance. The arrests were made by Lieut. William Nadine and Motorcycle Patrolmen Samuel Karen and John Susa.

When police arrived at the Ford plant they found vehicular traffic tied up in that vicinity and the crowd grouped around the three men, who were lecturing to the workers on the efficiency of a labor organization.

Better working conditions, more money and less hours were promised if they would organize, the employes were told.

Judge Porter Estate Valued at $150,000

The Colonial Trust Company, which was appointed administrator of the estate of Judge William D. Porter, who died without leaving a will, today posted a bond of $300,000. The size of the bond, brings out that Judge Porter left $150,000 of such property. This does not include the value of whatever real estate owned by the late jurist of Superior Court.

CHURCH SWEPT BY FLAMES, 4 HURT

Four city firemen were injured, two of them seriously, when hurled 25 feet to the ground amid burning debris, while fighting a fire early today in the New Jerusalem Church, Swedenborgian, Leroy road and Card Lane, East End. The church, under construction, was damaged $7,000, Battalion Chief Fred S. Beckett stated.

The injured firemen are C. W. Karlin, 40, of 133 Larimer avenue; Daniel J. Spangler, 47, of 7166 East Lemington avenue; John A. Scanlon, 49, of 5342 Kincaid street and Capt. Henry Rice, 52, of 142 Grotto street, all members of No. 16 Engine Company. After being attended by Dr. D. E. Sable, chief surgeon, Department of Public Safety, they were taken to Pittsburgh Hospital where it was said Karlin and Spangler were in serious condition.

ATTORNEY DISCHARGED

During the fire Attorney Alexander P. Lindsay, chairman of the church building committee and manager of Judge Martin's campaign in the last mayoralty fight, was arrested and released on $50 forfeit on a charge of disorderly conduct.

Police testified in East End Police Court that Lindsay had demanded more fire apparatus and refused to remain outside the fire lines. Magistrate Charles Papale discharged him.

Police and firemen were unable to give any cause for the fire. Frank K. Bly, 55, of 568 Homewood avenue, watchman at the church, was arrested. Police stated they found him in front of the church intoxicated.

The four firemen were injured when the floor of the church collapsed, hurling them amid the burning flooring into the basement. Spangler suffered a probable fracture of the skull and Karling severe burns on the legs and body. The other men were burned.

The loading is expected to be completed in a few hours and the voyage home begun today.

BUSINESS HEADS CALLED DRY VIOLATORS

'Don't Know Single Banker Who Obeys Law,' Says Murphy at House Quiz

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—"I don't know a single leading banker, a single head of an important industrial corporation, a single important railroad executive who does not violate this law."

This startling indictment of prohibition was made before the House Judiciary Committee today by Grayson M. P. Murphy, prominent New York financier, when he appeared with other representative big business men to protest against present day conditions.

Murphy's statement caused something of a sensation before the committee. The session also was featured by demands for outright repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment and by attacks on the "Protestant church lobby" and on George W. Wickersham, chairmon of the Hoover law enforcement commission.

PROSPERITY THEORY

Contradicting the "prosperity theory" of the prohibitionists, Murphy declared prohibition "has cost this country a substantial amount of money and an enormous amount of self-respect."

The country's prosperity in the last 10 years, he said, was due to the fact that it emerged from the war with industrial and man power little impaired and took the markets of a ruined Europe.

Taxes from a legalized liquor business, he said, would go far to remedy the tax situation.

His statements were reinforced by Henry B. Joy, of Detroit, ex-

GRAF TO VISIT U. S. IN MAY

NEW YORK, Feb. 19.—(INS.)—The Graf Zeppelin will start on a flight to South America early in May and will visit Lakehurst, N. J., about three weeks later, F. W. Von Meister, special representative of the Zeppelin Company, announced today.

The Graf will fly from Germany to Rio de Janeiro via Spain and Pernambuco and from South America will proceed direct to Lakehurst.

Designs are being completed in Germany for a bigger and faster Zeppelin than the Graf, the company's agent said.

POLICE FORBID JOBLESS MARCH

The police announced today that they had discovered plans for a parade of Pittsburgh's unemployed, and that they would not permit it to be held.

Handbills, they said, have been distributed throughout the city calling for a march downtown February 27 to the City-County, where speeches would be made, calling on the municipal authorities for relief.

Similar parades in Cleveland, Philadelphia and New York have resulted in vigorous fighting with police, scores being clubbed.

PEACE SNARL CONTINUES, VIOLENCE SEETHES

Recognition of Union Balks Mediators; 2 Hurt as Cab Crashes in Oakland Attack

BULLETIN.

Six men equipped with tear gas bombs and riot clubs were arrested at Seventh avenue and Grant street late today, cruising in an automobile, said by police to be owned by Paul Houston, president of the Green Cab Company. The men admitted, police said, they were "checkers" for the cab company.

Cabs will be operated in East Liberty and Oakland, scene of recent rioting in the drivers' strike, until 9 o'clock tonight, taxi companies announced today.

Heretofore taxis have been withdrawn from service in East Liberty before dusk by the Yellow and Green Cab companies.

Minor disorders were reported from scattered districts today as mediators attempting settlement of the strike, now in its sixth week, apparently were marking time.

A Checker cab, stoned by strike sympathizers as it was crossing the Wilmot Street Bridge, swerved and crashed into a tree, demolishing the car and injuring driver and guard. They were removed to a hospital. The tree prevented the cab from rolling down a cliff into a ravine.

BOTH SIDES FIRM

Recognition of the union continued to keep the contending sides apart, according to reports. E. S. Riggins, vice president of the Parmelee company, declared "We cannot recognize the union."

Paul Toole, chairman of the strikers' executive committee, asserted, "We will never give in without recognition."

Sheriff Robert S. Cain, who on Monday indicated he would be able within 48 hours to report definite progress toward peace in the strike, said there was nothing new to give out.

STONING FRUSTRATED

Oakland police frustrated a planned brick-throwing party, they say, at Ellsworth avenue and Clyde street, shortly after noon, by arresting two of nine men who were unloading bricks from a truck. The two arrested, Richard Prusser, of 5823 Ellsworth ave-

TARDIEU'S FALL ADJOURNS NAVAL PARLEY FOR ONE WEEK

ITALY FIRM IN PARITY DEMAND

U. S. Will Shun Treaty to Protect Remote Nations, Senator Robinson Warns

By HARRY B. FLORY
International News Service.

LONDON, Feb. 19.—Crippled by the absence of France from the negotiations, the five-power naval disarmament conference adjourned this afternoon for one week.

Before this course was agreed on there were these outstanding developments:

1—The Italian delegation announced its policy demanding naval parity with any continental power.

2—Senator Joseph T. Robinson of the American delegation issued a blunt warning that the American people would repudiate any treaty guaranteeing security of nations remote from the United States.

FRANCE CAUSES RECESS

The parley was put over until next Wednesday in the hope that by that time France will have chosen a new government to succeed that of Andre Tardieu and be able to send her delegates back to continue their work at the disarmament conference. The adjournment was suggested by Secretary of State Stimson.

The committee of experts will continue in session.

EQUAL POWER

These principles the memorandum set forth are reduction of naval armaments and the right of Italy to maintain armaments level with and not exceeded by those of any European continental power.

Italy is prepared, it added, to examine favorably the complete abolition of capital ships and submarines.

Senator Robinson's speech was made to American newspapermen covering the conference.

PITT STUDENTS HEAR LEAGUE ASSAILED

Norman Thomas Calls Pact 'What Clemenceau Meant;' Questions Patriotic Ideas

Norman Thomas, Socialist candidate for President and Mayor of New York recently, spoke this afternoon to Pitt students, members of the International Relations Club, and explained why Socialists and Progressives do not believe in the League of Nations.

"It is a disappointment to those who expected much out of Woodrow Wilson liberalism and international socialism," he said. "Not that we can feel the United States independent or that we subscribe to the principle of isolation."

CITES CLEMENCEAU'S IDEA

"The League has become more what Clemenceau designed it for—an enforcing movement for the Versailles treaty."

Rehearsing the background of the government policy prior to the war, and blaming our entry into it on "definite economic interest more concentrated with Allied nations," he questioned the type of loyalty that nations of today demand.

"We Socialists question the motives of men involved when they say that patriotism is that state where Uncle Sam can do no wrong to other nations. We are skeptical. We think patriotism is not the attitude that Uncle Sam is the Angel of Light, to send its glow on other nations."

WOULD BANISH SLUMS

"Is there another kind of patriotism which means the ridding of a city—say Pittsburgh—of its slums, of its poverty, of racial suppression, of other things that would contribute to a unity of policy at home as well as abroad?"

Thomas also spoke to a student assembly later in the afternoon. He was a guest of Dr. Colston E. Warne, professor of economics at the school.

NEW RADIO ROW FACES HOOVER

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON.
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—With a hostile Senate lying in wait, President Hoover today faced a major political and economic test of his leadership in the naming of a new Federal Radio Commission.

The President must name the entire membership of the commission and have his appointees confirmed by Saturday or the commission temporarily goes out of existence. Under existing law, the terms of all present commissioners will expire Sunday and they will be unable to continue in office beyond that date.

SPLIT ON ROBINSON

Rumors have spread that the President contemplates naming new commissioners in place of Chairman Ira E. Robinson, of West Virginia, and Vice Chairman Eugene O. Sykes, of Mississippi, while giving another term to Commissioners William D. L. Starbuck, Charles McK. Saltzman and Harold A. LaFount. If he does this, he will project one of the biggest senatorial battles of his administration, since a large number of Progressive senators are ardent supporters of Chairman Robinson.

Some concern was felt on Capitol Hill over the President's plans for the commission. It was pointed out that while Secretary of Commerce, he did not favor commission control of the radio industry. If he continues to entertain that antipathy for the commission, it was said, he can refrain from naming a new commission and the control of radio will immediately be transferred to the Department of Commerce under existing laws. Thus, without action at all, the President can terminate the life of the commission.

ASKS NO ADVICE

Thus far, it was learned, the President has not consulted with Republican leaders over the membership of the commission. Both Robinson and Sykes were named through senatorial influence. Their principal backers are still senators.

Many senators, including some Insurgents, have looked upon Robinson as the outstanding member opposing domination of the radio industry by a few giant broadcasting corporations, if he is retired, they undoubtedly will vent their disappointment by fighting the confirmation of his successor. They will charge he is being retired so the commission can be turned over to the "Radio Trust."

CALL BUSINESS MEN VIOLATORS

president of the Packard Motor Company.

FEARS CONSEQUENCES

Wickersham, he said, had long been connected with the Federal Council of Churches, which is bound up with the Anti-Saloon League.

"It seems obviously not possible that President Hoover, in appointing his law commission, could have been aware of Mr. Wickersham's long alliance with and activities in the allied church lobby organizations which have brought on us our dire troubles over prohibition enforcement," said Joy.

"I shudder at the thought of the consequences in case the recommendations of Mr. Wickersham should be enacted into law."

Murphy declared prohibition is contrary to the spirit of the Constitution.

"Prohibition, in my opinion, is the greatest breeder of crime and hypocrisy in history," he said. "I have two sons. I shudder to think of the traps that have been laid for them by this policy."

Murphy said he knew only two people who obey the Volstead Act—one an elderly spinster and a man who formerly drank hard.

"How about Henry Ford?" asked Representative Michener (Rep.), of Michigan.

"I don't know him. I am referring to those I know."

RAVORS RECALL

Capt. W. H. Stayton, chairman of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, and the first witness of the day, declared for repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment and return of control of the liquor traffic to the states.

Repeal, he said, should be delayed long enough to give the states time to enact regulatory laws. Dry states also should be protected against importation of liquor from anti-prohibition states, he said.

BREACH WIDENS IN TAXI BREAK

nue, and John Titus, of 3710 Charlotte street, told police they had planned to stone Green cabs when they returned to Oakland from the company garage, Ellsworth and College avenues.

A revolver, blackjack, seven cartridges and two pocket knives were found on Charles D. Adley, of South Brownsville road, when he and three others were arrested in an automobile in East Lacock street, police reported.

FOUR HELD OVER

At a hearing before Magistrate J. J. Sweeney in North Side Police Court, the four admitted being employed by the Yellow Cab Company. They were held over. The others gave their names as Walter Wales, Canonsburg, Pa.; Walter Beel and B. A. Bradley, Buffalo, N. Y.

A Green cab was stoned in Penn avenue, near the driveway to the East Liberty Station of the Pennsylvania Railroad today, police reported. Half a dozen strike sympathizers hurled bricks at the cab, one of which broke a rear window. The cab speeded out Penn avenue.

Edward Nord, 23, of 35 Roberts street, a branch manager for the Sun-Telegraph in the Forbes Building, Forbes and Atwood streets, was arrested today, after a stone was thrown through the windshield of a Green cab parked at that point. The driver and guard escaped unhurt. Nord was lodged in Oakland Police Station.

"GAS SQUAD" HELD

Five men arrested in an automobile which contained tear gas bombs and maces in Oakland yesterday were held for a "standup" at the detective bureau at the request of Inspector James N. Hoey in Oakland Police Court today.

John Clancy, of Cleveland, O., one of the five, testified that he and the others were employed by the Green Cab Company to cruise the streets and protect cabs from attack. He had been here two weeks, he said, and did not know possessing gas bombs was a violation of the law.

Clancy and his companions are at liberty on $50 forfeits. The others are M. F. Early, Altoona, Pa.; J. J. Murphy, Cleveland; James South, New Castle, Pa., and Frank J. Smith, Cleveland.

Philip Azzara, 34, of 6406 Winslow street, a striking Green cab driver, was held over in Central Police Court today. Police said he had been identified as the man who threw a brick through the window of a cab in Bigelow boulevard last Friday, seriously injuring Philip Wagner, 23, of 301 West street, Wilkinsburg, former Carnegie Tech student, who was driving the car.

CRITICS IN TAXI WAR ARRESTED

Jesse Block, 30, and Herbert J. Haskell, 43, both giving their address as "New York City," arrested arrested on charges of disorderly on charges of disorderly conduct in Penn avenue at Tenth street at midnight, after they are alleged to have criticized policemen for not making arrests when a Yellow Cab was stoned near the Penn avenue entrance to the Port Pitt Hotel, failed to appear for a hearing today. They forfeited $50 each.

Patrolmen William Kent and Thomas Lawrence reported the two prisoners had talked disrespectfully to them for not arresting men who ran after the cab hurling bricks through the windows. The officers had been standing a short distance away from the hotel entrance and are said to have witnessed the stoning.

Four men, who police say are employes of the Green Cab Company, were arrested this morning in Lacock street near Federal street, after police reported finding a loaded revolver and a blackjack in their automobile. The prisoners said they were Waldo Wales, 26, of Canonsburg; Walter S. Bell, 40, and G. A. Bradley, 33, of Buffalo, and Charles D. Adey, 31, of South Brownsville. The men did not state whether they were employed as drivers or guards.

FIVE IN STRIKE FACE CONTEMPT

Accused of violating the strike injunction, five alleged participants in recent attacks on taxicabs were ordered to appear for a contempt hearing next Friday before Judge Richard W. Martin. Rules were granted on Paul Reagan, Philip Azzara, Jerome King, Bud Thomas and Louis Brooks.

Three others previously adjudged in contempt of the injunction will be sentenced Friday.

Slayer of 'Gadding' Wife Shown Mercy

CHICAGO, Feb. 19.—(AP.)—Max Braun's defense that he slew his wife "because she was always gadding," failed to save him from conviction yesterday, but it resulted in the comparatively light sentence of from 1 to 14 years' imprisonment.

Braun said he wanted to stay home nights, but that his wife persisted in going over to neighbor's homes and gossiping and "gadding." He finally became so incensed, he said, that he stabbed her.

MURDER FACING 'PEACEMAKER'

Intercession in a husband-and-wife argument landed Henry Rivers, Negro, in jail today, facing a possible charge of murder, city detectives reported.

The argument was between James Harris, 50, Negro, of 2632 Webster avenue, and his wife. When Rivers, who also lived there, attempted to act as peacemaker, he and Harris had words which ended in the shooting, the detectives said. Harris died soon after in Passavant Hospital.

Fire In Drug Store Does $200 Damage

Fire in the Evaline Pharmacy, 4138 Penn avenue, caused damage estimated at $200 today. The blaze started in the cellar. A number of occupants on the second floor of the brick building were driven into the street by smoke.

Wealthy Recluse Dies From Cold

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Feb. 19.—The coroner at Richwood declared an inquest unnecessary in the case of John Armstrong, 60, wealthy carpenter, whose body was found frozen in his home.

Armstrong had been a recluse since his wife died twenty years ago.

FAMILIES FLEE AS HOMES SINK

More than 50 dwellings in Castle Shannon today were threatened by impending cave-in, due, residents believed, to earth sinking over abandoned No. 2 mine of the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Company, whose entrance was north of the borough.

Five families residing in two two-story brick houses at Locust street and Shady lane were forced out yesterday. They included Nicholas Trappan, his wife and three children, in one dwelling, and those of Max Yoeman, Albert Tieman, Charles Jones and A. McCreery in the other.

Gas and water pipes of the houses were snapped off due to the sinking of the foundation.

Heavy Machinery Restriction Urged

Heavy steam shovels, tractors and other machinery moved through the city should be carried on rubber-tired trucks, according to a suggestion made in Council By Charles Anderson. His suggestion was made during the discussion of an ordinance requiring a permit for the movement of such machines over city streets. The ordinance was held over until a new one embodying his ideas is prepared.

Council in committee, approved an ordinance requiring a permit and fixing fees for the erection of waffolds over sidewalks or unimproved streets.

2 DISCHARGED IN HOLDUP

Charles Downs, 20, of 2501 Fifth avenue, and Walter Hanlon, 18, of 2424 Fifth avenue, were discharged in Morals Court today when arraigned in connection with the holdup of the drug store of Milton Kelsky, 1730 Forbes street, January 13.

They were arrested yesterday in the courthouse after Kelsky told a policeman they resembled two of the three holdup men. They had been present at the trial of Richard Thompson, of 46 Lawn street. Thompson was found guilty of larceny, but acquitted of charges of carrying concealed weapons, pointing firearms and attempted robbery in connection with the holdup.

Alfred Cronso, of Elsinore square, who was in the store at the time, was unable to identify Downs or Hanlon.

Clubman to Marry 'Angel of Broadway'

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 19.—(AP.)—Rheba Crawford, once known as the Salvation Army's "Angel of Broadway," announced today that she would marry Ray Spilvalo, wealthy San Francisco clubman. The announcement closely followed the granting of a divorce in St. Petersburg, Fla., to J. Harold Sommers, her first husband. Sommers alleged his wife was more devoted to her evangelistic work than to him.

TARDIEU MEETS DOUMERGUE

PARIS, Feb. 19.—(INS.)—Looking much better after spending several days in bed with a severe cold, Andre Tardieu today conferred with President Gaston Doumergue, presumably to discuss the possibility of his attempting to form a new cabinet.

After a half an hour's consultation with the President, however, M. Tardieu would only admit that he "had only outlined the situation at London for the benefit of the President."

Nevertheless, the conference was regarded as indicating that M. Tardieu had been asked whether or not he would be willing to form a cabinet to succeed his old government.

Because of ill health, former Premier Poincare eliminated himself from the running during a conference with the President yesterday. Aristide Briand, veteran leader of many ministries, is reported averse to being called upon to form a cabinet for similar reasons. Senator Etienne Clementel, a Left leader who has been prominently mentioned, has also indicated he does not want to make the attempt.

Manila High School Students on Strike

MANILA, Feb. 19.—(AP.)—Almost the entire student body of Manila North High School struck today, demanding the dismissal of Miss Mable Brummitt, an American teacher, whom the students accused of insulting the Filipino race.

Of the 2,770 students at the school, not more than 50 returned to class today. The decision to strike was reached at a student mass meeting yesterday. The resolution adopted by the students charged that Miss Brummitt "has time and again branded Filipinos savages, imbeciles, idiots and contemptible cads."

New College Will Train Negro Cooks and Butlers

ATLANTA, Feb. 19.—(AP.)—School bells will ring here March 1 for Negro maids, cooks, butlers and chauffeurs in an effort to help the employment situation and the housewives who employ servants.

A ray of hope beamed today in the announcement of plans for a $50,000 training school for Negro men and women domestics. The school will be directed by the community employment service.

Beyond the relief expected for housewives whose cooks burn the biscuits, whose butlers stumble over rugs, and whose maids drop tea trays, the school has another purpose. Civic leaders said they saw a means of training a greater number of persons for employment and thus improving the labor situation among the Negro people.

Vacuum cleaners, dish pans and cook stoves will be a part of the equipment in the new college. Announced plans for the school go beyond the mere training of servants to do the household chores, however.

"Besides the instruction under three teachers and a director, there will be training in loyalty, proper relation to employer, honesty and ethics," said an announcement.

The Julius Rosenwald Foundation has made a grant of $25,000 to the project.

3 More Held in $200,000 Romance Bank Crash

CHICAGO, Feb. 19.—(INS.)—Two more men and another woman were under arrest today as authorities continued investigation of the $200,000 embezzlement from the Peoples State Bank of Maywood, which allegedly financed the love affair of President Elmer Langguth and his cashier, Miss Laverne Lindgren.

Miss Elsa Gordon, 25-year-old stenographer at the bank, charged with forging a $5,000 note to cover a shortage, was placed under arrest. Two tellers of the defunct bank, Edward Carlton and John Read, were also placed under arrest charged with altering the bank records.

The grand jury today will act on the cases of Langguth and Miss Lindgren as well as the other three. All have been charged with conspiracy.

Langguth manipulated the accounts of the bank he headed to carry on a romance with the comely young cashier, according to Investigator Pat Roche of the state attorney's staff.

During Langguth's regime Miss Lindgren rose in meteoric fashion from stenographer to cashier and bank executive. Langguth maintained two suburban apartments under fictitious names, presumably to carry on the romance, according to Roche. He also presented the girl with an expensive home and motor cars, investigation showed.

10 KILLED, 60 HURT, MANY BLINDED IN NEW JERSEY BLAST

OIL REFINERY BLAST LAID TO LEAK

Clothing of Workers Fired By Spurts of Flaming Alcohol From Windows

ELIZABETH, N. J., Feb. 19.—(AP.)—The ranks of 60 injured workmen, who were seared with exploding refining gas at a Standard Oil refinery late yesterday, were depleted by death today until the list of

Among the 50 bandage swathed laborers in three hospitals here were 20 whose chances of recovery were doubtful. It was feared that several of these would be permanently blinded if they survived the scorching blast which spurted through part of the Bayway Refinery.

The explosion occurred at 3:55 p. m. yesterday in the alcohol plant of the refinery. J. Raymond Carringer, general manager of the plant, said the blast was caused by the breaking of a gas line.

FUMES IGNITE

Survivors said the pipe which broke was a high pressure line and that fumes from it were ignited by portable forges used by workmen constructing a new building near the one-story building housing the alcohol plant.

The night shift of 1,100 men employed on the 100-acre reservation occupied by the plant in Linden, a suburb, had started work at 3 p. m. They had been on duty 55 minutes when there was a terrific explosion followed immediately by two lesser blasts.

CLOTHES AFLAME

Workmen employed in the alcohol plant rushed out, their clothing aflame and many groping their way, blinded by the fire.

Prosecutor Abe J. David, who began an investigation today, said he learned that refining gas fumes were detected escaping from the alcohol distillery a half hour before the explosions.

The blast first was attributed to naphtha fumes, but company officials denied this today. Refining gas, it was explained, is one of several by-products obtained in extracting gasoline from petroleum. From this and other gases alcohol is obtained.

DOUBT LATEST HORST STORY

WOOSTER, O., Feb. 19.—(AP.)—A new story of the killing of four-year-old Melvin Horst at Orrville at told by Earl Conald to Mrs. Maude Sewell, of Columbus, was given little credence by investigators early today.

Mrs. Sewell said that Conald had told her yesterday that Melvin was killed by an Orrville man previously questioned about the boy's disappearance, and Charles Hanna, who has named Conald as Melvin's slayer.

Prosecutor Marion Graven after hearing the woman repeat the account, said the story "seems untrue to me." It probably was suggested by a theory which investigators themselves broached to Conald during the course of his examination, Graven said.

During an all-night questioning Hanna clung stubbornly to third "confession" that Conald killed the boy and that the body was buried on a creek bank near the scene of the crime.

RAMBEAU JURY CANNOT AGREE; NEW TRIAL

'Love-Theft' Charges Still Unsettled; Marjorie in West, Reported 'Broke'

By DAVID P. SENTNER
International News Service

NEW YORK, Feb. 19.—A jury disagreed today concerning the $100,000 alienation suit against Marjorie Rambeau, actress, and the case may be tried for the third time.

Mrs. Mabel Manton, former wife of William Kevitt Manton, actor and stage manager, charged that Miss Rambeau stole the affections of her husband.

A first suit was filed in 1926, but while the jury was out Mr. and Mrs. Manton were reported as being reconciled and the case was dismissed.

MARJORIE ABSENT, "BROKE"

The jury today declared they could not "agree on the facts" and the suit was put on the court calendar again for trial.

Miss Rambeau was not in court. Her counsel said that she was in Los Angeles at the bedside of her sick mother and that she was "broke."

"She hasn't the carfare to come to New York," said counsel.

Mrs. Manton took the witness stand at the last trial to testify that Miss Rambeau lured her husband away from her.

TELEGRAM CITED

Then Manton met Miss Rambeau in a production in which they both were playing.

Mrs. Manton said her husband went to Bethlehem, Pa., to become Miss Rambeau's stage manager. Then the witness said she found in her husband's room a key to Miss Rambeau's suite and a telegram.

The latter read as follows, it was testified:

APPEAL SUNDAY SHOW FINES

FOLLANSBEE, W. Va., Feb. 19.—(AP.)—Glenn and Okey Floyd brothers, operators of a theater here which showed motion pictures last Sunday, were arrested and fined $20 and costs by Mayor Charles Manion on a charge of violating a city ordinance prohibiting Sunday shows. They also were required to post $250 bond each on an additional charge of violating the state "blue" laws pending action of a Brooke County grand jury. The brothers appealed the $20 city fine and posted an additional $100 bond each pending trial in Circuit Court.

An Ohio County grand jury at Wheeling recently failed to return true bills in the cases of a number of theater owners charged with violating the state "blue" laws by operating their theaters on Sunday. Follansbee is in the Northern West Virginia panhandle, not far from Wheeling.

MOORE'S BODY ON WAY HERE

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 19.—(INS.)—Accompanied by J. K. Emge, the body of Alexander Moore, noted diplomat and former newspaper publisher, today was on its way East to Pittsburgh for interment in an Allegheny Cemetery mausoleum at Pittsburgh with that of his wife, Lillian Russell.

Funeral services under the direction of the Masonic order have been arranged. The body is due to arrive in Pittsburgh at 10 o'clock Friday night.

Nearly 100 close friends and relatives attended the brief services here yesterday for the ambassador-designate to Poland.

Among the relatives and former associates from the East were Mrs. William J. McCaskey, Miss Ellan McCaskey, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Schubert, Mrs. Miriam Culbertson, William Culbertson and Emge, formerly managing editor of the Pittsburgh Leader, of which Ambassador Moore was the publisher.

DAVIS PRAISES MOORE

Declaring that Ambassador Alexander P. Moore could not be replaced in the country's diplomatic service, Secretary of Labor James J. Davis today expressed deep regret over the loss of his old time friend and coadjutor in the work of the Immigration Bureau.

"Ambassador Moore did not measure his qualifications as a diplomat on high hat standards," said Secretary Davis. He was just as much the plain, democratic American in a European court as he was at home. As a result of his unsullied Americanism in dealing with representatives abroad, he was admired and respected all the more for his straight-forward manner."

NEW YORK, Feb. 19.—(AP.)—On his sixty-eighth birthday, Charles M. Schwab yesterday announced that, after 50 years of an active business life, he was retiring from all business activities except the Bethlehem Steel Company.

Mr. Schwab's birthday was celebrated last night at a "quiet family dinner party" at his residence, Riverside Drive and Seventy-third street. He said he had spent the day as usual at his office.

"Looking back through the years," he said, "I will say that if I had my life to live over again there has been nothing in it that I would wish to change.

"To me now friends are more important than this so-called business success, and it is very gratifying for me to finish my long business life with the multitude of friends that I have all over the country."

Mr. Schwab was born at Williamsburg, Pa., February 18, 1862.

URGES U. S. AID FOR AIR LINERS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—(INS.)—Aviation passenger lines need a helping hand from the government if they are to continue to live, Postmaster Brown told the House Postoffice Committee today.

Brown supported the new Watres airmail bill to change the basis of payment for airmail from poundage to mileage and to allow letting of mail contracts to passenger lines. He urged adoption of the new measure as the only means of relieving a situation which he said was sending many to the wall.

Under the Watres bill the government would be authorized to extend mail contracts to companies operating as passenger lines. Brown asserted small contracts would in many cases keep them in operation where otherwise they would fail.

FORD PLANT WORKMEN IN CENTER AVENUE TODAY AFTER POLICE CARRIED OFF THREE MEN ADDRESSING EMPLOYES

Youthful 'Bridal Party' Held in Car Theft

Instead of wedding bells for a prospective bride and bridegroom, and a "bridal party" of three boy friends, upon their arrival in Pittsburgh from Cincinnati, the five heard the clang of the iron door of the Allegheny County Jail.

The commitment ended a trip of thrills for Orville Dove, 21, prospective bridegroom; Patricia Lusk, 20, bride-elect; Russell Meyers, 19, Benjamin Lewis, 18, and Clarence Cole, 18, pending a hearing before the United States commissioner on a charge of transporting a stolen automobile from Warren, O., to Frizzleburg, Lawrence County.

There the "party" ran into the state police and were placed in the Lawrence County jail at New Castle, pending arrival of government officers. The arrest occurred last Thursday, and while in jail Miss Lusk met Irene Schroeder, blonde trigger woman charged with the murder of Corp. Brady Paul of the State Highway Patrol.

Before the girl and her four companions were turned over to Deputy United States Marshal John Lowers yesterday afternoon there was an affectionate parting between the "trigger woman" and Miss Lusk, when Irene kissed her good-bye and gave her a quarter.

On the way to Pittsburgh the deputy marshal was told of the interrupted wedding plans of Dove and the Lusk girl, which were to have culminated when the party reached Pittsburgh. All the prisoners reside in Cincinnati. Dove said they got as far as Warren by getting "lifts" in automobiles. Pending the commissioner's hearing Friday they were sent to jail in default of $1,500 each.

Ambassador Moore Once Mischievous 'Copy Boy'

Alexander P. Moore, dignified ambassador in 1930, was a mischievious copy boy on the old Pittsburgh Evening Telegraph in 1878.

One of his pranks was recalled today by Joseph L. Anderson, veteran printer in the composing room of the Sun-Telegraph.

"Alex's first duty was to carry copy from the editorial room, on the first floor, to the composing room, in the third story," said Mr. Anderson.

"He rode up the elevator and going down used the stairs, making the three flights in about six jumps. One day he threw off the power of the elevator and stopped the car between floors, imprisoning A. K. Harrington, the foreman, for nearly half an hour. Harrington couldn't see the joke and spanked the boy in the old-fashioned way across his knee.

"Everybody looked for Alex to be fired, but he explained to H. H. Byram, the editor, that he was only playing a practical joke in return for the "italic space" and "type louse" tricks played on him by the printers.

"It was not long until Alex was promoted to be a reporter, and when the Telegraph and Chronicle were consolidated he became political editor and eventually a stockholder in the paper."

EDISON CERTAIN OF FUTURE PROGRESS

Optimist on America, But Says Too Many Farmers; Lauds Machine Age

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
International News Service

FORT MYERS, Fla., Feb. 19.—Thomas A. Edison is an optimist on America. Business prospects seem "all right" to him. Only a very small part of the country's vast resources are being utilized, he pointed out, and "never before have times been any better."

The famous inventor expressed these views today in an exclusive interview in his laboratory here where he was found hard at work on his rubber plant experiments. Because he is practically deaf the questions were put to him in writing and he answered verbally, the interview lasting more than an hour. The 83-year-old genius did not appear to be at all tired.

TOO MANY FARMERS

Edison said among other things that "we have too many people in the farm business" and he thought it would be a good idea if a lot of them went into the towns and took up manufacturing.

"What do you think of the business outlook?" was one question put to the inventor of the electric light, the phonograph, the motion picture camera and numerous other devices.

"I think it will come out all right," Edison replied optimistically. "Our only trouble is excesses—overdoing things."

"Did we overdo in the speculating in stocks in Wall Street?"

"Yes, and we overdo in everything else."

"Does business need any one particular thing—more brains, more hard work or what?" he was asked.

"More highly organized brains," Edison answered promptly, adding: "Yet this country seems to have a large number of men with brains.

"Have you ever seen the country in better shape than at present?"

CONDITIONS SOUND

"No. I never have."

"What per cent of America's vast resources are being used, in your opinion?"

"I should say 5 per cent," replied Edison after a pause.

The present "machine age" in which we are living is helping the world "very much," according to Edison, and he expressed the opinion that eventually machines will do away with manpower. He said manpower will be supplanted by brainpower.

Edison is convinced, he said, that prohibition is here to stay. He thinks the laboring man should not expect to "have everything," especially alcohol which "befuddles his brain." He believes the dry law is helping the country economically.

CITE 'HAT' MAN AS QUIZ CAUSE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—(INS)—The arrest of George Cassidy, the "mysterious man in the green hat" in front of the Senate office building on charges of bootlegging, was cited today by Senate advocates of a prohibition inquiry as another reason for investigating dry law enforcement.

Senator Wheeler (Dem.), of Montana, who sponsored a resolution for a sweeping Senatorial inquiry into all activities of the Prohibition Bureau, declared the actions of the "man in the green hat" ought to be investigated. Senator Jones (Rep.), of Washington, author of the "five and ten" law, went further and said the Senate ought to learn whom Cassidy intended to see in the Senate office building. The structure houses the private offices of Senators and their hundreds of clerks.

"I'm glad to hear about it," observed Senator Brookhart (Rep.), of Iowa.

"Are you going to suggest an investigation to learn who is buying booze from him?" Brookhart was asked.

"Oh, we're going to have that," replied the Iowan.

Senator Watson (Rep.), of Indiana, interposed an objection to such an inquiry.

"I'm not seeking to guard the morals of my fellow senators," said Watson. "That's their business and the business of their constituents."

KLINE'S FORCES FIGHT LESLIE

Contests in at least two senatorial districts are forecast today the first day to obtain signatures to nomination petitions for candidates in the primary election.

OTHERS RUNNING AGAIN

Other sitting assemblymen who obtained petitions are Joseph C. Marcus and Joseph R. Lynch, First District; John Purucker, Fifth District; W. F. Stadtlander, Eighth District; Helen Grimes, Twelfth District.

Mayor Kline's friends in the Ninth Ward, home of Senator Max G. Leslie, are said to be grooming Frank T. Halloran, chief accountant in the Mayor's office, to oppose Leslie for re-election.

Another potential opponent of Leslie is Councilman George J. Kambach, of the Seventeenth Ward.

ARMSTRONG AIDS LESLIE

Leslie's friends, however, expect County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong to use all his power in aiding Leslie, either by discouraging the entrance of another candidate or defeating the opposition at the polls.

Armstrong is particularly strong in the South Side wards and in the event a contest is forced, many observers believe it will be Mayor Kline's open challenge to Armstrong's leadership.

Woman Auto Victim Sues N. Braddock

Mrs. Pavell averred she was thrown from her seat and injured seriously. The hole was alleged to have existed continuously for five years.

GRUNDY DEFIED BY VARE

Sitting in the St. Lucie, Fla., yesterday afternoon, the trio has deliberated at length on the possibilities of compromise and of a contest.

GRUNDY DEFIED

"We have felt all along," Sales said, "that the Fisher-Mellon-Mackey group of the state organization have been in a receptive mood for they have on several occasions argued along lines of party harmony. They have not been able to convince Senator Grundy apparently that the interests of the Republican party in Pennsylvania are above those of his conception."

It was thought the whole situation would be settled if Senator Grundy would accept Francis Shunk Brown as the candidate for governor? Hazlett, who is chairman of the Philadelphia Republican City Committee, was asked.

"That is his only salvation," Hazlett replied.

BROWN ANNOUNCES

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 19 (AP).—Francis Shunk Brown, of Philadelphia, former attorney general, today made formal announcement of his candidacy for the Republican nomination for governor.

"In response to requests from all parts of the state," Mr. Brown announced, "I make this public announcement of my candidacy for the office of governor.

"Petitions in my behalf will be circulated at once."

CAMPAIGN UNDER WAY

HARRISBURG, Feb. 19 (AP).—The Republican primary campaign of 1930, threatening to equal or outdo the memorable $2,000,000 primary in 1926, got away to an auspicious start today, the first day for the circulation of nominating petitions.

Petitions for the candidacy of William S. Vare as an opponent to Senator Joseph R. Grundy for the senatorial nomination were put into circulation in Philadelphia, while there was assurance that petitions for at least five others candidates for statewide offices would be in circulation in some sections of Pennsylvania at least. Candidates then have until April 7 to withdraw.

Those five were: Samuel S. Lewis, who is expected to be the running mate of Mr. Grundy as a candidate for governor; James F. Woodward, secretary of internal affairs, and Frederic A. Godcharles, opposing candidates for Woodward's present office, and Judges William B. Linn and J. Frank Graff, who are without opposition thus far for two places on the Superior Court bench.

LEWIS PETITIONS OUT

While Senator Grundy announced some time ago that he is a candidate for election to the post he now holds through appointment by Gov. Fisher, several days' delay in getting his petitions in circulation over the state was anticipated here. The delay was attributed only to the failure of a printer to have the blanks printed in time.

A small number of the Lewis petitions will be found in circulation today, the former state treasurer saying he expected to have all his blanks out soon.

Incidentally, developments within the last 24 hours pointed to a contest between Vare's lieutenants on one hand and Lewis and possibly Grundy workers, later on the other, to acquire the greatest number of signatures as a symbol of strength of the prospective opposing factions. The state laws require only 100 signatures from each of 10 counties for senator, and from five counties for other state offices.

HARRIS DECLINES RACE

State Senator Frank J. Harris has decided not to run for lieutenant governor, according to his formal statement.

His name was included as a candidate for that office on a slate reported to have the support of W. L. Mellon, former Republican state chairman, and Senator Joseph R. Grundy.

State Senator Frank E. Baldwin of Potter County, is considered the leaders' next choice, judging from rumors.

Harris declared that as lieutenant governor, his personal activities in the interest of beneficient legislation naturally would be limited.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Feb. 19.—(INS.)—Failure of William Farnum, actor, to pay his wife temporary alimony of $100 a week today had resulted in a receiver being appointed for his Hollywood property, valued at $100,000. Counsel for Farnum declared the alimony had not been paid because the actor was not working.

Budget to Be Kept Open Another Week

Traffic Kills 121, Jaywalkers Total 78

Seventy-eight of the 121 pedestrians killed in traffic during 1929 were jaywalking, according to a complete analysis of traffic fatality figures for last year, recently completed by Director James M. Clark and Traffic Engineer B. W. Marsh, of the Department of Public Safety.

Some people seem "to believe," Clark commented, "that jaywalking is a safer practice for the pedestrian than crossing streets at intersections. A careful analysis of traffic fatality figures does not bear out this contention."

MAN HELD IN 3 SHOOTINGS

Enoch Youngovitz, 24, of Cuddy, near Bridgeville, was being held in the county jail today in connection with the shooting last Sunday of his wife, Esther, 20, and John A. Bowers, 45, and the latter's wife, 23, in the Bowers home on Campbell street, Cuddy. None were critically hurt.

Youngovitz was arrested yesterday at Sygan, a mining village near Bridgeville, by county detectives who were notified of his presence there by residents. The shooting was said to have occurred at a party in the Bowers home. His wife's refusal to drop a charge of assault and battery against him caused the shooting, Youngovitz told detectives, they said.

An automobile owned by C. F. Marshall, an undertaker of Oakdale, which Youngovitz was alleged to have stolen after the shooting, was recovered by Marshall.

WHISKY PLANT RESUMES

Harry A. Wilken, who has distilled liquor for 40 years off and on, had a good day yesterday. He watched, as chief distiller, the big pipes in the Joseph S. Finch & Co. plant at Schenley drip 35 barrels of pure rye whisky. And there were no police in sight.

It was the first lot of rye whisky distilled legally in the United States since 1921. The production of 35 barrels a day will continue until the allotment of 4,500 barrels allowed by the government is completed.

In four years these barrels full of Finch, Schenley and Overholt rye will be bottled in bond. Then they will be turned into—not the beverage trade—but the medicinal.

There are now only 100,000 cases of whisky a year distributed from the Schenley plant, and this new lot of 2,250,000 gallons will replenish the supply which is just enough to last the four years. More than 30 girls are employed in the bottling plant.

Plans had been made for ceremonies and to have motion pictures taken of the resumption of the old process, but John D. Pennington, administrator in this district, frowned upon the idea. The company spent $135,000 remodeling and restoring the old distilling machinery.

MERGER OF BUS LINES SEEN

Several independent bus lines are about to be acquired by the West Penn Bus Lines, operating extensively in Allegheny, Washington, Westmoreland and Fayette Counties, it developed before the Public Service Commission yesterday.

This was revealed when the West Penn interests opposed an application of the Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company for the right to use a group and party service along routes that would interfere, it was claimed, with West Penn business.

It was explained that Terense Brothers, who operate a bus line between Dorona and Monessen, and Cantone Brothers, between Charleroi and Connellsville, are negotiating for the sale of those lines to the West Penn concern.

The Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company agreed to confine operations to points only on the line of the Pittsburgh Railways Company, of which it is a subsidiary.

HUGHES PLANS TO TAKE SEAT

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19 (AP.) — Chief Justice Hughes called at the White House to thank the President for selecting him as head of the Supreme Court as the successor to William Howard Taft and tentatively decided to administer the oath of office to Chief Justice he followed when he became Associate Justice.

In the robing room of the court, according to present plans, he will, on February 24 before the court meets, take the constitutional oath of associate.

After the court leaves the anteroom from the robing room and goes on the bench the new Chief Justice will take the judicial oath.

It is expected that both oaths will be administered by Associate Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes, the senior Associate who in March will celebrate his eighty-ninth birthday and who during the illness of Taft, was acting Chief Justice.

After the judicial oath is administered Hughes will take his seat in the middle of the bench and the court will proceed with its business. No other formalities will mark the occasion.

RECORD WARM WAVE IN WEST

CHICAGO, Feb. 19 — (AP.) — Residents of the Middle West forgot about snow shovels temporarily at least, and turned their thoughts to gardening, so mild were temperatures. Some cities in this area registered the highest February 18 temperatures in years.

Even at Medicine Hat, Canada, where sub-zero is the rule rather than the exception, the highest registered during the day was 60 degrees.

Dodge City, Kan., and Concordia, Mo., had temperatures of 74 each, while Des Moines, Ia., reported 66.

At Pierre, S. D., 76 was high for the day, while marks in the sixties were recorded in Evansville, Ind.; Memphis, Tenn.; Sioux City, Ia., and St. Louis, Omaha, Neb.; Rapid City, S. D.; Springfield, Mo.; Cheyenne, Wyo., and Denver were in the low seventies.

AID OF TROTSKY ORDERED SLAIN

NEW YORK, Feb. 19.—(AP.)—A Berlin dispatch to the Jewish Telegraphic Agency said that German supporters of Leon Trotsky, exiled Russian communist leader, had reliable information of an order by Joseph Stalin, Soviet "strong man," for execution of M. Blumkin, friend of Trotsky.

These German supporters are publishing a letter confirming previous reports of the execution order, the dispatch said. Blumkin was said to have returned to Russia with a message from Trotsky for Karl B. Radek.

Another dispatch to the Jewish Telegraphic Agency, from London, said that recent publication of the memoirs of Leon Trotsky in which he severely criticizes Stalin, was reported to have so infuriated the Soviet leader that in addition to arresting Trotsky's two daughters, one of whom is dangerously ill with tuberculosis, he has also ordered the arrest of Trotsky's two sons-in-law.

Run on Fort Worth Bank Ends; Depositors Return

FORT WORTH, Tex., Feb. 19.—(AP.)—A run on the First National Bank here, which was stemmed when officials kept the institution open until 11 o'clock last night to accommodate all persons desiring to make withdrawals, turned into a backward trek of depositors today as confidence was restored.

Officials reported a large number of deposits soon after the opening this morning, including one of $160,000. Many persons who became alarmed yesterday and withdrew their funds were returning the money today.

The lines of anxious depositors of yesterday were absent and business appeared to be on a normal basis.

An armored truck from the Federal Reserve Bank at Dallas delivered another $1,000,000 today, supplementing several millions rushed to the First National previously.

District Judge George E. Hosey announced that an investigation would be made in an effort to determine the origin of rumors concerning the bank's condition, with a view to prosecuting those responsible.

Before the run began yesterday afternoon considerable uneasiness had been apparent here as the result of the recent failure of two other Fort Worth banks.

OLATHE, Kan., Feb. 19 (AP.) — W. E. Skelton, 58, pleaded guilty to a first-degree murder charge and was sentenced to life imprisonment for the slaying of Capt. T. A. Sanders, 81-year-old retired Great Lakes shipmaster at Sanders home at Lenexa, Kan., last Friday night.

Skelton, who told officers he was in need of money, said he killed the aged navigator after going to the little home where he lived alone to rob him of money which town rumors said was concealed in the house.

Skelton expressed the desire to return to Lenexa and meet his fate at the hands of a mob. He said he wanted to be killed and did not want to go to the penitentiary.

AIR MONOPOLY STIRS NATIONS

BY KARL H. VON WIEGAND.

Universal Service Special Cable.

BERLIN, Feb. 19. — A trans-Atlantic air traffic monopoly between Europe and North and South America via the Azores and Cape Verde Islands, alleged to have been acquired by France in a deal with Portugal, is stirring German air circles.

Dispatches from Madrid state that the Portuguese government has granted to France, in the guise of the Portuguese Air Traffic Company, a concession for 30 years, exclusive right to fly from, over or land on Portuguese territory. This concession is said to include the Azores and Cape Verdes.

As Portugal is one of the jumping-off places for either North or South American flights, and as in the present stage of heavier-than-air craft the Azores and Cape Verdes are almost imperatively necessary as landing places in developing trans-Atlantic traffic, it is charged that France has secured for herself a practical monopoly of trans-ocean plane traffic.

It is declared that the American minister at Lisbon, Fred Morris Dearing, has entered a strong protest. It is expected that this will be followed by similar protests from Germany, Spain and Italy.

SETS NEW AIR SPEED RECORD

JACKSONVILLE BEACH, Fla., Feb. 19.—(AP.)—Lee Schoenhair, veteran pilot of Akron, O., yesterday shattered the world's airplane speed record for distances of 100 and 500 kilometers with an added weight of 500 kilograms, equal to 1,102 pounds.

In establishing a new record for 100 kilometers, equivalent to approximately 62 miles, Schoenhair negotiated the course at an average speed of 185.452 miles an hour. This exceeded by 10.79 miles an hour the former record of 174.662 established by Fernand Lasne at Etamps, France, October 7, 1925.

Schoenhair's average speed over the 500-kilometer course with the same added weight was 171.228 miles an hour, which surpassed by 12.572 miles an hour the former record of 158.656 set by Capt. H. S. Broad at Stag Island, Reading, England, April 27, 1928.

He expects to make attempts tomorrow to break the present records over a 1,000-kilometer course with 500 kilograms added weight and over 100, 500 and 1,000-kilometer courses carrying 1,000 kilograms, equivalent to 2,204 pounds.

ILEANA'S COUNT INVESTIGATED

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Feb. 19.—(AP.)—The Rumanian government is investigating the antecedents of Count Von Hochberg, fiance of Princess Ileana, and is seeking further information about him.

Premier Juliu Maniu told newspaper correspondents yesterday that if anything was found reflecting dishonor upon the count, the government would intervene and advise against the maintenance of the engagement.

Meanwhile, the peasant leader said, the wedding of the two has been postponed. His statement was made apparently in answer to reports current here that the engagement, which the princess announced some weeks ago, has been broken off definitely. It was made after a lengthy conference with Queen Marie, mother of the princess.

General expectation is that annulment of the engagement will be announced when Queen Marie and the princess have returned from a trip to Egypt and the eastern Mediterranean.

Elizabeth Township Reduces Tax Rate

Taxes were reduced from 7½ to 7 mills for 1930 at a meeting of the Elizabeth Township Board of Commissioners held last night in the Buena Vista Municipal Building.

Way, a member of the Youghiogheny River Improvement Association, presented a report of a recent meeting of directors at West Newton. Commissioners Norman F. Walter, James Ransick, Jacob Eichler, Robert W. Gibson, A. G. Rothey, D. C. Muse and Way attended last night's session.

NUMBER 15 OF A SERIES

This Bank Believes in LIFE INSURANCE

Perhaps you have never summed up all the reasons why you should carry life insurance. There may be many of which you have not thought.

As this bank sells no life insurance, you may be interested in getting a disinterested opinion from it on various aspects of the insurance question.

We are publishing, as one of our "Prosperity Handbooks," one entitled "What Life Insurance Will do for you." We do this because we are interested in assisting our depositors, and others, in stabilizing their estates. And also because life insurance is such an important factor in the life plans of everyone who has dependents.

You may be surprised, even startled, when you read this Handbook, by the realization of what jeopardy some of your interests may be in if you do not carry sufficient life insurance.

Ask at Window Number 7 for "Handbook Number 10." While there, if you indicate the wish, you may also receive a leaflet describing all of our sixteen "Prosperity Handbooks,"—each one a pocket guide on some aspect of personal or home finance.

What a Difference Just a Few Dollars Make

An analysis of comparative furniture values will quickly and easily distinguish between the furniture designed for "newspaper sales" and furniture sincerely intended to contribute to the living and decorative qualities of cultured homes.

The difference in dollars between the two is so slight that anyone who can afford the one, can afford the other.

One has only to step into the Horne Furniture division, which covers an entire floor of two buildings and part of a third, to realize and appreciate that the qualities here are those for people who are earnestly striving to make their homes more attractive and comfortable.

The February Furniture Sale Makes It All So Easy

With the February discounts applied to the greater part of these stocks, most of which are well within the moderate and popular price range, and with the privilege of deferred payments which may be readily adapted to one's budget program, there is no excuse for not having the best that good taste and honest construction can provide.

You CAN afford Horne furniture, and never so well as at this time! Let the February price tickets prove it to you!

These two lengths in soft, washable suede, are shown in black and the pastel beiges at $3.95 and $6.00. The 4-button length in doeskin at $4.50. In white or yellow doeskin, at $2.95.

Handkerchiefs

In the New Small Prints

Tiny, old-fashioned prints, in polka dot, bouquet, and old paisley patterns . . . distinguish all the new handkerchiefs. The designs are new . . . the colors are new . . . they are just the 'kerchiefs to carry with the first of your spring suits and frocks!

Some two and three-tone color harmonies . . . embroidered scalloped edges or hand-rolled hems . . . with white or colored borders. 50c each.

The Pin Dot Is New—

So Is the Coat Dress

—And these two features of the new mode unite to launch for the Tailor-Type section, a new spring success!

Practically all of the Paris couturiers are showing the small dot in their spring collections. And the coat dress has been definitely brought back by none less than Patou, Vionnet and Chanel.

In these dresses, the fabric is silk crepe in black, navy blue or brown, with white dots . . . And they are enlivened by touches of white or beige, by way of collars and vestees. In both fabric and style, they typify the simple good taste for which Tailor-Type always stands. In sizes 34 to 44.

Three models will be introduced tomorrow, all at the one moderate price—

There should be a rush for them, while they last . . . for bridge prizes and favors, and for your own personal use.

... Horne's, Main Floor ...

It's Covert

That Is So Popular Now in the Tailored Ensembles

This popularity is occasioned partly because the white-flecked type of fabrics is going to be especially important this spring . . . Partly because covert is sufficiently light of weight to make a suit of it wearable now under a coat . . . and partly because the chic, little, short jackets which we are featuring in the new suits, look particularly snappy in this fabric.

We've had it made in suit-ensembles with straight or flared jackets, with pleated or flared skirts, and silk tuck-in blouses which match the tone of the covert in each instance.

. . . In oxford gray, navy, dark green or brown. And in a range of sizes, 14 to 44 . . . Especially featured at two prices—

... Horne's, Second Floor ...

Sleeveless Dresses

Of Sheer, Medium Weight or Heavy Cotton Materials

$3.45

Attractive little frocks for every phase of home wear . . . and lovely enough for porch wear in warmer weather. These frocks contain the same materials that were used in many of our more expensive dresses . . . but the maker used his surplus of these fabrics to make this particular group for us. In the selection are frocks of

Pique Swiss
Handkerchief Linen
Heavy Linen
Batiste Gingham
Novel Weaves

Plain colors, prints, and plain colors with print trimming . . . all in full-skirted, well-tailored models. Delicate pastel shades and many deeper colors are numbered among these washable frocks. Sizes 14 to 42 in the selection.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—(AP)—The story of a 21-year struggle against the handicap of blindness and of an effort to continue the practice of law through the assistance of his wife was related today by Senator Thomas D. Schall of Minnesota.

He said the first thing every man who loses his sight thinks of is to quit and that if it had not been for the "love and the tender understading of my brilliant little helpmate and classmate I think I would have quit."

Because of ACIDITY

Think of those restless nights and loggy days you experience. Think of those "headachy" afternoons and those spells of "nerves" and despondency that come on you and make you feel "what's the use." Acidity does more than cause acid-indigestion, with sourness, burning and gassy fullness. It sets up fermentation and putrefaction in the gastro-intestinal canal, which steal your "pep," aggravate your nerves and make you so restless at night that you can't sleep.

Magnesia Oxoids, a marvelous new acid-corrective, discovered in Germany, deals with acidity in the right way! Upon contact with the acid in the stomach, Magnesia Oxoids generate nascent, or active, oxygen. The "live" oxygen stimulates the alkaline gastric mucus, checks putrefaction in the gastro-intestinal canal and stimulates the activities of the intestinal walls, which aids the natural movement of the bowels. All three effects are necessary to the true correction of acidity.

5-Day Acidity Test

To see just how "acid" you are, make this test. Get a package of Magnesia Oxoids from Dow Drug Co. or any other good druggist. Take two after each meal for five days and see how much better you feel—how much more soundly you sleep and how much more energy you have. If the results don't more than amaze you, return the balance of the Oxoids to the druggist and he will refund your money promptly and in full. AP1

New Feature Makes Debut On Radio Tonight

By DARRELL V. MARTIN, Sun-Telegraph Radio Editor

KING DOUGH DOUGH is the central figure in a new series of programs to be inaugurated over WCAE at 8 o'clock tonight. Dough Dough in this case is a smugboy not an income tax collector, so you'd probably like him. He's the creation of James A. Simpson, the same "Jim" who stages our radio show over [illegible]

MITZI TO BROADCAST

When Miss Ha[illegible] better known as "Mitzi" comes to the Nixon next week [illegible] she will broadcast to the East [illegible] Budapest, KDKA.

She will talk for five minutes after which the Hungarian orchestra and other principals in the play will entertain for half an hour. A chorus will sing the quaint folksong "Ha-za-za."

The program will go on the air Tuesday February 25 at 11:30 p. m. which will be 5:30 a. m. February 26 in Budapest.

Ray Harris, Register of Wills Office—Fannie Brice is Hebrew. Her maiden name was Borach. She was born on the East Side, New York, on October 29, 1891.

Georgia Wharry of Bellevue, friend of dogs, has a beagle hound that pays strict attention when she speaks over the air. The fact that "Teddy" knows "his master's voice" is attributed to ears eight inches long.

"When I started taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I could hardly do my housework. I was so nervous and weak from Change of Life that I had to lie down very often. I heard about the Vegetable Compound through a pamphlet which was left at my door. I am doing all the housework for a family of four and it keeps me on my feet. I have taken six bottles and I have gained strength and flesh."—Minnie E. Hicks.

An Unexpected Sale of FROST KING Refrigerators

A Solid Carload of 75-Pound-Capacity Refrigerators Made by One of the Country's Largest, Best-Known and Most Reliable Manufacturers—Offered at a Great Saving

$25.95 $27.95

You'll Like These Refrigerators, Because:

—They are all seamless porcelain enamel lined and absolutely sanitary.

—They are 46 inches high, 18 inches deep, and 33 inches wide.

This sale will take you by surprise! Refrigerator sales in February are decidedly uncommon. But we believe that people WILL buy refrigerators in February if the inducement is strong enough, if the value is extraordinary enough—just as they buy furs in August.

In this case the incentive for buying at this time could not be more appealing. The sale prices are far removed from the price levels at which these refrigerators regularly sell. And our convenient plan of payment will lend added appeal to many, especially to those who had not planned to buy a refrigerator until later in the spring.

If you are not well posted on refrigerator prices, it will pay you to investigate. You will find that now is the time to buy, if low price and great savings appeal to you.

P. & W. VA. TRAIN CUT OPPOSED

More than 50 residents of Avella, Hickory, Carnegie and other points along the line of the Pittsburgh and West Virginia railroad appeared before the Pennsylvania Public Service Commission at a hearing today to protest against the proposed of the railroad to discontinue passenger trains between Pittsburgh and Avella.

During the discussion before Commissioner Samuel Walker the fact developed that the West Penn Power Company has applications before the commission for permits to operate bus lines between Pittsburgh and Avella on highways practically paralleling the railroad.

"In the event the railroad abandons its passenger service the bus line will provide passenger vehicles every 15 minutes during the peak hours of traffic," said Attorney Edward O. Taber, counsel for the West Penn lines. "At other times it is proposed to provide an hourly service."

Attorneys who lately had been brought into the case asked for more time to study the situation and the hearing was postponed until March 19.

CHURCH APPEAL SENT HOOVER

NEW YORK, Feb. 19 (INS)—President Hoover was asked today to protect religion from attack by Russian Soviets in a letter forwarded him by Arthur J. Brown, president of the Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions on behalf of the American Committee on Religious Rights and Minorities.

Protesting against the denial of the right of religious freedom in Russia and declaring that "persecutions" in the Soviet country have shocked the moral sense of the world, the letter, in a resolution embodied in its text, asked that the President refuse to recognize Soviet Russia until its anti-religious campaign ceases.

At the same time 81,000,000 Lutherans throughout the world were asked by Dr. John A. Morehead, president of the Lutheran world convention, to set aside March 2 as a special day of prayer for Russian Christians.

A statement issued by the American Jewish Congress denounced the "unspeakable repression of religion in Russia and pledged co-operation with other faiths in a campaign to end the atrocities in Soviet Russia."

2 VETS' BODIES EXCHANGED

CHICAGO, Feb. 19 (INS)—The bodies of two World War veterans who succumbed to battle wounds after 11 years were being exchanged today by two towns 600 miles apart. An undertaker had mistaken the bodies and sent them to the wrong towns for burial.

In Murphysboro, Ill., members of the American Legion had gathered to bestow the last rites upon their comrade, William F. Wagner, 40, who died in Edward Hines, Jr., Memorial Hospital here.

In Urichsville, O., another group paid homage to John W. Phillips at a burial ceremony. He also died in the government hospital here.

Both widows, looking upon the open caskets fainted upon seeing the face of a stranger. Services were thrown into confusion. Quiet was restored and an investigation launched.

It was learned that a Chicago undertaker, to whom the bodies had been sent, dispatched the body of Wagner to Ohio and that of Phillips to Murphysboro.

State Industrial Accidents Increase

HARRISBURG, Feb. 19 (AP)—An appreciable increase in the number of accidents occurring in Pennsylvania industries was noted in January in reports to the State Bureau of Workmen's Compensation, the bureau announced today. One hundred and eighty-three persons lost their lives in accidents, an increase of 22 over January, 1929. The total number of accidents, 14,290, represented a 3.5 per cent increase over the total of a year ago.

If you are NOT yourself

Are you being denied the happiness that is due you in life?

IT is easy to abuse our golden life-given body, but Nature has a way of signaling danger. If heeded, graver troubles may be avoided. That tired, exhausted feeling, lack of appetite, aches and pains, flabby flesh, skin troubles—all speak of a body weakness—a lack of the normal count of red-blood-cells.

Without plenty of rich, red blood there would be no strong, sturdy, powerful men, or healthy, beautiful women.

So, if you are not yourself, look to the red-blood-cells to give you sturdy health.

Every normal person's blood should contain about 5,000,000 red corpuscles to the cubic millimeter—those vitalizing, tiny red-cells which give blood its color and are carriers of nourishment to every part of the body. It is dangerous to let the red blood count remain below normal.

With an increase in the red-blood-cells, you will be on the right road to Health. This is Nature's way to body power and to clear skin. Naturally, with your strength restored, it is easier to fight disease and infection; to enjoy your food and to sleep soundly. When firm flesh takes the place of that which was once flabby, you will feel strong—your nerves will become steady—more happiness and friends will follow.

S.S.S.

Makes You Feel Like Yourself Again

S.S.S. has been a blessing to millions of people

It helps Nature increase the red-blood-cells. It promotes healthy body building.

S.S.S. will not work wonders over night—no restorative medicine can do that—but, be assured, that when taken according to directions full and satisfactory benefit will usually ensue.

S.S.S. is time-tested and has a successful record of over 100 years back of it.

S.S.S. is made from strictly fresh vegetable drugs, gathered at the proper season of the year. It is easily assimilated. Pleasant to take. You owe it to yourself to try S.S.S. It is on sale at all drug stores in two sizes. Ask for the larger size. It is more economical.

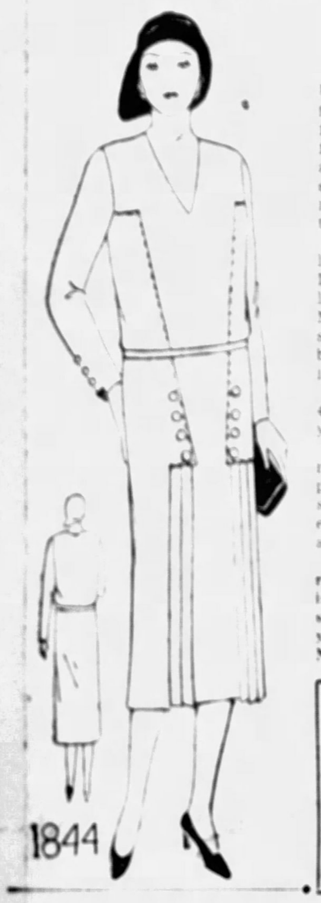
Slenderizing the Large Figure

Pattern 1844

Sun-Telegraph 15c Practical Pattern

By ANNE ADAMS



The woman of more ample proportions will welcome this smart frock because of the slimming effect created by the long slender front panel. Skirt fullness is achieved with narrow pleats inserted in the front skirt. The belt is very narrow and does not detract from the length-giving lines.

Pattern 1844 would be extremely lovely fashioned of flat crepe. Dark colors should be chosen as light ones accentuate the figure. Navy blue is the outstanding spring shade with dark green, black and very deep purple next in importance.

Designed for sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46. Size 36 requires 3¼ yards of 40-inch material.

No dressmaking experience is necessary to make this model. The pattern has ample and exact instructions. Yardage is given for every size. A perfect fit is guaranteed.

Patterns will be delivered upon receipt of FIFTEEN CENTS (15c) in coins carefully wrapped or stamps. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, STYLE NUMBER and SIZE wanted.

OUR NEW SPRING BOOK of PATTERN STYLES is now ready. Price FIFTEEN CENTS, but only TEN CENTS when ordered with a pattern. Address all mail and orders to Sun-Telegraph Pattern Department, 243 West Seventeenth street, New York City.

Dr. N. Weiss is one of the many doctors who have broken the usual silence of the profession, to state publicly that Flaxolyn is a health discovery of rare merit! "Flaxolyn is a splendid formula, containing ingredients of which I approve," he says.

"After thorough trial, I am glad to recommend Vitaminized Flaxolyn. In the cases where I have prescribed it, keen appetite, restful sleep and normal bowel action have been quick to follow. Flaxolyn is also an excellent stimulant to the liver.

"Few people really know what it is to feel 100% physically fit all the time. But Flaxolyn is here to help bring about that happy condition."

Make Every Day of Your Life More Worth Living

2 PASTORS HELD IN RUM CASE

ELDORADO, Ark., Feb. 19.—(AP.)—Four men, two of them Negroes, and three of them ministers, were arrested in a raid in which officers said the most complete distilling plant ever seen in this country was confiscated.

The Rev. Ed Farley and the Rev. Albert Bogg, both of whom officers said were ministers of the Holiness faith, and Roy Dennis, Negro Baptist minister, were charged with operating a still.

Dennis officers said, after being put in a cell, began to exhort the other prisoners to righteousness.

The still, the officers said, was located in a ravine 12 miles north of Eldorado and was flanked on either side by vats containing approximately 1,000 gallons of mash. A 200-gallon still was brought here while officers said they destroyed 15 barrels of liquor and the mash.

BUS CONTROL BILL READY

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—(INS.)—After a two-year controversy, the House Interstate Commerce Committee may report a bill for federal regulation of interstate bus lines this week, it was disclosed by committee members today.

The chief features of the bill have been agreed upon, it was said. It requires certificates or permits for operation from the Interstate Commerce Commission. Lines seeking to operate in two states only would be referred to a joint board of utility commissioners of the two states, while special federal examiners would hear applications involving three or more states. All bus lines would be required to carry liability insurance and the commission would be given control of rates.

Council to Hear Kenna 'Gift' Plaint

The erection of a gasoline station that closes Brosius way by E. M. Kenna was to be aired at a public hearing in Council this afternoon. The hearing was demanded by residents of the neighborhood after Council made a tentative agreement with Kenna to provide steps four feet wide.

The hillside down which the way runs cannot be graded, according to Director of Public Works Edward G. Lang, although in a report to Council he states Kenna did not ask permission to erect the station over the alley. The way never has been opened by the city.

In February, 1928, Dr. Spanos, after pleading guilty, was fined for issuing prescriptions without sufficient physical examination.

She Lost 19 Pounds of Fat in 27 Days

During October a woman in Montana wrote: "My first bottle of Kruschen Salts lasted almost 4 weeks and during that time I lost 19 pounds of fat—Kruschen is all you claim for it—I feel better than I have for years."

Here's the recipe that banishes fat and brings into blossom all the natural attractiveness that every woman possesses.

Every morning take one-half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water before breakfast.

Be sure and do this every morning for it's the daily dose that takes off the fat—just a quarter a morning. The Kruschen Salts make that every pore of your poisonous waste matter and harmful acids and gases are expelled from the system.

At the same time the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels are toned up and the pure, fresh blood containing Nature's own life-giving salts are carried to every organ, gland, nerve and fibre of the body and then is followed by that Kruschen feeling of perfect health and activity that is reflected in bright eyes, clear skin, cheerful disposition and buoyant health.

If you want to lose fat with speed get an 8-oz. bottle of Kruschen Salts from Mays & Liggett's Drug Stores or any live druggist anywhere in America with the distinct understanding that you must be satisfied with results or money back.

DANDRUFF

A Sure Way to End It

There is one sure way that has never failed to remove dandruff at once, and that is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid arvon from any drug store (that is all you will need), apply it at night when retiring, use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning most if not all of your dandruff will be gone, and two or three more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single, last sign of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

STORE BANDITS SEIZE WHISKY, DRUGS

SIDE WALKS of PITTSBURGH

by WILLIAM PFARR

CARNEGIE HALL had been recently built and there was need to test the acoustics. What better arrangement, then, than to have the famed actress who happened to be in Pittsburgh lift her voice in that auditorium? Escorted by prominent citizens and followed by newspapermen, she went to the stage of the hall.

"What shall I sing?" she asked.

"Why not the 'Star-Spangled Banner?'" somebody suggested.

"Yes, but I don't know the words."

A tall, broad-shouldered young newspaperman who even then was beginning to assume the mantle of dignity stepped from the ranks and offered the soloist the words. That was the first meeting of Lillian Russell and Alexander P. Moore.

Harry Laufman, of the Heinz Company, who was associated with Mr. Moore as a newspaperman, tells another story of him. Mr. Moore's close friend, Roosevelt, came to Pittsburgh during a hot summer month on one of his campaign tours. Roosevelt complained of the heat.

"Let's go over to Kaufmann's and get you a suit like mine," Moore suggested.

They did. And Edgar Kaufmann bestowed upon the one-time President a Palm Beach suit which cost about $10. Roosevelt wore the suit throughout the campaign.

THERE is the incident which occured during the days of Dr. Munyon, the gentleman of patent-medicine fame, who was a friend of Moore's. Moore went from Pittsburgh to New York to see Miss Russell, who was then Mrs. Moore.

He went straight to the clerk at the Waldorf with this order: "Get President Roosevelt for me on the long distance, telephone Miss Russell that I'm here and page Dr. Munyon."

The clerk eyed the visitor suspiciously and whispered to the house detective that here was a man who would disturb the nation's great. For 15 minutes the Pittsburgher was shadowed while he waited impatiently for results. Finally he made himself known to the clerk, and there were gracious apologies.

Mr. Moore will not soon be forgotten. He was not a man to unbend easily to new acquaintances, but there are many to attest to his geniality once the formalities were disposed of. First as the husband of Lillian Russell and later in his own right he became known over the nation. He was one of the city's outstanding hosts to visitors. One of the long-remembered receptions is that of John L. Sullivan. Hundreds passed into Mr. Moore's office to shake hands with the heavyweight champion.

POSSIBLY because Mr. Moore's was a swift-moving career which carried him over the world into contact with persons of varied dispositions, many are surprised to hear that he never indulged in liquor, or even milder intoxicants. As a boy he promised his mother he would abstain, and in this connection Congressman Stephen G. Porter tells a story.

Moore, then ambassador to Spain, and Porter, his guest, were attending a bull fight in Madrid. During an intermission, a Spanish nobleman escorted the Americans on an inspection of the bull pens. Moore complained of thirst, and a member of the party rustled off to bring back a glass of red-tinted fluid, which was later identified as a mild punch.

Moore whispered to Porter, "Do you think there's any alcohol in this?"

Porter said he didn't know. The ambassador made a gesture of sipping the drink, out of deference to the Spaniards, and then laid it aside.

Father Insists on Meeting Chickie's Friends

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Chickie Bryce is attending business college when the story opens. Arthur Sontag, a classmate, takes her to a dance and she confides to her friend, Mary Blake, that the avenues of romance are opening to her. Mary and Chickie blandly discuss love and marriage. Chickie thinks it will be all kisses and "walking on the mountain tops with her lover by her side." She forgets Arthur in the excitement of getting a position in an office. One of her co-workers there is Janina Knowles. Through Janina she meets Jake Munson, a rich and attractive bachelor. Mary suddenly marries a poor young chemist, much to Chickie's regret. Jimmy Blake, Mary's brother, begs Chickie to marry him, but without success. Chickie is attracted to a handsome young man who smiles at her from the window of another office. Chickie goes to a party given by Munson, against her father's protest. Janina introduces Barry Dunne, the young man Chickie had seen at the window. Chickie is thrilled, then horrified and alarmed when Janina tells her it's an all-night party.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XIII.

LEADEN pallor sucked the color from Chickie's skin as she realized that Janina was not joking, that Jake's party was to be an all-night affair. Janina tapped her foot impatiently. "Phone your house and tell them you're all right. Tell them we're going yachting tomorrow—all over the bay. Lord! They can't expect you to miss that, can they? Do they want you to rot?"

When Chickie stood there speechless, pressing her finger into the corner of her eye, Janina bit her lips. "Come out of it, Chickie! Where do you get this mid-Victorian stuff anyway? They'll roar the first time, of course. They'll get used to it. You don't mean to say you'll miss that trip tomorrow, do you?"

She went down to the sideboard, where Red was vigorously shaking some mysterious concoction in a Mason jar. She spoke to him, shrugging, half angrily, toward Chickie. He handed her the jar and, filling a sherbet glass with a wonderful golden drink, came to Chickie. "Here's to the Blessed Damozel and the lilies in her hand."

She gave him a vague, misty smile, and smiling because she was so near to tears, looked into the glass. He pressed her hand softly. "What's the matter? Janina says you aren't happy. Why?"

"Are we really to stay here all night, Mr. Dunne?"

Leaves Party

Barry Borrows Auto to Take Chickie Home

Her glass shook, the delicate liquor spattered on the beautiful maroon dress. He wiped it swiftly, dried her hands on his handkerchief and expecting a smile, saw her eyes suddenly fill, then close sharply.

"Now, look here, Miss Bryce—why are you doing that?"

Putting her hand quickly in his, she said impulsively, "I have to get home. Oh, would you take me home?"

Without waiting for an answer she tore her coat from the chair. His face darkened.

"You want to go home?"

With the tears running down her face she said, "Yes! Oh, yes."

When he stood there hesitant she threw out her hand in a frantic little gesture and darted across the room. She ran down the steps, stood bewildered and half blinded in a pit of darkness. He pulled her arm.

"Look here, Miss Bryce; we can't do this—"

She ran not heeding, dashing her feet against the scattering pebbles. Suddenly he took hold of her arm, whispered roughly, "All right, then! but how'll we do it?" He stood a moment hesitating. "Jake's got a flivver, I think—in the garage—we'll commandeer that."

She waited breathless while Barry got out a small runabout. Almost automatically she seated herself beside him. They rolled through the grounds into the highway.

Suddenly her mind flashed a

$170 TAKEN FROM TWO REGISTERS

Trio Hold Customers at Bay and Take Valuables; Escape in Automobile

Three armed bandits entered the Bryant Pharmacy at 5801 Bryant street and, after holding four persons, including a woman, at bay, escaped with $178, four cases of whisky, a quantity of narcotics and other merchandise this morning.

Samuel Wasser, son of the proprietor, had locked the doors shortly after midnight when P. Finch, of 1161 King avenue, a customer, appeared. Wasser admitted Finch, who had just stepped into the store when the bandit trio walked in and, flourishing revolvers, ordered Finch, Wasser and the latter's wife, Mrs. Bess Wasser, to throw up their hands.

SEARCH VICTIMS

After looting two cash registers of a total of $170, the thugs searched the victims and took $4 from Finch and a purse from Mrs. Wasser. The robbers then ordered the three into a rear room. Wasser was forced to open a cupboard where the whisky was stored. After the four cases of liquor were taken out, one of the thugs looted a drawer where the drugs were kept.

While the bandits were preparing to cart away the liquor, Mrs. Wasser slipped a wedding ring from her finger and dropped it to the floor.

LATE COMER ROBBED

The men were about to leave the store when M. Shuetzman, of 1142 North Negley avenue, another customer, walked in. He, too, was ordered to throw up his hands and relieved of $4.

Fleeing from the store, the robbers scooped up several boxes of candy and face powder from the counter. They carried their loot into an old automobile and escaped.

P. R. R. OPPOSES BUS PERMIT

Vigorous protest has been lodged before Examiner W. E. Best, of the Public Service Commission, by the Pennsylvania Railroad, against the application of the Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company to parallel its Monongahela car route with busses.

The motor coach company has asked for certificates to do a group and party service from Castle Shannon to Finleyville, Donora, Charleroi, Monongahela and California.

When asked at a hearing yesterday for the proposed bus line if such permission would not put the motor coach company in the position of competing with its own car line, the Pittsburgh Railways Company general manager, W. T. Noonan, answered in the negative.

The Monongahela Valley Bus Company operating 21 buses to various Monongahela points, also opposed the application.

The Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company's plan to operate through buses to California by way of Donora and Charleroi is also being opposed by the Pennsylvania Railroad.

WIFE'S DEATH CLAIM HELD UP

Robert Sikorski, alias Fisher, of Pittsburgh, who died from injuries sustained nearly a year ago while a prisoner in the county jail, did not support his wife and had not lived with her for several months previous to his death, the Allegheny County Commissioners learned yesterday.

A report was made to the board after Fisher's wife, who lives at 4610 Plumer street, applied through counsel for compensation for her husband's death. The matter was held over.

The victim was sentenced to a term in the county jail last September following conviction on a larceny charge in connection with the robbery of the Pennsylvania produce terminal here. While cleaning on a scaffold he fell and suffered fatal injuries.

Fall From Derrick Fatal to Workman

Falling from a derrick at the South Side plant of the Jones & Laughlin Steel Corporation yesterday, Wallace Reddinger, 31, of 93 Excelsior street, a rigger, sustained injuries that resulted in his death a few minutes later. Taken to the South Side Hospital, the victim was pronounced dead on arrival.

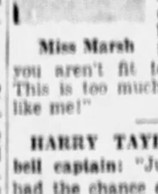
The Camera Question Box

The Sun-Telegraph's "Camera Question Box" each day will ask a question of public interest to Pittsburghers and will photograph those interviewed.

Today's question: Would humanization of the prisons take from them disciplinary and preventive effectiveness?

LENORE MARSH, Oakland, bookkeeper: "Yes. You'll make them less feared. If criminals can live better in prison than they do when they're at large, they won't be afraid of committing a crime for which they may go to jail. I don't think they should be humanized more than to make living conditions clean and wholesome. Luxury will never be regarded as punishment. Of course, when you haven't experienced something you aren't fit to talk about it. This is too much for a little girl like me!"

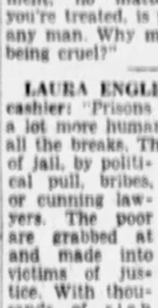


Miss Marsh

HARRY TAYLOR, Hazelwood, bell captain: "Just recently, I've had the chance of inspecting Atlanta penitentiary and Western penitentiary. Atlanta is clean, humanely managed, fairly pleasant; the conditions at the Pittsburgh institution are far worse, aren't fit for humans. Both places are overcrowded. I'll bet that Western pen turns out more bitter criminals than Atlanta ever will. Western teaches them not to get caught again. Atlanta teaches them to live straight.

Harry Taylor

A. DE MARCILLAC, Dormont: "Humanization of the prisons can be carried too far, of course. But, on the whole, I don't see why any man should be forced to live in a pig pen, even if he has committed a crime. Criminals are sent to jail for several reasons. I guess the best is to protect society from further crimes at their hand. Another is to teach them a lesson. A third is to show other criminals that it's not the best of policy to get caught in a misdeed. Confinement, no matter how nicely you're treated, is pretty tough for any man. Why make it worse by being cruel?"

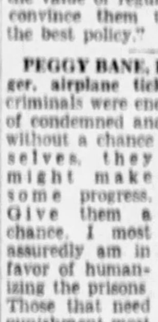


A. de Marcillac

LAURA ENGLERT, Overbrook, cashier: "Prisons should be made a lot more humane. The rich get all the breaks. They can stay out of jail, by political pull, bribes, or cunning lawyers. The poor are grabbed at and made into victims of justice. With thousands of rich criminals at large and committing more and more crimes daily, why should we treat the poor who are unfortunate enough to get caught as though they were dogs? Man will always fear prison, no matter how decently he is treated. Nobody wants to look out through iron bars, even if they're sitting on silk cushions, eating caviar."

Miss Englert

MINERVA SCHLADENHAUFEN, North Side, reservation clerk: "If jail was humanized and criminals treated right, they might try to better themselves and see the wisdom of leading the right sort of lives. Of course, there are lots of tramps and others who would like to spend all their time in jail—they think. But when the time comes, they discover it isn't as nice as they thought. Humanized prisons would teach convicts a trade by which they could earn a living; they would teach them the value of regular life; it would convince them that honesty is the best policy."



Miss Schladenhaufen

PEGGY BANE, East End, manager, airplane ticket agency: "If criminals were encouraged instead of condemned and thrown in jail without a chance to better themselves, they might make some progress. Give them a chance. I most assuredly am in favor of humanizing the prisons. Those that need punishment most are powerful enough to evade it. But little girls turned out of their homes to make a living are outcasts from society the minute they stray from the beaten path, lured by the call of easy money. We give them no chance to make good; the bootlegger, however, and the racketeer, aren't given much of a chance to be punished.

Miss Bane

HUFF IS NAMED TO STATE POST

Tree Purchase for County Park Authorized

County Parks Director Paul B. Riis was given permission yesterday by the Board of County Commissioners to purchase several hundred sapling trees for South Park without the formality of advertising for bids.

The order will be distributed among nurseries in Iowa, New York and Ohio. None was for $300 or over, the limit permitted without asking for bids.

Controller Robert Woodside recently refused to pass the purchase order submitted by Riis through Paul Verosky, purchasing agent for Allegheny County, on the grounds it was asserted, that the order should have been given to one bidder rather than to a group and that it should have been advertised.

It was explained to the commissioners that the feasibility of such an idea was impracticable. The order had to be distributed because, Riis explained, no single nursery has the complete selection of saplings wanted.

Mail Carrier, Hurt In Fall, Succumbs

Samuel Markowitz, 31, of 873 Eleventh avenue extension, Munhall, died last night in the Marine Hospital from a fractured skull suffered yesterday morning when he fell from an embankment off Ravine street, Munhall, into the Munhall creek, according to a morgue report. Will Rogers Says:

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif., Feb. 19.—

YOU would have thought it was a presidential year. The hearty welcome California gave to "cantankarious Calvin" and "Gracious Grace," and I am certainly going to see that he don't make the mistake of not shaking hands with Hiram Johnson, or even anything that looks like Hiram.

I haven't seen him myself yet. Am waiting till he gets rid of this mess of Republican politicians who are trying to kid him, (fat chance they got). I have some news for him from his friend Morrow in London. He is not going to make any speeches while here, and so I hereby offer my services to him as pinch hitter on any and all oratorical occasions. The service is gratis. Which might be an inducement.

Yours,

HOME-MADE LIGHTNING DOING WHAT MEN WANT IT TO DO

LOUISE O'ROURKE EXAMINING LIGHTNING'S WORK

LIGHTNING BOLT INVENTED HERE

Synthetic lightning is the latest stock-in-trade of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company.

So obedient is it, in fact, that it will go around corners, shape itself into letters, jump insulators, and burn wires in million-volt quantities.

The docility of an artificially generated electrical surge was demonstrated last night to a large gathering of members of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers and the Engineers Society of Western Pennsylvania. They met at the East Pittsburgh plant of the Westinghouse company.

In an open-ended triangle formed by three buildings an apparatus mounted on a big tractor poked into the air. Nearby stood Julius J. Torok and Walter Roman, research engineers. With the handle of a broom-stick they pushed a button.

A bluish flash leaped along a 15-foot wire, a bright W shaped in a frame, and night closed in again.

The button, pushed again, brought forth forked lightning jumping a huge insulator. Flash after crackling flash lit the darkness for a split-second, splintering a telephone pole supporting the insulators, splitting blocks of wood.

The flash lasts one-millionth of a second, is immediately followed by a sharp, penetrating crack as of a high-powered rifle.

The apparatus was produced by the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company as a means of developing lightning-proof apparatus to protect electric transmission lines. It is the first time electrical surges of this kind have ever been generated outside of a laboratory.

Pittsburgh Fire Losses Up $300,000

Fire losses in Pittsburgh during 1929 totaled $300,000 more than the losses for 1928, according to figures compiled by the Bureau of Fire. Of the total damage, which amounted to nearly $1,500,000 in 1929, about $300,000 was caused in three major fires, Fire Chief Richard L. Smith said.

Chief Smith declared the increase in 1929 due to annexations to the city and to 15 per cent more fires. The report also shows that last year city fire companies responded to 2,008 alarms: 2,360 still alarms, 26 second alarms, 14 third alarms, three fourth alarms and one fifth alarm. December had the greatest fire loss, with $320,452.62.

Search was being made by the agents today for the owner of a 300-gallon still which was seized in a raid on a bakery at 6 Chestnut street, Carnegie, it was reported. Fifty gallons of moonshine and 35 barrels of mash also were found in the place, it was said.

Edwin Smith, 36, was released on his own recognizance, following a raid on his home at 1808 Forbes street, where 120 bottles of home brew were confiscated, according to the agents' report.

CHICKIE

Thinks She Will Lose Their Friendship

Safe now on the way home, relieved of her deadly fear, the baldness of her flight stood forth in a chill, dismaying light.

Dashed off, not waiting to bid them farewell—as though they were monsters—what would they think? She had outraged their hospitality like an insane person. Her thought cowered.

Barry Dunne, sitting next to her, his hat off, smoked meditatively as though he were alone. His profile was sharply toward her—non-committal. He took long puffs at his cigaret, exhaling slowly, blowing the smoke upward as he drove.

She waited for him to speak and grew miserable when he remained fixed in silence. Finally she said, "I'm sorry to spoil your fun."

"What was the big idea?"

"I had to get home! I can't stay out all night without a moment's notice. If I phoned at 12 o'clock and said I wasn't coming home my father would think I'd lost my mind."

"Didn't you know we were to stay when we started?"

"No."

"Every one else did."

She let her hands drop in her lap, folded. A wave of pity swept her. She was ridiculous. It wasn't fair in Jonathan to ask so much. Other girls could have phoned. They wouldn't be forced to miss a glorious cruise over the bay. But she must give up the glad pleasure. She must do an absurd, unheard-of thing. They would never ask her anywhere again. No one would.

Barry Not Angry
Says He Went to Party To Meet Chickie

Night after night she would sit at home with Jonathan reading his paper; Jennie rocking or sewing in her little squat chair.

And this happy, young fellow from across the alley who had given her such delightful shivers of excitement with his gay flirting. Of course that was finished, too.

She was unaware of the white delicacy of her face turned toward him and the sheer beauty of her long, slender lines. But Barry Dunne, intently alert, felt her soft, wistful grace stir poignantly through every fiber.

For weeks her face with its corn-gold hair had made pictures at the window for him. She was a vision for poetry, drawing him like some mysterious perfume.

Now, sitting next to her, seeing the black lashes of her lowered eyes, he had a sudden desire to draw her in his arms—say some kind, gracious thing.

He put a hand on hers, pressed them softly. "Listen—don't be so unhappy. Why for?"

"I don't know what you can be thinking of me. I shouldn't have ruined your day, too."

"Oh, shucks! Who cares? Don't you know I went along just to meet you?"

"You aren't angry with me?"

He laughed. "Just now I'm nearer to lov—"

"No—don't say that. I hate to hear people make fun of love the way Janina and Nicky and Jake do. They say, 'I love you,' and it doesn't mean any more than if they say, 'I see you.'"

"Ah—but when I say it to a girl like you . . ."

"As you've said it hundreds of times already?"

He gave her a quick, merry look. "So no one sweeps you off your feet with that old wind?"

Here lean back, take it easy. He stopped the car, drew her hands, but when he stooped and would have kissed her, she shook her head.

It quickened the eagerness in him. He turned her hands upward and kissed them. "Suppose I phone tomorrow, Miss Bryce. Maybe we can patch up this ruined day."

She met his eyes with a rush of spontaneous gratitude.

"I'd love that."

The night that had been so clouded with fears was now on a sudden all astar with happiness.

A girl and a man were driving up the street. They stopped, the girl got out; she walked delicately—graceful as a flower.

Tears sprang into Jennie's eyes. She said half aloud: "Ah, God be thanked!" and again, "Thanks be to God!"

Coming up the steps, a tall, fine young man holding Chickie's hand. Hushed voices—the young man's arm around Chickie's waist.

Jennie's breath stopped. The man was drawing Chickie to him, holding her. Ah—but now Chickie was shaking her head—pulling gently free.

Jennie saw that—all of it. She raised her head proudly. That Jonathan with his fears! But her daughter—her Chickie, she knew what to do. Jennie stole down the hall, quivering with exultance.

A moment later Chickie crept in noiselessly, avoiding with infinite pains the creaky boards. She heard Jonathan snore. It heartened her like a trumpet note. She closed her door softly, laughing with joy at this triumphant entrance. Asleep—the two of them—luck again.

Her door opening, Jennie with the candle; Jennie catching her in her arms, kissing the fresh, young face, wetting it with her tears. "What kept you? What kept you? It's after two. I've been waiting and waiting."

"Oh, mother! Hush! You'll wake Jonathan. It's not so late . . ." And to stop Jennie's eager tongue, Chickie rushed headlong into an ecstatic account of the evening. Whenever Jennie interrupted with, "But—" "But I don't see what kept you so long—" Chickie burst into new raptures. "It was thrilling. It was wonderful. We ate and we danced, and we ate again. And all that takes time. Oh, but I'm so tired, Jennie, darling. I'll tell you the rest in the morning."

She wasn't tired. Her nerves throbbed. Her brain was a rainbow flashing colors; her heart sang. The pins but half out of her hair, the golden mass tumbling, she paused, remembering. His arms about her like that; his clean-cut, ardent young face—ah—now she half wished she had let it happen. But, no—no—she wouldn't—not for a long time—if he should love her—truly—well, then—

Yet it was sweet to think about—sweet to close her eyes and let her dreams soar. He had been thinking of her as she had thought of him. He called her the Blessed Damozel. Why? Who was she?

Just as she was falling asleep the thought of Janina and Jake came with a chill. She turned over quickly—all that could wait.

Chickie's room was on the side of the little cottage, through its ell-window the morning sun trembled in soft yellow patches over the carpet—and it went shivering delicately across the mirror, taking a rosy glow from the cretonne drapes.

Jennie Bryce went padding from shadow to light, raising a shade, putting a tray covered with a white napkin on a table; glancing at the long, slender form, impatient, for Chickie to awake.

Chickie watched, pretending to be asleep. Jennie hadn't lost any time. Jennie would now begin her shy, eager cross-examination, sending down her questions like plummets to sound the mysterious depths of Chickie's heart.

Because her heart was clear and happy when Chickie laughed, Jennie came hurrying over to the bed, set out the tray, fussing with the sugar and cream. She was agitated. All those things Jonathan had said about the smoking and that stuck like red thorns in her flesh.

Seeing this, Chickie said flippantly: "Nice breakfast. What's biting you, sweet Jennie?"

"Chickie, that's no way for you to talk to your mother."

Laughing: "But you love it, don't you, old dear?"

Mrs. Bryce pursed her lips. She got up and poured out Chickie's coffee, sat down again.

"Was it Mr. Munson brought you home?"

"No. He was the host, of course. It was Mr. Dunne."

Jennie wet her lips, drew them in and, trying to speak carelessly, brought out her trembling question in a solemn whisper: "Chickie, do you ever kiss any of these young men?"

She didn't expect that from quiet little Jennie. She parried a moment, then threw her mother a shocked look: "Mother! Why, the idea! Such a thing to say!"

Jennie blushed: "Of course—well, I didn't think you did."

"I can't imagine why you ask. Did you kiss young men? Did you ever kiss any one but father?"

It was Jennie's turn to be alarmed. "Chickie! Why, I'm surprised!"

"Oh, my, yes! But you think it's all right to ask me!"

"I just wanted to make sure," said Jennie, accepting Chickie's evasion. "Because when I was a girl things were different. We didn't earn our own money. Why, my mother would have died before she would have given her daughter a latchkey. I never kissed your father till we were engaged . . . and only when he came and when he left."

Confident that the inquiry was over, Chickie began to tease: "Well, don't you think you're grand, Jennie! It seems to me you were mighty adventurous. For my part, I'll sip a little before I contract to swallow the whole dish!"

"Chickie, I wish you wouldn't talk like that. People may think you mean it."

Chickie laughed and sprang from bed. As she dressed she leaned musing on the comb. Was her mother honest? Did she really think a kiss so shocking? Did she suppose Chickie never kissed any one? And was all that true about the girls of yesterday?

Well—they had their day!

Better to be walking young in the bright sun now.

Chickie took a sprig of mignonette from the case her mother had filled, smelt it dreamily. She was dressed now—feeling herself light, fragrant, silly with content. She would step into this sun that flowed down the street like a great golden bath—she would take a little run down to the Blakes. She had a question for Martha.

She wanted to say, carelessly, "Martha Blake, who is the Blessed Damozel?"

Jonathan was in the living room. She heard him rustling the papers. She planned to dash in breathlessly, give him half a dozen kisses and, before he had his breath again, she would be gone.

But Jonathan, one eye on the hall, had other plans. As Chickie came running in he stood up—rugged, gigantic—enough to strike terror in any heart but hers.

"Oh—you old pieface! Sitting in here alone! Here, bend down—a kiss, please."

He kissed her and held her. "It was after two when you got in, Chickie. What does this mean?"

"Pooh! Who wants to know?"

"You're father wants to know!" Every word a bolt.

She laughed, but nervously: "Well, if that's the way you're going to roar—"

"I'm not fooling, Chickie. There's no time or reason in a girl of your age coming home at two o'clock in the morning."

"Oh—ho-ho— it wasn't four! That's the time you used to arrive! You've sat here hundreds of times and boasted about the parties that didn't end until the next day—"

She tried to shove him on the defensive, cramming his own words down his throat.

He grew pale. "Chickie are you going to treat me like th[at]?"

"Oh, Jonathan, begin the [s]tuff now! What—what [c]do? I was only fooling [w]you. Stand up there [a]You want to make me cry, I suppose—"

And she went stammering into a quick account of the [l]dinner, the dancing—the fun and all the people. She said, ending: "If you were there you'd not get home at all. You ought to go some night and take Jennie. Why don't you? It's wonderful! Now—do you think you ought to stand there glowering like this—horrible old Jonathan—"

She dropped her head quickly. He came and put his arms about her shoulders. "I don't want to pry too much, Chickie. You're the only thing I have. I've worried a lot. I shouldn't let you go out with these strange young men without even seeing them."

"What do you mean? Don't you think I can look out for myself?"

"I mean that from now on you'll bring these men into this house first. There'll be no more tooting of a horn for you."

"Oh—nobody does that today. Why—you want to make a laughing stock of me . . ."

"Don't worry about that, Chickie. A man will respect you the more—"

"Any old time! Listen Jonathan—you won't do that?"

"Are you ashamed of your father?"

"Oh, all right, all right—but if you go handing out any woof-woof talk—I'm going out tonight with Barry Dunne. If you spoil that, Jonathan — you'll just break my heart . . ."

"If what I do can spoil it, Chickie—then your heart will have to break—you don't go out with him till I see him."

LOWER RENTS FORECAST

A "renters' market" is predicted for the coming season by the directors of the Pittsburgh Housing Association, who met yesterday to receive the annual report of John Ihlder, executive secretary of the association. The directors believe the city has sufficient houses to meet all demands and that rents are coming down, so that during the moving season renters will have a favorable market.

A surplus in houses in the highest and lowest price ranges exists, according to the report. Secretary Ihlder declared there are many vacancies in the lowest price homes, so that there will be competition among owners. He said the owners who put their property in good repair are more likely to have tenants on and after May 1.

The association, formed more than a year ago, considers housing problems and inspects properties. Last year the association found 685 properties containing 1,682 violations of the sanitary and housing code and brought about improvements in about half the number.

ELEVEN OTHER PROJECTS ARE APPROVED

Recreation Rooms Give Way in Favor of Space To Accommodate Classes

Charles L. Wooldridge, consulting engineer for the Board of Education, has been instructed to proceed with the architect's program for the proposed Arsenal Junior High School. The orders were issued yesterday at a meeting of the committee on property and supplies, which was held following the regular meeting of the board.

APPROVE REPORT

The board had concurred in the recommendation of the committee and in addition authorized the Superintendent of Schools to prepare programs for other new buildings and additions at an expenditure of approximately $2,500,000. It is expected that Wooldridge will have the architect's program for the Arsenal school ready for the March meeting of the board.

The Arsenal building program calls for the completion of the junior high school section first, although plans for the elementary section to be built later, are to be drawn at the same time. The expenditure for the building will total approximately $1,000,000, a cut of $500,000 having been made in the original estimate.

RECREATION ROOMS OUT

In the programs for the 11 other buildings and additions to be erected, the board concurred in the recommendation of the property and supplies committee that special rooms such as auditoriums and gymnasiums be eliminated in the high schools in favor of ample class room space until such time as its existing congestion is alleviated. Plans for the special rooms will be drawn at the same time as those for the entire building and these rooms will be added when funds are available.

ORNITHOLOGIST TO RACE BIRDS NORTHWARD

Veteran of 12 Journeys Hopes First Time to Beat Migration Into Arctic

W. E. Clyde Todd, curator of birds at Carnegie Museum, has made 12 journeys to the Far North.

Always he has seen canoe and dog teams lose in a race with the birds to the northern nesting grounds. He has always arrived late in summer, when the migration South has been started.

But next Wednesday he starts for the thirteenth chance. This time, he hopes to see his dog sleds pull into Port Harrison, Hudson Bay, ahead of the birds. And once there, he hopes to see for the first time the birds nesting, to find what species and types go there in spring and summer, to collect specimens for one or more bird exhibits for Pittsburgh's museum.

Mr. Todd is a veteran ornithologist of more than 30 years.

MEETS SEWICKLEY MAN

More than 1,500 miles north he expects to meet John B. Semple of Sewickley, patron of the sciences, who is going north by boat. They hope to meet at Cape Wolstenholme and take the Hudson Bay Company's supply ship to meet George B. Sutton, painter and collector of birds, who is making a one-man exploration of inland Labrador.

This meeting, in the event all goes well, will be held at Southampton Island late in the summer. The three will explore the west coast of the bay. Here they will resume travel by canoe and proceed along the coast to Fort Churchill, coming out of the wastelands in September.

EXPLORE NEW REGION

But in the meanwhile, before the arrival of Mr. Semple, Mr. Todd intends to explore a region that has been in his mind since 1901. It is the region around Port Harrison. Here he will wait until the ice breaks. Many large birds nest in this section, he believes.

"I'm not sure, though," he says, "what is there. If we knew what nested there, there would be little use going."

The plan is for the expedition to start north by sled from the end of the railroad at Coral Rapids, northern Ontario, traveling on sledges pulled by dogs to Port Harrison, 600 miles, covering the same ground formerly reached by canoe, and keep ahead of the breakup of the ice. Large canoe, outboard motor and other equipment await the party at Port Harrison. They were shipped by steamer last July.

ASK $1,000 TO TRY TAX CASE

The question of whether or not assessors have the legal right to add names to tax lists at the last minute after subordinate assessors have completed the work, will be decided next month when an appeal from two judicial decisions will be heard here before the State Supreme Court.

County Solicitor W. Heber Dithrich yesterday asked an appropriation of $1,000 for the Bar Association elections committee from the County Commissioners to finance the cost of an appeal to the higher court. The request was granted by Commissioners Joseph G. Armstrong and E. V. Babcock.

Recently Judge Frank M. Patterson in an opinion ruled that it was not legal to add names to lists after the subordinate assessors had certified them. A short time later, Judge James R. Macfarlane handed down a decision that the names should be stricken off the lists, but, he said, only because they had not gone through the channels of the county treasurer's office before they reached the delinquent tax collector.

$32,500 SAVED ON BRIDGE

The McKees Rocks bridge, over the Ohio River at that place, will cost Allegheny County $32,500 less than the original figure, due to action taken by the County Commissioners at their meeting yesterday.

The Dravo Construction Company, erecting the span, made a recommendation that a concrete facing treatment be used on the bridge rather than the composite facing originally intended. The substitution, it was said, answers the purpose at a cost considerably less than the original figure. The recommendation was approved.

CLARK ORDERS TOWING QUIZ

A report from Director of Public Safety James M. Clark has been ordered by Council on a complaint from J. W. Bamford against the present system used by the police in removing automobiles left in the streets.

Bamford contended that a relative, L. O. Secord, after being in an accident on Saw Mill Run boulevard January 27, ordered the Jones-Lyne Motor Company to remove his wrecked car. A policeman, he maintained, insisted that it be towed by the West End Motor Company. The first company finally removed the machine, but Secord was sent a bill for $3 from the latter concern.

Clark also was asked for a report in the claim of Howard E. Walters, McKees Rocks, whose machine was reported commandeered by the police and demolished in September, 1929.

Todd, deserted her unjustly after 26 years, and took with him a son, Frank Todd. They were married January 21, 1897, and the desertion occurred the day after Christmas, 1923, the bill averred. Mrs. Todd also alleged cruelty and indignities, reciting frequent threats and beatings by her husband.

Co. Home Workers Join Pension Body

Employes of the Allegheny County Home at Woodville, yesterday were given permission to become members of the County Employes Pension Association after their petition had been approved by the county commissioners.

Thrown From Train Berth, Gets $8,500

A settlement of $8,500 was agreed upon in Common Pleas Court in the suit of Alexander Handmacher, of Cheswick, against the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, for injuries alleged to have been suffered when he was thrown from an upper berth. Handmacher claimed he sustained a broken rib and other serious injuries when the excessive speed of a train taking him from Pittsburgh to Washington, D. C., August 19, 1926, threw him violently on the ladder used to climb into the berth.

P. R. R. Will Spend $225,000 on Annex

The cost of the building will be $225,000. When completed the combined buildings will permit the handling of 250 cars of produce daily.

COUNTY GAS TAX $15,676

Under the stipulations of the new state gasoline tax law, Allegheny County must pay $15,676 for fuel used during the latter half of 1929 and for 1930, an opinion read yesterday from the state attorney general to the Board of County Commissioners disclosed.

No municipality or county is exempt from paying taxes of this nature, the opinion declared. Under the old law counties and municipalities were exempt. The only exemption permitted under the law is to the Federal government, which has a reciprocal program in force with Pennsylvania.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Palm Beach Colonists Active

HERE we are at that time of the year when thoughts of the approaching Lenten season are supposed to cast a pall over our spirits. Yet with ever so many people out of town and March almost here, there are still many events to attract [illegible]

Last night [illegible] town attended [illegible] Stage and Play Society's [illegible] three plays in the Carnegie Music Hall. But before I tell you about all of the gay doings going on here I have some news from Palm Beach.

Club Hears Manuscript Program

YESTERDAY'S manuscript program by the Tuesday Musical Club was one of the most interesting this section has ever given and showed a wider diversity of gifts than ever before. Othelia Averman Vogel opened the recital with her piano Sonata Fantastique which has been heard on previous occasions.

Then followed a group of soprano numbers, one by Edith Taylor Wassell being sung by Myra R. Shiver, president of the club. Emma Harter, a new member of the organization, made a most pleasing first impression with her reading of the varied and colorful numbers by Elizabeth Rheems Stoner ("Song of Summer" and "Sympathy"), Emma Kneeland Mayhew ("Gleaming") and "Dusk") and Hazel Harris Harnish ("Memory"). Her accompanist was Clara Patterson Ruzza, also a recent addition to the membership. Two meritorious violin composition, the third movement of a Sonata in D by Alice Menninger Stempel, a thing of lovely melodic dignity, and an Andante and Rondo by Elizabeth F. den Hartog, which showed excellent musicianship, were well played by Mary Redmond, with Mrs. Stempel at the piano.

Gertrude Goedell Hespenheide's atmospheric "Shadow," Mrs. Vogel's "The River," and one of those charming children's songs by Ruth Stephens Porter, "The Harbor of Hushabye Ho," were given a sympathetic reading by Anne Hagmeier Woestehoff. Mrs. Vogel deserve praise for her performance of Helen Koessing's "Theme and Variations" and especially of the difficult "Fantoccini."

The real thrill of the program, however, came in the last group, when the string ensemble in three numbers fairly outdid itself under Ruth Thoburn Knox's direction. Flora Thomson Green's new and deeply artistic "There is Sweet Music Here" was sung by Letha Frazier Rankin. Jean McCrory Newman and Viola Karlson Byrgerson with string accompaniment. The brilliant "Canon and Caprice" of Henrietta Bodycombe and "Pittsburgh," a tone poem, the most recent and outstanding composition of that very gifted member, Carolyn St. John, which rises to great heights of beauty, concluded the program. These the ensemble did with a unison and power and sympathy that it will be hard to surpass.

TAILORED SMARTNESS BREWING AT THE RIVIERA TEA DANCES

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, Feb. 19.—At the delectable spot known as Cannes, the tailor goes out to dance. At the tea-dances at the Ambassadeurs there are always some smart tailored suits to be seen among the many semi-sports ensembles that almost outnumber the more formal afternoon costumes. Which should fairly convey to you the individuality in dress that is permissible along the Riviera. But whatever the costume, it is always in impeccable taste, perfectly cut and with carefully chosen accessories, and that is all that is necessary to be very much in the picture. If the informal note prevails during the day, however, the evening unfolds a procession of women in dignified evening dress and marvelous jewelry, a series of pictures worthy of the settings provided by the resorts that gleam pearl-like along that magic strip called the Cote d'Azur.

A TAILORED suit that went dancing at the Ambassadeurs is shown for you here today. It was worn by Mrs. F. N. Pickett, who is a distinguished member of the British colony at Cannes. The suit is of beige and tan tweed. The straight, closely clinging coat reaches well below the hips and has a scarf collar and appliqued pieces at either side which form the pockets. The line of these side pieces is carried down onto the skirt by means of wide box-pleats, two at each side and one at the center back. Although Mrs. Pickett wore a beige felt hat with the suit, it is shown here with a toque of matching tweed, a new and interesting feature which bids fair to rival the overwhelming popularity of the beret.

THE lovely evening ensemble was worn by Madame Osler in the baccarat room of the casino at Cannes. It is a Molyneux creation of pastel blue double georgette. A clever diagonal effect molds the lines of the bodice and the hips and is drawn into two bow-knots at one side. The graceful, circular flounce which forms the skirt is much longer at the sides than at front and back. Over the frock is worn a short unlined coat of matching georgette with straight sleeves and a collar of pearl gray fox.

HELP KIDNEYS BY DRINKING MORE WATER

Kidney and bladder irritations often result from acidity, says a noted authority. The kidneys help filter this acid from the blood, and pass it on to the bladder, where it may remain to irritate and inflame, causing a burning, scalding sensation, or setting up an irritation at the neck of the bladder, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night. The sufferer is in constant dread, the water passes sometimes with a scalding sensation and is very profuse, again, there is difficulty in voiding it.

Bladder weakness, most folks call it, because they can't control urination. While it is extremely annoying and sometimes very painful, this is often one of the most simple ailments to overcome. Begin drinking lots of soft water, also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from your pharmacist and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast. Continue this for two or three days. This will help neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer are a source of irritation to the bladder and urinary organs, which then act normal again.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is used by thousands of folks who are subject to urinary disorders caused by acid irritation. Jad Salts causes no bad effects whatever.

Showman

Charles Winninger portrays the veteran river showman in "Show Boat," the Ziegfeld musical romance, which has returned to the Nixon stage.

MITZI COMES HERE NEXT WEEK

The pronunciation of "Sari" Fiumerich Kalman's operetta in which Mitzi opens here in the Nixon next Monday evening is settled by the star of Mitzi herself to be "Shah-Ree," accent on the first syllable. Mitzi will be remembered as causing quite a bit of attention to herself when she abandoned her surname of Missi Hajos because American playgoers were embarassed when they tried to pronounce it. She gave up trying to explain the intricacies of the correct pronunciation and has confettied herself to be known as Mitzi.

Frances Williams, singing star in George Whites "Scandals" which opens in the Alvin next Monday evening, has taken out a $200,000 policy to cover insurance on her jewels. Last week she added to her collection by purchasing a new $10,000 bracelet which she is now wearing in the show.

Joseph Lawrence, who was stage manager and played occasional parts with the George Sharp Players during their first season in Pittsburgh, returns to the Pitt this week in the same capacity. He will appear next week in the role of Andy Taylor in "Aloma of the South Seas."

Dancer Returning To Stage for Sharp Play

Nane Paterson, internationally famed interpretive dancer of Paris, the London Opera House and the New York Winter Garden who a few years back was heralded as being the first Caucassian to introduce the world famed Hula Hula dance to Broadway, returns to the American stage next Monday in the Pitt as guest artist with the George Sharp Players in the production of "Aloma of the South Seas." She will offer an interpretive South Sea Island dance.

Miss Paterson, who in private life is Mrs. P. Ralph Gervers, has been absent from the stage for several years and since her return from Europe last August has been residing in Pittsburgh where her husband is director of publicity for Loew's and United Artists Penn and Loew's Aldine theaters.

In addition to her European triumphs Miss Paterson has appeared in this country under the management of the Shuberts, Henry W. Savage, John Cort, George M. Cohan and other producers in numerous productions including "A Modern Eve," "Pom Pom," "Miss Princess," "George M. Cohan Revue of 1918" and as a headline attraction on the B. F. Keith vaudeville circuit with Frank Hale in an act known as Hale and Paterson.

Women are quick to find out

IT DOESN'T take women long these days to find out when something happens that is of real importance to their homes. And when that something concerns a food that they give their families 3 times a day, 365 days a year, they find out all the quicker.

The new Mother Hubbard Bread has become a subject of conversation, for women are really interested in this perfected loaf. They have often thought of such a loaf and wished they could buy it. And now they can—a loaf that in every important feature has been brought to the highest degree of perfection.

At your grocer's you will find this talked-of bread—Mother Hubbard, the perfected loaf.

WALTER WINCHELL—On Broadway

NEW YORK, Feb. 19.

Wondering

THESE things still all be answered, when we chance
To meet again—my wondering if you
Remember where we strolled to find romance
And share brave kisses, sweet and very true.

My wondering if candle light still makes
Your dusky hair a luring thing to see;
If your eyes still are freckled with the flakes
Of star stuff from a sky in Arcady. . .

My wondering if you still love a kiss,
On tip-toe with your eyelids tightly shut,
My wondering if they are closed for this—
To dream my lips on yours are being put.

My wondering if you still dress the same;
If hiding yet one eye your dainty hat is;
My wondering if I'll recall your name. . .
Whatever that is!

—Pat Costello.

NOT NEW, BUT CLEAN

ONE of Irvin S. Cobb's favorites deals with the midget in the circus who died. His partner dropped around to convey his sympathies to the midget's frau, and, after talking with her for a time, asked if he might see the remains of his midget friend. The widow acquiesced, telling him the corpse was upstairs.

As the partner got half way up the midget's wife bellowed: "Please shut the door after you—the cat's had him down three times!"

AT 47TH STREET

"The only way that ham could panic an audience would be fore him to yell 'Fire.'"

"Why, what's his act like?"

A FORM OF CRITICISM

OF ALL ORDERS!

It was during the filming of a recent picture when one of Joseph Schenck's directors rushed up to his desk and breathlessly said: "Mr. S., they have perfected a device that eliminates accents from the microphone!"

"Splandeed!" cried Schenck. "Have von put hon my dask qvick!"

QUITESO, QUITESO

What with Brookhart and others finger-pointing at New York and blaming it for being wet, W. W. Scott observes: "Let the city that is without gin cast the first stone!"

NEWSPAPERMAN STUFF

Samuel Putnam remembers when he helped edit a Chicago newspaper. The managing editor ankled in one day and demanded to know why a gunman was always referred to as a bandit.

"Because," was the flip answer, "a rewrite man never can remember whether the 'e' or the 'i' comes first in 'thief.'"

TEMPERAMENT

SOME of us were discussing the elevation of various entertainers when the names of Van and Schenck came up. It was most interesting to learn that "The Pennant Winning Battery of Songland," as they bill themselves, worked in the most boisterous places when they began their career, which is also when they attired themselves in mufti or uniforms of motorman and conductor. The combination was, indeed, the most popular in their hey-dey. Nothing annoyed them.

Now, it appears, since Van and Schenck have reached the heights via their evening dress attire, all receivers must be removed from the phone hooks in the night clubs when they "go on" so that the ring of the phone will not jar their nerves or detract from their routines. And if a spectator talks loud during their songs, they leave the floor and sulk.

Only La Guinan can weather the conduct of the ill-mannered. And she has cashed in on the rowdies, for she knows "all the answers" and instead of fretting about their mouthings, she squelches them, first with a smile, and then with: "It's okay, sucker, make all the noise you want. It all goes on your check."

SQUELCH

"THERE'S one good thing about a columnist's job," says an editorial writer. "He can take a vacation and nobody is any the wiser."

And from the looks of things he also can take a joke, meaning, of course, the other fellow's.

CONTROVERSY?

R. W., of Cleveland, postcards that, according to Webster's New International Dictionary, the expression O. K. is probably derived from the Choctaw word Oken, meaning "it is so and not otherwise." And that our recent offering that "O. K." was handed down by the initials of Obediah Kelly, a freight agent, who signed bills of lading for a railroad, might be true, and then again it might not be.

At any rate, Arnold Berk, of University of Iowa, argues that in Iowa there is a town called Keokuk named for a Blackfoot injun. Amongst the whites his word was law. They called him "Old Keokuk—he is all right!" Hence the abbreviation of "O. K."

We still prefer the theory dealing with Obediah Kelly, the freight agent, whose signed initials to a bill of lading stood for accuracy, all right, or "O. K."

YEH, YEH

THE dry raiders who have been making the local hotel managements uncomfortable now threaten to tell the police about the cafes that feature nude chorus girls, which aroused a native to observe: "Mister, they can arrest 'em, jail 'em and denounce 'em. But they'll never make nude women unpopular!"

HAW!

Speaking of undraped chorus girls reminds us of Harold Ross's ace. It concerns the stage-mother who was reminiscing with other stage mothers. She recalled the Earl Carroll incident when a girl took a bath before an audience. It was reported in the papers that Carroll never paid the lass. "And did you know," said the woman, "that little girl never got paid for it, either?"

"Not paid?" bellowed another parent. "Why, where was her mother?"

IN CASE YOU DIDN'T KNOW

Most of the little girls who work in the Broadway night clubs are sentimentalists, and preserve their old costumes by pasting them in scrapbooks.

GAMBLER AIDS GUARD, HELD

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 19 (AP).—The "breaks" went against James J. Masterson, self-styled gambler, when he appeared in court on behalf of his bodyguard, Joseph Kelly, who was found guilty of carrying a revolver and sent to Moyamensing prison.

"Kelly is no holdup man," Masterson said with easy nonchalance. "He was carrying a gun in his pocket, yes. But he didn't carry it for any illegal purpose. He carried it to protect me and my bankroll."

Masterson explained casually that he did some gambling in Chester and that he carried from $10,000 to $50,000 in his pocket, hence his need of a bodyguard.

"Mr. Masterson," said Judge James Gay Gordon, Jr., "you can't act like this. You can't flagrantly disobey the law and expect to escape punishment. You admit you are a gambler?"

"Yes, sir," replied Masterson, "and I want to help Kelly all I can."

"Well," said the court, "I'm sorry it's not you instead of your protector I am to sentence. By your own admission you have committed a breach of peace and the most I can do is to hold you for that breach. Bail will be $15,000 and you can go with your bodyguard to prison until the bond has been properly entered."

Babies will cry, often for no apparent reason. You may not know what's wrong, but you can always give Castoria. This soon has your little one comforted; if not, you should call a doctor. Don't experiment with medicines intended for the stronger systems of adults! Most of those little upsets are soon soothed away by a little of this pleasant-tasting, gentle-acting children's remedy that children like.

It may be the stomach or may be the little bowels. Or in the case of older children, a sluggish, constipated condition. Castoria is still the thing to give. It is almost certain to clear up any minor ailment, and could by no possibility do the youngest child the slightest harm. So it's the first thing to think of when a child has a coated tongue, won't play, can't sleep, is fretful or out of sorts. Get the genuine; it always has Chas. H. Fletcher's signature on the package.

WATCH YOUR CHILDREN

In These Dark Winter Months Deadly Catarrh and "Flu" Are Particularly Likely to Attack Growing Girls and Boys.

Don't make the mistake of thinking you can safely leave "catarrh to get well of itself." Catarrh is a horrible affliction which makes life miserable for the sufferer and bad enough for others around him who must see and hear the constant hawking and spitting, as well as smell his bad breath. Catarrh weakens and poisons the system. Its foul secretions are swallowed, and the stomach itself becomes filled up with the slimy discharges of the disease. Health is almost impossible, and it is but a short step to consumption, the scourge of modern times, bringing death to millions every year.

"Ever since my wife learned about World's Tonic," he writes, "she has used it to guard our children against Catarrh. We are Austrians, and ordinary American medicines don't seem to be beneficial to us. World's Tonic is different. It is made from plants and herbs grown in their natural state, and brought from several parts of the world. This is why Austrians, like ourselves, and other Europeans, as well as Americans, find it so amazingly beneficial. At the first sign of a cold in any of the children, my wife gives World's Tonic regularly for several days, to regulate the bowels. It is wonderful to see how quickly the trouble clears up. Our children are all well and healthy. Catarrh has never taken root in any of them. We are sure that we owe this to World's Tonic, for many of our neighbors' children used to have running noses, took cold very easily, and hawked and spat from one end of the year to the other. We have persuaded them to use World's Tonic, and every time we have done so the children have got well quickly and are now strong and healthy like our own."

World's Tonic is on sale at Dow's, Mac's & Liggett's, Mayflower, and other modern drug stores. (A-88)

LOVEJOY

By BEATRICE BURTON

CHAPTER XXXVII

PARTIES at the Aldersons' house were always very gay. The one tonight was wildly hilarious. As usual Al Alderson served too many drinks. And by the end of the meal everybody was what he called "pleasantly jingled."

"It's too early to play cards or to dance. Anne decided when the group was in the living room with its wide-open French windows and its soft-shaded lamps. "I'll tell you what we'll do—We'll play Dares."

"That sounds exciting," Elsie Lambert gushed. "How do we play it?"

"Every man gets a partner for himself," said Anne, and he goes with her to the kitchen of drinks and you choose the cozy spot and each time there's dancing and after each dance for half an hour. Then we all come back to the room and change partners. The double kids are dying everywhere so they say."

"It sounds like a wonderful way to get acquainted with everybody," Lovejoy kept casting flirtatious eyes at Steve.

"No use trying to leave out of your head," Lovejoy said to Steve. "He's going to pick first."

She crossed the room to him and perched on the broad arm of his chair. "Come on, Stevens," she said to him. "Let's go and find a room all by our own little selves."

At the end of the porch was a deep sofa-like seat [illegible] mock couch. They bumped against it in the darkness.

Tom Sees Them

She felt his arms go around her. He drew her close to him. His eyes were very large and strange, so close to hers in the darkness. Then her lids slowly closed as his mouth met her mouth in a long hard kiss. She could feel his whole body tremble against hers.

"Lovejoy, you're going to get your divorce, aren't you?" he asked her after a minute or two. "You aren't going to change your mind, are you, dear?"

She shook her head, her face close to his in the sweet warm darkness.

"No, Steve. I'll do anything you want me to do," she whispered. "You just plan the whole thing for me and I'll do it——"

"I beg your pardon," said a voice at her ear. Tom's voice! Tom's voice, thick and husky as it always was when he had been drinking.

"I don't like to interrupt this way," he said. "But you'd better, James is very sick, Lovejoy, and your aunt wants you."

In spite of the thickness and the huskiness in his voice there was something in it as cold and sharp as a steel knife.

He saw me! Lovejoy said to herself. He couldn't have helped seeing me and Steve! . . . Oh well, what difference did it make? He wasn't her husband any more, except by law, she told herself.

And all the way to Bullard street in his rickety jiggety little car she kept remembering things she had read in the newspapers about "unkissed wives" who had asked for divorces.

Dislikes Lovejoy's Friends

"That's what I'll have to tell the judge when I ask for mine," she thought, and she giggled hysterically. "I'll tell him that I'm another 'unkissed bride.'"

Then another thought of an altogether different sort struck her.

"How did you find out that Uncle James is sick?" she asked Tom sharply and suddenly.

"Aunt Em called up the house," he answered shortly.

"But I thought that you were going to stay downtown for dinner," she said. "You said you were going to."

Tom nodded.

"Yes, I did tell you that," he replied, turning the corner of Bullard street on two wheels. "But I didn't stay downtown. I waited until it was time for you to go over to Aldersons' and then I came home. Norrie got me something to eat, and I had a drink and a smoke in peace and quiet for a change."

Lovejoy's jaw stiffened. "You sneaked home to spend an evening alone with her," she cried. "You let me go all alone to that party just because you wanted Norrie Shane to yourself, you beastly double-crosser, you! Well, let me tell you something——"

"Let me tell YOU something for a change," Tom broke in upon her roughly. "I'll tell you why I didn't go to that party tonight!—I didn't go because I'm sick of that whole putrid crowd! What were they doing when I got there? Just what I knew they'd be doing! Necking each other in dark corners and calling it a game! Playing post-office like a lot of half-baked kids! I'm through with them!"

The car drew up before Aunt Em's apartment house with its customary jerk. But Lovejoy did not move from her seat.

"They're all the friends we have," she was beginning when he stopped her a second time.

"We won't have them much longer, though," he said and then, he added fervently: "Thank the Lord!"

Puzzled, Lovejoy stared at him as he leaned forward to shut off the engine and [illegible] Now what on earth did he mean by that remark, she wondered.

Uncle Dies

"I quit my job today," he told her. "They bawled me out for coming down late in the mornings and they said I was drinking too much. I told them that my private life was none of their business and that they could take their one-horse little job and give it to some chorus boy."

Oh, Tom!" Lovejoy's voice was a little wailing cry in the darkness. She knew how much that job really meant to him. She knew how hard he had worked to build up a client-list during the last two years.

She put her arms out and tried to draw him into them.

But he thrust her away and got out of the car, slamming the door of it violently as he got out.

"I don't want that!" he said brutally. "I don't want your love or your pity either, thanks. I'm through with a lot of things besides my job, my girl!"

He means he's through with me, she said to herself.

They went into the house.

At midnight Uncle James died.

Lovejoy stayed at the flat all night with Aunt Em and the next morning she took her home with her in a taxicab.

"It's more cheerful at my house, Aunt Em," she told her. "We won't go back to the house until the funeral."

Dazed and meek like a confused little girl, Aunt Em did as she was told. She was utterly unlike her brisk, strong-minded self.

On the first of August she went back to Bullard street.

Tom and Lovejoy took her home and Tom bought her a great armful of yellow roses from a flower shop that they passed on their way there.

Asks Favor

"Tom," she scolded him when he came back to the car with them, "That's a terrible thing for you to do when you're so poor."

Tom grinned at her as he took the wheel once more. His teeth flashed in his tanned face, but there was no smile in his eyes. Lovejoy had noticed how unhappy he had been looking for days . . . Unhappy and beaten, too, somehow.

"I got those for you to soften your heart, Aunt Em," he said to her with a laugh. "I want to ask you to do me a favor."

And then briskly and harshly he told her that he and Lovejoy had come to the parting of the ways. Only he did not call it the parting of the ways. There was nothing of the poet about Tom Nicholson.

"We've decided to split up," was the way he put it.

"It's just as well, I suppose," he said, his eyes on the road ahead of him. "I can't support her the way I ought to. I can't give her the things that her friends' husbands can give them."

"And you're in love with Norrie Shane besides! Please mention that!" Lovejoy said fiercely. "Please don't put the blame of all this on me, Tom Nicholson! Aunt Em knows how things have been going for ages! I've told her everything about you and Norrie!"

Tom did not say a word to her.

"I want you to take Norrie and the baby for a while," he said quietly to Aunt Em. "I'll give Lovejoy enough money to pay their board. It won't be much for a while, but it will be something. And then later on——"

Lovejoy stopped listening to him. Why, this was the answer to the whole problem she was thinking! — Aunt Em could take care of the baby, and she herself could go to Minden, Nevada, for her divorce!

PERHAPS my lack of interest in Siamese twins is due to the fact that I am somewhat of a Siamese "twins" myself.

Being born in the early part of March, I come under the dual sign of the two fishes which, as you know, are always shown swimming in opposite directions.

Those born under this sign are rather dual and contrary by nature. One of me dislikes drawing cartoons, and the other me dislikes writing stories, so that I have more trouble than Siamese twins getting my day's work done.

Invariably in all things I have to make up two minds.

The arguments I have with myself are more like a debate, and it is then I feel the catfishes—I'm so on the fence!

Lillian Tells of Brixtons Planning to Live in New York

THAT Lillian's news was as she said, disturbing. I knew by the way her fingers gripped the letters in her hands, in one of which, she said, it had come. But I was relieved that she was able to lay aside the telephone incident for future consideration and concentrate her attention upon her own problem. Harry Underwood had been able to bring her to that frame of mind although I guessed that he had not been as successful as he imagined in wholly allaying her fears. But the relief in his voice was undisguised.

Don't tell me Marion's eloped with the music master," he intoned melodramatically and Lillian gave his foolery the tribute of a wan smile.

No, that is yet spared us," she said. But both Marion's letter and one I have from Helena Brixton give me the same news. The Brixtons are going to move East. In fact they are already moving. They have leased their own home for four years and are planning to take a large apartment in New York for the winter and a country house between New York and New Haven for the rest of the year."

I saw Harry Underwood's big sinewy hand grip the arm of his chair, but his only vocal reaction was a low whistle such as any man might give at astonishing news.

"That sure is a poser," Dicky contributed, for he knew as did all of us how great was Lillian's aversion to Samuel Brixton, business associate of her daughter's dead father, Tom Morton. That Brixton was as good a husband to his wife Helena Lillian's old friend as Tom Morton had been a bad one to Lillian, did not lessen the conviction in Lillian's mind, or in mine, that Samuel Brixton was a scoundrel with his only redeeming qualities his genuine affection for and kindness to his wife and her two children by a former unhappy marriage who bore his name and loved him as a father.

"Dye mind reading the letters?" Harry Underwood asked quietly and the question betrayed the importance he attached to Lillian's news. I well remembered how he had refused to see the Brixtons or hear anything about them when after years of silence Samuel Brixton had written to Lillian, asking that he and his family be permitted to come to see her and her daughter. And though later he had smothered his jealous aversion to discussing anything connected with dead Tom Morton, and had approved the rebuff which Lillian and I had given Samuel Brixton and his half-brother Charles Owen in their scheme to secure a certain release of property from Lillian, I knew that reading Lillian read a letter from the man would be a distinct trial to him.

Thank you," she said. "That's just what I want to do. I'll take Marion's first. In fact I only have read the beginning of Hedda's myself."

She picked up one of the sheets of paper from her lap, one which I would have known as Marion's if I had seen it on the other side of the world. Lillian's winsome young daughter probably writes the worst hand in the country.

I'll skip the preliminaries," she said, and I knew that not even to us did she wish to read the endearments to her adored mother with which the first part of every letter from Marion to Lillian is filled.

I have the most wonderful news for you, Mummy," she began to read. It's so marvelous, and I'm so happy over it that I can't sleep. Just think! Carolyn is going to live in New York every winter and in Connecticut, between New York and New Haven every summer! Isn't that the most adorable thing you ever heard of? Carolyn and I have been jumping up and down with joy ever since she got the letter from her mother telling her about it. Carolyn says it means that she will have lots of parties—her mother entertains a lot for her anyway, and now that she's in school Carolyn says her mother wants to do extra special things for her in vacations, so that she can invite the girls she likes to stay with her. It looks as if it would be one continual house party for Carolyn, and she says if I'm not with her every minute she'll be broken-hearted.

But, of course, Mummy, I mustn't think of leaving you in vacations, and I told Carolyn that perhaps I might come to one party, but that she mustn't count on me for any more."

"Martyr's crown getting all ready to be fitted on Marion's fair brow," Dicky gibed, and the grown-ups in the room laughed, though the remark held a familiar ring which grated on me. But Mary did not laugh. Instead she sprang to her feet with flashing eyes.

"You're an old meanie, Uncle Dicky," she flamed. "I suppose you mean that Marion wants to go to all the parties and is secretly hoping her mother will rise to the bait. Well! Why shouldn't she? There's nothing in the world means so much as a party to the average girl of her age. Don't I know? I'd give my eyes for one right now. I never had a party in my life."

The Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

Toy Husbands and Wives

A LADY wants her freedom from the husky, handsome young football star, with whom she eloped in a thoughtless moment.

He has "a much younger mind" than SHE has, and she admits it! Which is a very astonishing admission, even from a modern woman.

I wonder if any man ever confessed that the simplest cutie of the chorus girl of flapper half his age whom he married in a glamorous moment of mental aberration had a much younger mind than HE had. I doubt it!

"A man is as young as he feels"—or as he THINKS he feels; and as long as he can go through the motions of his daily dozen and train a few strands of hair across his temples, he will never admit that he is not "a boy at heart." Or that his mind is not as limber as his knee-kicks.

He doesn't mind frankly displaying a bald head or a double chin or a convex waistline. Just so that he can keep up the illusion that his MIND is adolescent, and that he is mentally kicking up his heels like a colt.

A woman, on the other hand, may have her face lifted, lie about her age and dye her hair like Joseph's coat. But she will never admit that she is mentally a moron.

She will never concede that her intelligence is still in the infant class even when it IS. Yet she will cheerfully marry a half-baked adolescent, on the theory that she is "only as old as she looks."

The truth is that ladies in the thirties or forties, who marry gorgeous young chauffeurs or football stars, and gentlemen in the mellow Indian Summer of life who elope with baby-eyed chorines, do NOT marry for "mental companionship," however they may delude themselves. Why and how do they expect to find it?

You may love a baby or a kitten, but you don't expect either of them to stop chasing around and settle down evenings and discuss the philosophers or Brahms or "The Art of Thinking" with you. Or to take an interest in your symptoms or your diet-fads, or the latest collection at the Metropolitan Museum.

It's hard enough to live up to your mental superior; but living down to your mental INFERIOR is positively painful. You can't amuse a child for an hour without becoming pretty well exhausted. Fancy binding yourself over to amuse a child for LIFE!

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Thursday, February 20.

AN active and intriguing state of affairs is forecast from the predominant lunar transits. It is probable that unemployment may give concern, and new ventures may inspire an imprudent and perilous use of funds. Purely personal relations may assume singular eccentric or disappointing angles unless discretion be used.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a lively year, but one of anxiety in employment and of new ventures calling for perilous use of funds. Personal relations may also be intriguing.

A child born on this day may have many unusual talents and graces, but also many adverse situations to contend with.

NOT SO DUMB

By HELEN KLUMPH

From Marion Davies' forthcoming All-Talking Picture by Wanda Tuchock and Edwin Justus Mayer, based on the play "Dulcy" by Marc Connelly and George Kaufman.

CHAPTER XV.

DULCY fairly danced with glee as she approached the living room, pausing at the threshold to drop one last clue on the floor.

Anyone else would have been crushed by the appearance of the stolid, solemn faces before her, but not Dulcy. Reminding herself "Laugh and the world laughs with you," she beamed at the gloomy circle as she stepped into the room.

Now," she called out cheerily, "is everybody ready?"

Here you have all the evidence in the great pearl robbery," she crossed the room and dangled a wisp of feather before Mr. Forbes. "This was found on the suspect and it is the only clue. Now let's see what good detectives you are."

Forbes only stared at her blankly.

"Oh, now come Mr. Forbes. I just know you're a regular Sherlock Holmes. You can play first. And after you've looked for a long time if you don't find them, oh but I know you will."

Forbes would rather have done anything at that moment, or at any moment, than to join in any game suggested by Dulcy. He loathed games and he loathed this chattering sprite who was always thinking up something to make a guest miserable. But Angela's pearls were at stake. He must find them at once and see that they were in safe keeping. He would never let her wear them again, until she had sense enough to hang onto them.

Anyway, he decided philosophically as he shambled out in the hall, he would at least escape from Dulcy's continual conversation for a while.

Clever Girl

He had hardly started up the stairs when Dulcy started whispering to Angela excitedly and Gordon decided that he could stand no more. Taking the arm of the ever sympathetic Van Dyke, he headed for the kitchen.

Theirs was a peaceful scene compared to the rest of the house. They busied themselves with bottles and glasses and tinkling ice, and sitting down comfortably at the kitchen table enjoyed a long silence.

After a long pause Van Dyke raised his glass and remarked significantly, "She's a clever girl."

Gordon stared moodily into space for a moment, then taking a long gulp as though he needed it, answered, "Sometimes I don't think so, and sometimes I'm afraid she is."

In the living room there was great confusion, a merry confusion led by Dulcy who seemed to be all over the place at once.

"Wasn't I clever the way I got rid of him?" Dulcy asked excitedly, hurrying after Leach as he went for the bags. Skipping back she helped Angela into her coat, upside down at first, then wrong side out, but finally all right in spite of her fluttering fingers.

Gives Direction

Marshalling Bill toward the hall door and cautioning everyone loudly to be quiet, she was nervously giving him a few last directions when Mrs. Forbes' voice stopped them.

"Oh, Angela, come back! I can't let you go like this. Your father—he will be furious. He is furious.

"Mother, you're delaying us," Angela told her coldly, but Dulcy rushed to Mrs. Forbes, wheedling and cajoling her. She just couldn't let anything interfere with this romance that had blossomed under her very roof.

"Go out to the garage with them," she urged. "You can get back before he comes down. He'll never know that you knew about it. I'll explain it to him. I'll tell him. Oh, I don't know what I will tell him, but I will tell him something."

"You can be sure of that," Bill added.

"Shut up, Willie," Dulcy ordered, "and hurry."

She stood at the door a moment watching them hurry out, Vincent's mincing gait somewhat chastened by the heavy bags he was carrying; Angela lightheartedly skipping along and Bill stalking ahead just like a bandmaster.

It was nice of Bill to be so good about helping them to elope. And he used to be so fond of Angela, too! Oh, well, Dulcy mused, love was like that. She looked at the world with serenely happy eyes, with no ill-feeling toward anyone. But she didn't dare call Forbes until they were well out of the way. She never could tell what effect things would have on him. She had tried so hard to entertain him and sometimes his manner had been most peculiar. Oh, well his bark was worse than his bite, she decided, with a little regret that no one was around to spring it on.

Enjoys Silence

Forbes noticed that there was a sudden cessation of voices, but the peace of the upstairs hall was such a relief that he couldn't just deliberately forsake it.

At first, he had started out with the definite idea to finding Angela's pearls. Once he was assured of their safety, he would go to his room and pack his bags preparatory to leaving. But the quiet hall was a haven of refuge. Just for a moment he would sit down here and enjoy the silence.

All at once he realized that he was tolerably weary. What a day he had been through! He wondered why he had ever come, why he had let Angela and Mrs. Forbes bully him into accepting an invitation for the week-end.

As he thought back over the events of the day, he grew hot under the collar. That woman! What wouldn't she think up in a whole week-end considering the start she had made in this one day.

He slapped at a tickling fly on his hand and brushed something soft. The feather clue. Suddenly he was reminded that he was up here to find Angela's pearls. More of that woman's crazy ideas of entertainment!

He fairly sputtered with rage as he looked along the floor.

What on earth did she mean giving him this silly feather? He'd find Angela's pearls all right, but just let anyone try to suggest games in his presence again!

Dulcy Calls Forbes

"Oh, Mr. Forbes," Dulcy's musical voice made him grit his teeth in anguish. "Haven't you found them yet? I don't believe you're trying. We won't help you the least little bit, and we'll give you only a few minutes more."

What was the use of hunting? He could enjoy the peace and quiet up here for a few minutes more and then demand that Dulcy come up and produce the pearls. He hurled the feather to the floor and stamped on it viciously.

The more he thought about the whole affair the madder he grew. He started pacing up and down, stamping as he wheeled about, making as much noise as a whole army on the march.

"That's right, Mr. Forbes," Dulcy called to him. "If at first you don't succeed, try, try again."

Abruptly, he stopped in his tracks. Let her tell him what to do! He slumped down on the chair again and buried his face in his hands. He could have cried aloud in anguish. Never had he been quite so miserable. And where was Eleanor? Flirting with Van Dyke probably. Where was Angela? With that foppish nincompoop of a Leach most likely. Fine family he had, to leave him alone like this and go running off with just anyone else. He hated them all.

"Oh, Mr. Forbes," Dulcy's voice called cheerily, "You've had more time than you deserve. Are you getting warm?"

"Hot!" he answered explosively.

As Dulcy hurried up the stairs toward him, he groaned. And well he might.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Winter 'Shut-Ins'

WINTER sports are becoming more and more popular each season. Fashions favor them, society favors them, and so do the doctors.

DR. COPELAND

If you are tired out after the whirl of the city, of business and social cares, why not try a change of scene? And winter sports? Nothing is more health-giving than a change of scene and some form of recreation which combines with it pleasure and the benefits of health.

What is more wonderful than a winter's day on the mountain sides, or in the woods? You may ski there, or snow-shoe, for miles at a time, through unbroken paths. With the snow, pure-white and deeper, perhaps, than your head, you see Nature from a viewpoint that you cannot see in any other way.

Such exercise plays upon every nerve and muscle of the body. Your senses are keener, the blood is stimulated into new life, and with it new vigor comes. I often wonder that so many of us neglect these rare sports of the wintertime.

And after your return from the day's outing, it may be that kindred souls have gotten there before you. A blazing log or two, a good supper, some drowsy bantering, and you are to bed! Sleep is good. Maybe it never was so good?

Skating is a wonderful exercise. Everybody can have this sport without going far for it. In the cities, now, are the out-of-doors skating rinks where, for a small sum, the populace go, skates in hand, any day or evening. This has always been a fascinating sport, and in Grandmother's time it was considered as much of an accomplishment to skate well as to dance well.

Never before, perhaps, have the out-door sports been more in evidence than this season. At St. Moritz, Lake Placid, in Canada, or in some of the colleges and schools with their Winter carnivals, people flock for healthful sports. All this gives an added impetus to sports everywhere.

Don't spend all your recreation time in the close atmosphere of public places. Be out-of-doors for as much time as you possibly can.

Muscular exercise is important because it stirs up the chemical and biological changes of the body. If you wish muscular strength, you must exercise the muscles. If you want to have an active, virile mind, you must exercise that.

Nobody can have good health without proper exercise, fresh air and sunlight. Nutrition is of importance, too, but real bodily vigor depends upon all these things, combined. Healthful recreation is of vital importance to this end.

Correct Manners

The Visiting Card

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1 When having personal cards printed with an address and telephone number, should the address be printed in the center of the card below the name?

2 If so, where is the telephone number printed?

3 Or does the name stand alone with the address in one corner and the telephone number in the other?

JEAN.

NO. The address is engraved in the lower right corner. The name is in the center of the card. The address is engraved in the same type as that used for the name, but the address type is smaller than that used for the name.

2 It is not correct to have the telephone number engraved on a visiting card. By no means should you do this. And by the way, visiting cards should be engraved, never printed. It is better not to have visiting cards than to have them printed.

3 As I have suggested in answer No. 1.

4 The formal title "Miss" in this case is required. Even for quite young girls this is a rule. A visiting card is a formal detail, one of the most formal of social details, and therefore it should be formally carried out. It is exceptionally poor form to omit the title, for either a woman or a man, married or unmarried.

English Muffins

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1 Is there any rule of etiquette that says a personal letter should not be answered in less than a week's time?

I never heard of any such rule and know that a bread-and-butter letter should be written before a week is up.

2 How should we eat toasted English muffins—in the fingers or with a knife and fork? In a restaurant the other day a knife and fork were placed on the table with them. LAUREL.

THERE is no such rule. A letter should be answered as soon as we wish to answer it. And you are right about writing a bread-and-butter letter.

2 Good! I am pleased to hear that this restaurant is using the correct service. It is the best form to eat English muffins with a knife and fork. The "tea" knife and fork are of an excellent and adaptable size for this. English muffins are distinctly in the class of "moist" foods, and moist foods should not be eaten in the fingers when it is possible to avoid doing so.

Acknowledging Acquaintance

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

Is it correct for a girl to say "Hello" to a boy first, or should the boy say it to the girl first?

CURIOUS.

IT is the girl's social privilege to make first acknowledgement of the acquaintance, and the boy waits for her to speak or bow first.

PRACTICE GROUNDS IMPORTANT ITEM

THERE was one thing, at least, that the players of the Pittsburgh Baseball Club did not have to worry about as they started out last night for the spring camp at Paso Robles. That was the condition in which they would find the playing field set apart for them. Vice President Sam Dreyfuss and Manager Jewel Ens had attended to that detail of the practice plans weeks before through the club's coast agents, making sure that the lot would be in perfect shape for the squad's first workout next Sunday.

S. W. Dreyfuss

The importance of this item and how much it means to have real baseball men running a club are brought to mind by the experience of the Chicago White Sox in San Antonio this week. When Manager Bush arrived with his vanguard he discovered that the diamond picked for the Sox to work upon was so rough and poorly prepared as to be utterly unfit for use. Not only would his players have been unable to get the right kind of practice, but they would have been in constant danger of turned ankles or of being struck by badly bounding baseballs. So Bush had to move.

THAT'S what comes of entrusting training arrangements to club officials who are schooled only along business lines and have little knowledge of the playing end of the game. The most important two items to be considered in selecting a baseball training site are the condition of the playing field and the quality of food served where the players are to be quartered. Unless these are right a long training trip means only a waste of time and money.

The Pittsburgh club is one that always makes it a point to have these matters given careful attention. When the Bucs shifted from Hot Springs to Paso Robles in the spring of 1924, Jack Fogarty, Forbes Field caretaker and one of the best groundkeepers in the country, was sent out to put the field in shape. He provided a real big league training lot, and every year since the management has had the yard newly prepared by coast workmen to insure its being fit at the time of the arrival of the first squad.

WHEN Jess Petty was forced by an attack of appendicitis to undergo an operation shortly after the close of the 1929 pennant race it marked the beginning of an unusually extended siege of that ailment among the Pirate forces.

Floyd Young, the Greensboro recruit who was stricken while en route to Pittsburgh yesterday, with the result that he had to forego the training trip, will be the fourth Buccaneer to go under the surgeon's knife since the close of last season.

Jess Petty

THE two others who followed Petty on the operating table were Center Fielder Lloyd Waner and Infielder Charley Engle. The latter is the youngster who was drafted by the Bucs in October from the Memphis club, of the Southern Association. The operation on Engle was performed in November. The recruit reports that he has completely recovered, is as good as new, and feels capable of doing even better work this spring than he did in the minors. The Pirate management is gratified at the present good condition of Engle, as he is counted upon to be a strong candidate for the vacant post at shortstop.

NOT only an outstanding basketball star of his own day, but one of the greatest players of all time, passed in the death of Andy Sears at Chicopee Falls, Mass. Though he played on a number of big professional teams, and in various leagues throughout the eastern part of the country, it was in this section that Sears reached his peak and attained his greatest fame.

As captain and center of the all-star McKeesport team that won the Central League and world championships, Andy ranked with the foremost players of any period. His class was not confined to his uncanny ability to shoot goals from free throws, at which he established a world professional record of 21 in a game, but was evident in all other departments of play.

SEARS starred in the Central League throughout its life from 1905 to 1910, and after landing his McKeesport team in first place in the league race he led it to the highest of all championships, the world professional honors.

These heights were reached in the first world series ever played in basketball. McKeesport's opponent was the DeNeri team, title winners in the Eastern League, and the home end of the series was staged at Duquesne Garden in this city. Sears played in the Eastern League after the passing of the Central.

Jack Berg

MUSHY CALLAHAN isn't the greatest fighter in the world, it is true, and the championship that he held when he led the junior-welterweight division was only a synthetic one, yet Jack (Kid) Berg must be given credit for having at least continued his forward stride in stopping Callahan in 10 rounds in London last night. The severe beating administered to Mushy adds to the evidence previously piled up that Berg is one of the best glovemen England has produced in any class in a long time. If the Kid ever gets past Al Singer, Sammy Mandell may find it the toughest job of his life to keep his world lightweight title from slipping to the little Briton.

IT ISN'T only in a physical sense that Phil Scott lacks the necessary Queensberry equipment to tangle successfully with a citizen of Jack Sharkey's attainments, in the opinion of Mike McTigue, former light-heavyweight champion. Mike appears to think that Scott is dead from the neck up. He says he has found the Englishman to be in a sort of perpetual haze.

McTigue may be all washed up as a fighter himself, but he carries a wise old head on his shoulders, and is capable of telling many a younger boxer how things ought to be done in the ring. However, when he tried to impart to Scott what he knows about Sharkey he found it a hopeless task, according to his own reports.

"YOU tell him something, but from the way he acts and talks you don't know whether he is getting you or not," says Mike. "He

Bobby Jones Begins Season Tomorrow

ATLANTA, Feb. 19.—(AP)—Bobby Jones, National open champion, left here last night for Savannah, Ga., where tomorrow he will sound the first gun in his extensive 1930 campaign in the three-day 72-hole open tournament.

The open king will be playing in his first tournament since the National amateur championship in California last September, when he was eliminated by Johnny Goodman, a little known golfer from Omaha.

Slattery Meets Rosenbloom April 7

NEW YORK, Feb. 19.—(AP)—There is to be no rest for Jimmy Slattery, newly crowned light-heavyweight champion of the cauliflower precincts guarded by the New York State Athletic Commission.

The Buffalo Irishman, conqueror of Lou Scozza in a title skirmish eight days ago, must fight Maxie Rosenbloom, the Harlem Harlequin, 15 rounds in defense of his new won honors April 7 at the Queensbury Club in Buffalo.

DUKES MENACE TITANS IN CONFERENCE

By JESS CARVER.

Red Carlson's Pitt Panthers are riding the crest in the Big Four today, having wobbled through a none too delectable basketball game at Washington last night with Wash-Jeff. The Presidents, in there to make it as tough as possible for the Panthers and back in their skulls the faint hope of knocking off the Pittsburghers, held Pitt to a 38-30 score.

While Pitt was impeaching the Presidents, the Dukes moved half a game closer to the Conference-leading Westminster Titans by taking Waynesburg in a so-and-so game on the Bluff, 35 to 25. As Carnegie Tech spent the night traveling and consequently did not win or lose, the city enjoyed a perfect evening of two wins and no defeats.

W.-J. STARTS FAST

Wash-Jeff did make it tough for the Panthers, and for the first five minutes of play were out in front with a 7-5 lead. But the smoother-working Pitt machine hacked away at this advantage and eventually moved out in front leading by 22-to-16 at the half.

Don Lewis, chunky forward of the Red and Black, dominated the play of his team as it sought to check the attack of the Golden Cats, and his three hoops during the half had a lot to do with Wash-Jeff's staying in the running. Hyatt, Zehfuss, Baker and Arture combined to account for the most of Pitt's points.

The first-half play was enlivened by two mixups, one between Phil Hamilton and Les Cohen, rival centers, and the other between McNeil, Wash-Jeff guard, and Charley Hyatt. The officials could have done some banishing had they seen fit, but merely warned the boys and let 'em continue in the ball game.

HYATT, ZEHFUSS STAR

Zehfuss and Hyatt, with two goals apiece, and Les Cohen, Baker, Arture and Kowallis with one each, handled Pitt's scoring in the second half. Lewis was once more the big shot of the Wash-Jeff attack, counting seven more points on two field goals and three foul tosses. Hamilton added two baskets and Harris scored one.

Only two fouls were called on Wash-Jeff during the second half, which was fortunate for Hamilton and Umberger, both of whom walked off the floor at the close of the initial period with three personals tagged to their shirts. The lineup:

Hyatt	F		Lewis
Zehfuss	F		Harris
Cohen	C		Hamilton
Arture	G		Umberger
Baker	G		McNeil

Score by halves:

Pitt	22	16—38
W. & J.	16	14—30

Field goals—Hyatt 4, Zehfuss 3, Cohen 2, Arture 4, Baker 3, Kowallis, Lewis 3, Harris, Hamilton 3, Umberger, McNeil.

Foul goals—Hyatt 1 out of 1, Zehfuss missed 4, Cohen 1 out of 2, Arture 1 out of 2, Baker 1 out of 1, Kowallis missed 1, Lewis 1 out of 2, Hamilton 1 out of 1, McNeil 1 out of 6.

Referee—Bodner. Umpire—Bodner.

Davis	F	Durbano
Rodgers	F	Johnson
Smith	C	Barbet
Cutri	G	Zagrai
Lewis	G	Schaffer

Substitutions—Little for Durbano, Durbano for Johnson, Barbet for Zagrai, Hibers for Davis. Field goals—Zagrai, Barbet, Schaffer, Hibers, Rodgers 3, Smith 2, Cutri. Foul goals—Pitt 4 out of 13, W. & J. 5 out of 8. Referee—Snyder. Umpire—Bodner.

DUKES CHECK RALLY

The Dukes fought off a belated Waynesburg rally to hold a 21-9 lead established during the first half and turn back the Jacketts on the Bluff.

JOLLY BOWL PLANS BIG COMEBACK

By HARRY KECK,
Sports Editor.

After an in-and-out fall and winter campaign, things will begin to hum shortly for the Jolly Boxing Bowl at New Castle, Pa., the first of the large modern arenas in this section, according to word from Matchmaker Ed Fritz, who has a number of good bouts on the fire.

Next Monday night Fritz is offering in his windup two good young heavyweights, Sam Weiss of Philadelphia, and Jimmy Mahoney, of Chicago, who has boxed Jimmy Slattery; Ike McFowler and others of note.

Emmett Rocco, Ellwood City heavyweight, now under the management of Al Zill, of Youngstown, since the death of his old pilot, Joe Cumo, is scheduled to appear twice in the Bowl, in one of the bouts against Al Friedman of Boston. Tony Herrera, the Mexican lightweight star, who got his start around here in the Jolly Bowl, will be back there for a fling, as also will Joey Goodman of Cleveland, now one of the top-notch lightweights, who also broke into this territory at New Castle.

Fritz is a good matchmaker and he has a fine faculty for picking up diamonds in the rough and offering them to the fans. With the program he has mapped out for himself, he should have the Bowl on a good paying basis throughout the spring and summer months.

Between Rounds

Young Burkel, Southern welterweight who recently returned from a tour of South Africa during which he boxed Harry Mason, former English lightweight champion, now is under the management of Bobby Leeman, of Midland and soon for matches with anybody in his class.

Tommy Uzzle, real lightweight, who defeated Leonard Zazzarino in his Eastern debut at Newark, N. J., recently, has been matched to box Tony Caraglano, of New York, at the same club next Monday night.

Oakmont Has No Assurance of 1931 Open

A report that the Oakmont Country Club has been awarded the national open golf tournament for 1931 was denied today by officials of the club.

"Such a report is ridiculous," it was said. "The open tournament for any year never is awarded until the final day of the open tournament of the preceding year. Thus, next year's fixture will not be awarded until after this year's tournament is concluded."

Oakmont is in the field for next year's feature and would welcome it, but so also would several other attractive courses.

The dates follow: Harrington, Del., July 29 to August 2; Cambridge, Md., August 5-9; Pocomoke, Md., August 12-16; Salisbury, Md., August 19-23; Kellar, Va., August 25-30.

PHIL AND JACK ENTER HOME STRETCH

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 19.—(INS)—Phil Scott and Jack Sharkey were ready today the enter the home stretch on their training grinds preparing for their battle here February 27. Both boxers said they were fit and with a few days' polishing off would be in the best of condition.

William F. Carey, president of the Madison Square Garden Corporation, promoter of the bout, watched both Scott and Sharkey work out yesterday. He said Gene Tunney, retired champion, would witness the fight.

Scott did one round on the light bag and then boxed seven rounds with five different sparring partners. Babe Hunt, giant Oklahoma fighter, made his first appearance in the Briton's camp, boxing one round with Scott. The Englishman also boxed Jack Renault, Jack De Mave, Charley Hann and Bill Middlekauff.

Sharkey worked two rounds with Johnny Grosso and two with Pierre Charles. The Bostonian seemed dull and spiritless in his workout, but he said he was feeling all right and would be in good shape for Scott.

Victorio Campolo, who boxes Johnny Risko of Cleveland on the supporting card, went through a vigorous workout and looked good.

KANSAS CITY NEXT STOP FOR BUCS

By CHARLES J. DOYLE
Staff Correspondent.

CHICAGO, Feb. 19.—Eighteen strong, the Pirate advance guard rolled out of the Santa Fe station at 1:35 this afternoon on the long trek to Los Angeles and Paso Robles.

When the party out of Pittsburgh reached Chicago this morning it was joined by five other members of the family. After a layover of more than four hours, the augmented squad departed for Kansas City, which point is due to be reached about one hour past midnight. Ten more persons, under the supervision of Heine Meine, are scheduled to entrain at this point.

The Fort Pitt Limited of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad was right on the dot as it landed the Pittsburgh tourists at Chicago. Jack Doyle of the passenger department of the railroad came all the way over to see that the athletes and others had every convenience.

Ervin Brame and Glenn Spencer were the only familiar faces to greet the Pittsburghers as they landed here. Three others were in the group, but these were strangers. They were Pitchers Andy Bednar and Bernard Walter and Trainer Charles A. Jorgensen. Bednar pitched in the Nebraska State League last year, while Walter is a product of the University of Tennessee.

Judge Walter Steffen, who is known just as well in Pittsburgh as in Chicago, came down to the Santa Fe to see the players get away on the long trail.

The eminent judge and football celebrity is a close friend of Dr. William I. Marks, Pirate physician, who is with the athletes.

RECRUIT STRICKEN

Vice President Sam Dreyfuss and Manager Jewel Ens expressed deep regret over the failure of Recruit Floyd Young to board the train out of Pittsburgh. The youngster was seized with an attack of appendicitis while traveling from his North Carolina home toward Pittsburgh. He had to leave his train at Washington and return home.

The Pittsburgh officials were curious as to the whereabouts of the young Piedmont League star when he failed to put in an appearance at the baseball Pirates' offices yesterday. They knew he had left his home and was headed for Pittsburgh. The mystery was cleared yesterday afternoon upon the receipt of a hurriedly-written letter which bore a Washington postmark. The kid sent the note in upon his realizations of his misfortune.

"In his workouts he jabs with his left and then stands there instead of stepping back. His sparring partners all bore in wildly and still Scott stands there and clashes with them. What he ought to do is step back and make them miss.

Mike McTigue

"SHARKEY can box a whole lot better than most persons think," McTigue continues. "And he's cunning, too. When he finds out that Scott can't hit—that is, that Phil's punch is not commensurate with his size and strength—Sharkey will walk right into Phil and it will be murder almost from the first. I spent the better part of half an hour telling Scott what to do; how to knock down that outstretched left hand of his opponent and whip over the right. But he fails to do it. Scott is supposed to be a boxer, but he's not showing any of what Mr. Tunney alludes to as the finer points in the science of boxing. Phil should knock down that left. The way to fight Sharkey is to stab him and step back, making him miss his counter; stab him and step back, and keep on doing that. By and by Sharkey would get discouraged and keep on doing just that. By and by Sharkey would get discouraged and then Scott would outpoint him. But as matters stand, to have a chance against Sharkey, Scott will have to improve 50 per cent between now and the date of the fight.

Members of high school basketball teams from all sections of Western Pennsylvania will be guests of the Goldensons tonight when the Veronas, Northside Slavic team, meet the Charleroi Lions in the Allegheny County League game at the South Side Market House. Meyer Goldenson, sponsor of the team, has received a big response from the various high school coaches in the district and expects a big turnout tonight.

Monk Ketchel

The Goldensons are tied with the Veronas for first place in the south half of the Allegheny County League and will be out tonight to break the deadlock.

The Lions although their record fails to show it, have a smooth-working floor machine and it goes without saying that Yans Wallace's boys will have to keep on their toes if they hope to win the decision tonight.

One of the features of the Goldensons fine showing of late has been the improvement of Monice Ketchel, veteran center of the South Side quintet. Ketchel long regarded as one of the roughest players in the circuit has had only two fouls called on him in his last two games. His work all season stamps him as one of the best centers playing basketball this season.

The Goldensons cannot afford to lose tonight's decision as a defeat virtually will wipe out their chances of overtaking the smooth-working Veronas.

In the West Penn League tonight the Kingsley House quintet meets the South Side Falcons at Kingsley House. The Kingsley House Reserves meet Homewood-Brushton Y in the preliminary. This game is one of the two Institutional League frays carded tonight. In the other Henry House plays at North Boroughs Y.

LAFAYETTES WIN

Undefeated until last night and accompanied by more than 100 rooters the J. J. Veronas journeyed to Duquesne to find the Lafayettes in a determined mood and before the smoke of battle had cleared away the league champions had administered one of the worst defeats ever handed a County League team, 35 to 15.

The Penn Five humbled the Knickerbockers 32 to 25 in the West Penn League. Philadelphia Company beat E. A. Woods 24 to 12 and Duquesne Light tripped Equitable Life 30 to 27 in the Philadelphia Company loop while Sharpsburg Y bumped St. Michael's 37 to 26 in the Greater Pittsburgh. AMERICAN U. COPS

WASHINGTON Feb. 19 — American University defeated Salem College here last night. Strong defensive work on the part of American University was a feature. American led at the half 18-13. The lineup:

CLARK IS RE-ELECTED

Sport Vignettes

The departure of the major league clubs for the training camps recalls a young fellow tried out by the Pirates some years ago. He was one of those tall, gangling apple-knockers from a small country town. All through the training period he took things easy in direct contrast to the manner in which a rookie is supposed to perform. Finally, as the club was preparing to break camp, one of the officials asked him why he didn't show more ambition.

"I was tipped off how to act," he said. "They told me back home that the best way to get by was to imitate the fellows already up here, and I've done that."

"Whom did you take for an example?" he was asked. "This pitcher feller, Tom Sheehan," was his reply. Imagine the embarrassment of Big Tom, an easy-going bird of leisurely habits. If you see Abie Witz, ask him about his latest trouble with Red Mason, with whom he once had a gymnasium battle. Remember Frank Schulte, the old Cub outfielder, who could bust 'em far and wide at the plate? He later was a Pirate for a spell. "How come," a scribe asked him one day, "you didn't get the credit to which you were entitled when you were one of the stars of the great Cub machine?"

"Well, I'll tell you," replied Frank in his drawling manner. "It was just a case of too much Tinker-to-Evers-to-Chance. As an example, we had a tough 12-inning game one day and Tinker and Evers and Chance broke up a rally with a double play in the ninth inning. In the twelfth, I came up and hit the ball out of the lot for a home run that won for us. Next day the papers barely mentioned that long swat, but rhapsodized on how the Tinker-to-Evers-to-Chance combination had saved the day for us in the ninth." They called Schulte Wildfire, and he was anything but that. One of the meekest and mildest men on the club. "How did he get the name?" Well, he once bought a horse that he thought was a great runner and entered it in a race and it ran last. The boys called it "Wildfire," and when Wildfire disappeared from the scene the name was transferred to the animal's owner.....Which will be about all for today.—HARRY KECK.

ETNA ASPIRES TO CENTRAL LOOP TITLE

By TOM BIRKS

Memories of other days when Etna was a power in local baseball circles and its battles with the Millvale club drew crowds from all over the county may be brought back again this season if plans well under way materialize. Bill Sherman, a promising young catcher, and Eddie Imhoff stellar pitcher, who is well-known to sandlotters all over the circuit are going to put Etna back on the map with a real club, and this club is going to enter the Pittsburgh Central League.

Working quietly these boys from the other side of the Allegheny River are going to have a team that will live up to the former glories of the Etna teams.

In the lineup will be Johnny Rigby at first base. Rigby has a chance to go into faster company, in fact he was away for one season but home ties brought him back. Bill Hickley who was with Cumberland and is some ball hawk roaming around the outfield also will play. While Sherman is attending to the managerial duties it is expected that Newman will be the first string catcher. Etna will be a valuable addition to the Central League and will provide plenty of opposition to Roosevelt, W. O. W. Soho and the newcomers in the league.

MEETING TONIGHT

The announcement that the city loop would meet last evening was changed by President Harry Yerx and this circuit will get together this evening in the offices of the Reliance Life Insurance Company.

American Legion Tourney Rules Set

LOUISVILLE Ky. Feb. 19 ... AP ... Details of the 1930 American Legion junior baseball program announced here yesterday reveal that no local county, district, state, regional, sectional or final tournaments shall be played under the auspices of any newspaper or commercial concern.

No reason for barring the newspaper sponsoring was given by the Legion Americanism Commission which formulated the rulings.

Two new rules of play were added with the view of making competition more equal in large and small cities. Rule five reads "In cities and towns having populations of 50,000 or more according to the 1920 federal census, no team will be allowed to draw players from more than one high school."

Rule seven provides that the personnel of a team may not change after date of official enrollment.

JUDD FIRST CASUALTY

SAN ANTONIO Tex. Feb. 19 ... AP ... The first casualty in the New York Giants' training camp is Ralph Judd, right-handed pitcher, who saw plenty of service as a relief man last season.

The continued absence of Karl Hubbell, ace southpaw, is beginning to worry the boys. Karl who recently was married was due at the camp three days ago.

CHISON AWAITS SHIRES

SAN ANTONIO Tex. Feb. 19 ... INS ... Things about the spring training camp of the Chicago White Sox are practically at a standstill here today as the arrival of C. Arthur (The Great) Shires is eagerly awaited. One of the chief subjects of debate is when and if the spectacular first baseman of last season will put in an appearance.

CASE AGAINST BOBCATS TO BE PROBED

CHARLESTON W. Va. Feb. 19 ... (AP.) ... A ruling on charges of ineligibility filed against two West Virginia Wesleyan College athletes by athletic officials of Davis and Elkins College was deferred by the eligibility committee of the State Collegiate Athletic Conference at a meeting here yesterday.

Postponement of the decision was ordered to permit the committee to obtain additional information as to the status of the two teams on which the Wesleyan athletes are charged by Davis and Elkins athletic officials with having played professionally in Akron O.

At the hearing on the charges the eligibility committee received affidavits and personal testimony from representatives of each school, in addition to clippings from Akron newspapers which mentioned the Wesleyan players Forrest Bachtel and Clifford Battles as members of semi-professional teams.

Oliver	5	6	.455

The City League field leaped the next to the last hurdle in the title campaign yesterday but landed in a topsy-turvy condition with a favorite being knocked off in Section I and the possibility of a play-off series being made necessary in Section II.

Westinghouse High, which ruined Schenley's title hopes just a week ago, scored another upset yesterday, nosing out the apparently title-bound South High quintet on its own floor, 21 to 19. Unable to get better than fourth itself, the Westinghouse quintet holds the distinction of having messed up the chances of two important flag bets.

Dye led the attack of the Westinghouse team, flipping in three fine field goals, but the consistent shooting of the Silver Lakers brought the triumph, four of the five regulars scoring. Popim with four goals, dominated South's attack.

ASSURED OF TIE

South Hills defeated Carrick, 21 to 8, to assure itself of at least a tie in Section II with Perry. The latter clambered to within half a game of the leaders by defeating Oliver, 30 to 25. A win over Allegheny Friday will throw the rivals into a deadlock.

As a result of South's defeat and Fifth's triumph, the game Friday between the rivals will have hinging on its outcome the sectional championship.

In other City Senior League contests yesterday, Allegheny beat Langley 26 to 24 in Section II and Ralston downed Allderdice 49-21 in Section I.

RANKIN, SCOTT WIN

Rankin set down Braddock, 29 to 21, and Scott High, of North Braddock, defeated Turtle Creek Union High in feature W. P. I. A. L. contests. Edgewood lost to Etna, 22 to 21. McKees Rocks beat Bridgeville, 33 to 13. Charleroi knocked off California, 30 to 21, and Scottdale nosed out Latrobe, 23 to 22.

Monessen whipped South Connellsville, 29 to 7. Aliquippa took over Freedom, 33 to 21. Swissvale toppled Oakmont, 35 to 9. Mt. Lebanon bowed to Carnegie, 36 to 17. New Brighton won from Rochester, 28 to 16, and Monongahela tripped West Newton, 38 to 18. New Kensington brought down Freeport, 32 to 16. Tarentum barely beat Arnold, 21 to 17, and Parnassus set down Springdale, 27 to 20.

Shady Side Academy won from Aspinwall High, 15 to 13, and Ben Avon stopped Millvale, 27 to 23, in other contests. The lineups:

Washington won its first American League game, defeating the Athletics. Larry Lajoie was the only Philadelphia batter with whom Billy Carrick had any trouble, Larry garnering three of his team's seven safeties. Mayor Ashbridge, of Philadelphia, tossed out the first ball. Manager Manning rounded up a collection of ball players that looked like a sure-fire first division club, but they did not come up to their fans' hopes. Ed Delehanty was among the players who were added in 1902 and few of the 1901 roster remained when the team lined up the following year.

and bar matches pending at Hershey, Mass., and Hartford, Conn., according to new manager Lou Brown of New York. Likely opponents for him are Tom Landwehr and Louis (Kid) Kaplan.

FUGAZY GIVES UP

Humbert Fugazy, New York boxing promoter, has thrown up the sponge at last, satisfied that he will be unable to recoup his losses over the last five years.

Mike defeated L. N. Carpentier at Cincinnati last Saturday night and will meet Battling Siki at Wheeling shortly. On Friday night he hooks Al Gavilchild in one of the all star eight-round bouts at Jack Dempsey's Chicago Coliseum.

James has under his wing one of the best looking 130-pound prospects in the country in Charles Baxter, who has been undefeated in 34 bouts, 28 of which he has won by knockouts, and the other six by decisions. He is not yet 18 years old. He has stopped nine opponents in Atlanta, Cincinnati, where he is a big card.

AMATEURS BOX TONIGHT

Amateur boxing shows will be held this evening by the Duquesne Light Company in Bella Monroe and the Uniontown Eagles Company in South Hall, Uniontown.

Answer to query: Harry Greb fought Capt. Bob Roper at Syracuse, N. Y., March 10, 1920, and at Grand Rapids and Buffalo in 1922.

Young Nahut, of Syracuse, wants to box any of the local heavyweights now and Mayberry preferred. Bernard Kelly, of McKeesport, his manager, also would like to bring Bonder Demchenko, of Detroit, here to box Jackie Rodgers.

Joe Cotroll, of Erie, and Nick Bassett, of Rochester, Pa., have been matched to box the second bout of the evening at McKeesport tomorrow night with Casey Haire, of Homestead, subbing for Freddie Shaffer, of McKeesport, opposing Al Capone. Red Mannix, welterweight in the opener, Mickey Sullivan and Gene Mowery, box the main bout, and Dewey Russell and Harry Dawson are in the semi-final.

Tom Mains makes his first ring appearance in weeks when he faces Young Joe Walcott, of Washington, Pa., in the main bout at the Monongahela Temple Friday night. Mike Ignot, who fought Vincent Hambright on the only show held in the Cincinnati before the building was condemned for boxing, is usual. Tom's usual bunch of rooters from Arden will be out to whoop up things for him.

STOCKS DRIFT IRREGULARLY LOWER

Market Slips Despite Aggressive Support of Utility Shares by Bulls

NEW YORK, Feb. 19.—(AP.)—The stock market drifted irregularly lower today despite aggressive bullish demonstrations in a select group of public utilities and specialties. Trading showed a marked falling off in volume, due to the absence of any extensive public participation.

Call money held steady at 4½ per cent although there was a fairly plentiful supply available and it was expected that the rate would be shaded in the "outside market." The time money and bankers' acceptance markets were quiet with no change in rates.

STEEL OUTPUT GAINS

Iron Age reported that "steel production had made a further slight gain but has lost the momentum that caused it to rise so rapidly in January." Pig iron and steel prices held steady. Bullish enthusiasm in the stock market was chilled somewhat by the fact that freight car loadings continues to run below the levels of the corresponding period a year ago, a further increase in crude oil production and fears of a technical reaction.

The brisk demand for the public utilities was inspired largely by merger rumors, although there were no new tangible developments along those lines. Brooklyn Union Gas ran up 7½ points to 170½, which contrasts with the low of 99 established in the break last fall. American Water Works ran up 5 points and one block of 10,000. American and Foreign Power changed hands at 101¼, up 3½. American Telephone, Western Union, North American, Standard Gas and Electric, Pacific Lighting and American Power and Light sold 2 to 4 points higher.

Otis Elevator, which recently has received some large contracts, soared nearly 10 points to 133¾, which compares with the low of 195 in the November break. Gulf States ran up 6¾ points to a new high at 80, on what appeared to be competitive buying between the Republic Steel and American Rolling Mill interests who are reported to be anxious to secure the Gulf properties. Westinghouse Electric, Eastman Kodak and Goodyear also displayed conspicuous strength.

SIMMONS BREAKS

Simmons broke 4¼ points on what looked like a renewal of year selling. United Fruit sank 3 to a new 1930 low at 92. J. I. Case, Norfolk and Western and Vulcan Detinning dropped 3 points or more.

Coppers were freely sold as a result of the reduction in the Calumet and Arizona dividend, that stock breaking below 75 to a new low for the year, while Anaconda, American Smelting, Kennecott, Magma and Cerro de Pasco yielded a point or two.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, Feb. 19. Cotton opened unchanged to 3 points higher today on overnight buying orders. Active months showed net advances of about 4 to 9 points after the call. There was some trade buying as well as further covering prompted by the advance of yesterday, but prices made an indifferent showing and with some cotton here. New crudes also sold in the local market and after the initial buying orders had been supplied offers eased, several points under selling and liquidation. May reacted from 11.40 to 11.31 and the active months showed net losses of 2 to 4 points at the end of the first half hour.

Liverpool cables said the market there had been influenced by continental buying and covering, but that the demand had been opposed by hedging and Bombay selling. They reported moderate sales with some in Africa and South America, but said that some of cotton taken was restricted, and that replacement of production was being considered in the Egyptian section of Lancashire.

FEAR OF SLUMP ACTS AS BRAKE ON MARKET

Many Brokers Cautioning Customers Against Possibility of Setback

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUKEYSER

NEW YORK, Feb. 19.

The widespread apprehension of a technical setback in the stock market appears to be acting as a brake on recklessness.

Usually the price structure is most vulnerable at a time when optimism regarding the near future is well nigh universal.

A majority of brokers have been cautioning their customers against the possibility of a setback and numerous commitments that preceded the March, 1929, break in prices were made at lower prices become available.

To the extent that this practice continues the adjustment will tend to be less severe. Paradoxically, irrespective of the fear in the market outlook, the pain and discomfort caused by the necessity of liquidating a portion of purchases have served for intervals of weakness and reaction. Analysts who are perpetually warning of the danger of stocks are entitled to credit for losses in the light of long term advances.

ADVANCE OVERADVERTISED

As a matter of fact the advance which has been striking in selected stocks has been a trifle overadvertised. The favored groups have advanced 50 per cent from the panic lows but a majority of the more or less active stocks has made little progress since December. The favored third which is overweighted in the published averages have given an exaggerated notion of the status of security prices in general.

It still remains a prudent rule at this time to limit commitments to securities which have intrinsic investment merit and whose prices can be justified by known attainments and reasonable prospects. Analytical investors are making it a practice to put price tags on their favored issues and to put in their orders—on a good but cancelled basis.

Although the panic psychology has been fortunately dissipated business is still undergoing a transition and has problems to work out. The crucial speculative question is whether the spring recovery in business will be as robust as the bulls have anticipated.

Edward J. Cornish, president of the National Lead Company who regards himself as the attorney for his stockholders, makes it an annual custom to invite reporters to his office when the annual report is read. He gives the press a chance to ask questions about the report feeling that the reporters are the best spokesmen for the rank and file of small stockholders who get little chance to express their ideas. The company's report will be ready in a fortnight or so and it is understood that it will establish a new peak in the matter of net income.

RESERVE LAW CHANGE

W. P. G. Harding's suggestions that the Federal Reserve law be modified has attracted widespread interest in the financial district. Mr. Harding was formerly governor of the Federal Reserve Board and is now governor of the Federal Reserve Bank at Boston. To meet the problem of a diminishing supply of eligible paper Mr. Harding proposes making loans secured by stocks and bonds eligible for rediscount at a higher rate.

Oscar F. Meredith, vice president of the Foreman-State National Bank, expressed the hope that ultimately instalment paper might become available for rediscount.

Before prejudging such innovations, it is well to remember that commercial banking has radically changed since the war, and failure to keep up with alterations weakens the power of the Federal Reserve to influence the credit situation.

The major changes have included an increase in security holdings and collateral loans by member banks and a great increase in the volume of instalment paper in the portfolio of member banks.

SCRAP MARKET STRENGTHENS

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Feb. 19.—The market on scrap metals is strengthening materially, in view of the high operating rate of open hearth and Bessemer Steel plants and the subsequent increased demand for scrap, together with broader requirements for blast furnace operations. In both iron and steel-making there has been an appreciable gain in production activities during the past 45 days.

The market on prime number one heavy melting scrap is from $17 to $17.50, though sales at the high figure have been few.

There has been a substantial gain in the orders for strip steel, most of it coming from the automobile companies. Most of this business is for immediate shipment, though consumers are now ordering for future requirements.

In sheets, the principal gain in demand comes from makers of the two leading low-priced automobiles. Increased requirements from other sources are not so conspicuous and have lagged in some cases. With spring building requirements materializing, however, a broader outlet for steel is developing and mills look for maintenance of the present high operating rate for some time to come.

FREIGHT MILE SET RECORD

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—Freight traffic handled last year by the railroads of the country, measured in net ton miles (the number of tons of freight multiplied by the distance carried), was the greatest for any year on record, the Bureau of Railway Economics announced today.

The volume moved amounted to 492,179,745,000 net ton miles, which exceeded by 3,477,920,000 net ton miles the best previous record established in 1926.

This record freight traffic was moved last year without difficulty and with an efficiency never before attained by the carriers, the report said.

During December last freight traffic handled by Class 1 railroads amounted to 36,039,869,000 net ton miles, a reduction of 1,633,037,000 net ton miles or 4.3 per cent below the same month in 1928.

Tax Collectors Could Unfold Panic Tales

By B. C. FORBES

INCOME tax collectors could a few tales unfold about what the stock panic did to sundry gentlemen. Not a few appeared in person to explain to the collector that they had been absolutely cleaned out of cash. Some had hocked every security they owned and would have had to be sold out by bank or broker if compelled to produce income tax money. Others explained that they had some unpledged collateral but that it would ruin them to part with it at panic prices.

All that some could do was to delay payments and submit to the penalty prescribed by law. In other cases, the collector, while explaining that he could not accept stock as collateral, suggested that they furnish a surety company bond the government to hold the bond until payment could be made. This was done in quite a number of cases.

YESTERDAY a unique flying service, sponsored by influential New York financial and business leaders, was inaugurated. The route, to be covered weekly, traverses some 8,000 miles of water, coast, mountains and plains, between the United States and South America.

William P. McCracken, Jr., who recently resigned as assistant secretary of commerce for aeronautics, heads the company, the New York, Rio and Buenos Aires Line. The trip south will start from Miami and continue down the east coast to Rio de Janeiro and Buenos Aires, while the northern trip starts from Santiago, Chile, crosses the Andes to Buenos Aires, thence northward along the coast.

The schedule allows seven days for the Miami-Buenos Aires trip, six days to Rio, and two days from Miami over the West Indies to South America. Various South American centers will be served from coast points.

The fastest steamers now take about 18 days from New York to Buenos Aires. Thus the time saved will be substantial. Parts of the route have been operated for months, with, it is stated, gratifying results. Many large United States corporations doing business with South America have given assurance that they will use the "Nyrba" line extensively for executives' travel, while certain classes of merchandise will also be consigned.

This direct line to Rio and Buenos Aires had counted upon carrying United States mails. But the wholly unexpected announcement has come from Washington that it is proposed to award the mail contract to another air line which operates down the sparsely-populated west coast of South America and which, after carrying the mails to Santiago, will have to fly them across the Andes in order to serve Buenos Aires and Rio. In other words, the mails will first have to be carried south, then east and then north. Washington reports that a vigorous protest is to be submitted by the New York, Rio and Buenos Aires line, on the basis that its service is the logical one to use since it provides a direct service to these two main South American cities.

E. G. DIEFENBACH, who at 36 has risen to command of the well known financial firm of G. E. Barrett & Co., told me this incident to illustrate how keen interest was in stock speculation before the collapse.

A member of the New York Stock Exchange called upon a doctor to have his throat examined. The doctor instantly began to ply him with questions about the stock market in general, and then wanted information-tips really, on the various stocks. So intense was his interest in stocks that the doctor didn't trouble even to examine the broker's throat, but simply told him there was nothing serious the matter.

In due course, a bill came. The broker, who had been indignant at the lack of interest manifested by the doctor, immediately made out a detailed bill, charging so much for the information he had given on the market in general and so much for each stock on which his expert opinion had been asked. He totaled the amounts, deducted the doctor's bill, and asked for payment of the balance!

Corp. Securities Co. Recovers Values

CHICAGO, Feb. 19.—Corporation Securities Company, an investment trust controlled by the Insull interests and by Halsey Stuart & Co., announced at its annual meeting that on the basis of the market value of its holdings as of February 15, the net worth was in excess of $80,000,000, the value at which its holdings were announced in connection with the offering of the corporation's stock just prior to the stock market crash last fall. NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, Feb. 19.—(AP.)—Operators for the advance continued the laborious process of lifting stocks irregularly higher in the face of considerable profit-taking on the Curb market today. The market faltered for a time in the morning but turned bull on the decline. Resumption of the advance toward midday produced few gains wider than a point or so.

Following is the list of transactions on the New York Curb Exchange, giving all stocks and bonds traded in (000 omitted in sales column of stock list, 000 omitted in sales column of bond list):

DAILY TRUE STORY

Block-Long Car!

SURE I own a swell car—one of those kind that the newspapers once said a sure-man called a "block long."

Sure the car cost five thousand!

Sure my salary was just twenty five bucks a week!

You need to look at me that way and try to figure out how long it would take a young man of twenty to buy a five thousand dollar car and give his mother half his salary, on twenty five a week.

I was in a broker's office . . . at one I can't name for people saying Oh he crooked business—he stole bonds and things—he's only a kid, a runner so that must be right, swell.

Only it isn't the answer. It happens I've never stolen anything except a kiss now and then from Molly.

Speaking of Molly makes me think of the evening I drove over to her home in my swell car and she came out and looked it over.

"Yours, Mac?" she asked.

"Absolutely," I answered.

With a flourish I showed her the bill of sale made out to me—not one of those time payment things—this showed that the car was all paid for.

Molly sort of backed away and got rather pale.

"Jack," she whispered. "Oh, Jack, I'm heart-broken. You know I'd rather walk with an honest boy than ride with a crook."

If it hadn't been for a big fuss at home about the same lines I would have been hurt and sore. But I'd expected this.

"If I'm a crook, Molly Hatch, then you're the worst girl in New York and the world. Is there such a better girl on earth? Suppose I'm about my car by occupying the front seat with me while I tell you something."

She hesitated.

"It's got to be good to convince me," she said, then, "All right. I'll listen to your fairy tale and hope I'm not with you when you get arrested for stealing the price of this car wagon."

Tim's Sneering Remark

I hopped out and helped Molly in. Tim Scanlon came along just then. I noticed him there and was doing his best to take Molly away from me.

"Your boss must be real of town," Tim said to me as he eyed the car.

"Be grown up," I answered. I found this in a package of crackerjacks. Wish that we drove away.

"Forget that wise-cracking Tim Scanlon, Molly, and be patient. I'll tell you about it. I've had luck bigger than a flock of Woolworth buildings hit me—I'm still dazed.

"Some eats and dancing. We'll get a little corner table out there on the veranda and I'll tell you something. I've got the price so don't worry."

"It's too speedy for me. I'm worried silly riding in a car bought with stolen money. I won't eat on."

I grabbed her and did some more stealing, a couple of kisses.

"Have a heart, give me a show."

I ordered, and then we danced. After a while I settled back and moved my chair around closer to Molly.

"Remember me telling you about what a peach Mary Reynolds was?" I asked.

Molly nodded.

"She is the secretary to my boss, isn't she?" I suppose she—"

"Sweetheart, don't suppose. Just listen," I begged.

Mary

"You know I was only a kid when I went to work for Hawley & Blake, office boy. Mary Reynolds must have been twenty-two or so then. That was two years ago. Kid-like I got stuck on her because she was sweet and pretty and helped me. She wouldn't let the smart-Alecks office men ride me. Of course I wasn't stuck on her like I am on you."

"Somebody ought to have had their eyes on you," Molly declared, becoming nervous every time a man entered and looked out way as if she thought I was going to be pinched any minute.

I just grinned at her.

"When I got to be a runner and was trusted with many a big package of bonds and things worth hundreds of thousands, I had to be in the big boss' office quite a lot, giving him receipts and making reports. By this time I could see that Mary Reynolds was crazy over Mr. Hawley. She wasn't like them gold-digging flappers that have no more modesty than a statue and try to make any guy who has money. She was quiet and refined.

"Sure Hawley was married, but that didn't seem to prevent him being wild about Mary. Not that there was ever any petting or necking. Mary wasn't that kind, and Mr. Hawley wasn't either. But gee, how they'd look at each other.

"And him married!" Molly repeated, with the stern judgment of a kid who doesn't know life.

"One of them breaks comes up for just a flash in the market and we'd made good. Mr. Hawley went up th his country place in the Catskills.

Explaining

"Saturday noon, just before we closed (you see a few of us worked Saturday forenoons, although most of the office force didn't come in at all) Mr. Turner all of a sudden comes out of his office as excited as a wet hen.

Where's Mary?" Mr. Turner asked. She was certainly bound to get all the details as to how this story got apart.

The office manager seems some papers had come in that were important. They had to be signed and in the mails before Monday morning. Mr. Hawley was the only one who could sign them and he was out of town on a golf game. Monday morning Mr. Turner comes up to me.

Sure I signed the papers and took the fifty thousand.

Aw, Molly, lay off please. I begged. I seen this story a thousand times. Turner comes to me and says, "Jack, can you drive a car?" I grinned at him. I can do anything to a car except own one, Mr. Turner," I says. I've got a driver's license on account of my brother-in-law owns a car he lets me borrow once in a while. Well so Turner almost grinned. "Know where Mr. Hawley's place is?" he asked. I know it's up in th Catskills. I know how to get there and I can read road maps. I got everything except a car, I tells him.

Turner says I'll order one of them driver-connected cars and he bumps for the telephone. I sent home word to Ma I couldn't get home until late. The deal was made. I took the leather case with the papers, went and got this car what you hire and drive yourself paying according to how far you drive. It wasn't a bad car. Once in the country I stepped on it. I knew by the map that around almost sunset I was within a few miles of Mr. Hawley's place because Turner had marked a big X on the map to show me. I had to slow up on a steep short grade and I heard some woman's voice.

It was a swell-dressed dame scolded. She was bawling her chauffeur out for letting a tire getting a puncture as if he could help it. She cursed and used vile language. Two men sat in the car and grinned. They looked like dicks to me.

Well I drove round 'em and got Mr. Hawley's place. As I drove in I saw him on a back terrace and I nearly threw a fit.

Mary Reynolds was there sittin on his knee feeding him bites of cake. She—

"What kind of a nice girl is this Mary—"

Mr. Hawley Angry

"Hush, Molly. Mr. Hawley was dead sore until I told him I had some papers. He took me inside. He was signing 'em when I saw a picture. It was the dame I'd seen below, cussin and drunk. I gulped and had a hunch. Is—is that Mrs. Hawley?" I asks, pointing at the picture. Gee, th' boss got red. He growled and nodded.

Gosh," says Molly.

"Look here, Mr. Hawley," I says, getting my nerve up. "Mrs. Hawley and a coupla men who look like dicks are only a couple miles from here."

Molly giggled.

"Mr. Hawley turns white and says, 'Good God,' and Mary had come in and heard. She starts to cry. 'She's after divorce evidence—we're ruined,' she sobbed. 'Hey,' I yells. 'Miss Reynolds ran ride back with me. I'll drive up th' road and cut back so's not to meet 'em.' 'Gosh,' Mr. Hawley yells 'Hurry' and in two minutes I had Mary and her handbag and them papers in th' car and was drivin' away. Mary tells me about Mrs. Hawley—no good, always drunk and worse. Mr. Hawley hesitating to divorce her on account of scandal hurtin' his business. Mary admits they been in love for three years. I got her back. Ras Molly, you remember reading about Mrs. Hawley killing a kid, doing a hit-and-run and killing herself in th' smash." Sure you did, it was six months ago. Well Mr. Hawley married Mary yesterday. Both of 'em give me this car for a present with a bank account to support it, and I'm assistant office manager now with a swell salary. Come down to th' office tomorrow and I'll prove it."

And we're goin' to have swell fun meanwhile in my block-long car.

CONGRESSMAN FRISBY HAS NOT BEEN ASLEEP!

Indeed, I might say that if there is one man who has been wide awake, watching here, there and everybody, his name is—

I say this because at this time I feel it my duty to explain why I became an undercover man in the army of prohibition enforcement.

As you know, rum has been smuggled into this country on several occasions. As soon as I heard this, I went before several women's societies and laid the cards face up on the table. I even offered to be put under oath.

"Ladies," I said, and a hush immediately fell over the assembly, as my hearers cried "Hush" to one another, "Ladies," I said, "what we need in this country today is the best undercover men that money will buy."

In fact, I went further and—

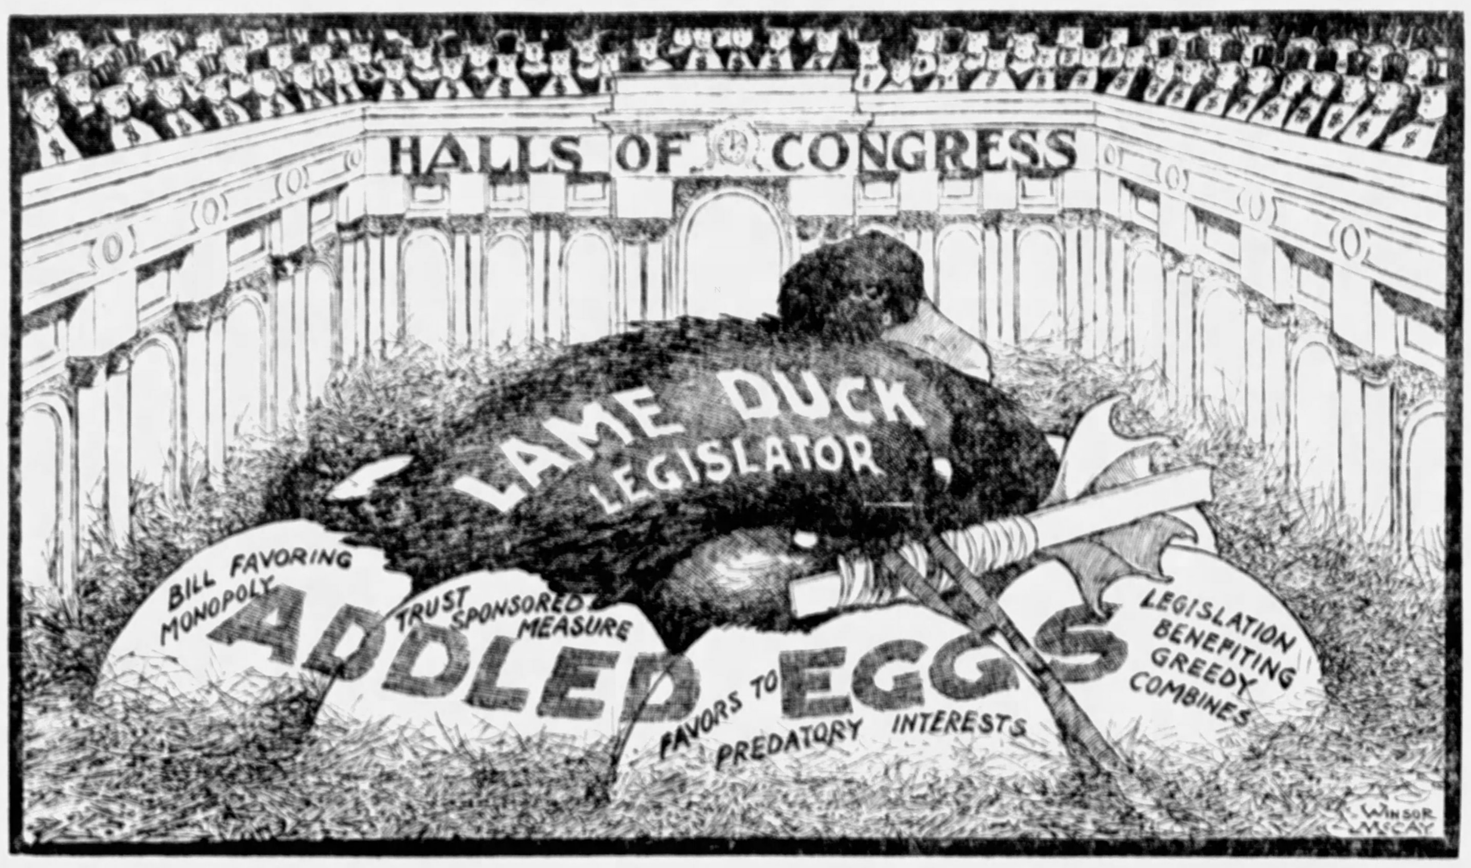
THE HATCH OF THE "LAME DUCK"



NOBODY in Washington makes any defense of our present method of electing and assembling a new Congress.

We shall choose men for both Senate and House in November. Scores of unsatisfactory or unfaithful public servants will be repudiated by the people.

But these rejected Congressmen and Senators will go right on passing or defeating laws in Washington. The old, repudiated Congress will come back next December, a month after their repudiation, and legislate until March 4, 1931.

The new Congressmen and Senators, fresh from the people, will not take their seats until December, 1931, over a year after they are chosen.

The Norris "Lame Duck" Amendment to the Constitution will cure this evil. It provides that the Congress elected in November shall assemble in January, and at that time the new President also shall take office.

It is a perfectly simple, obvious and necessary reform. It will become a law when the amendment passes both Houses of Congress by two-thirds majority, and is ratified by three-fourths of the State Legislatures.

There is no question that the State Legislatures will ratify. The only problem is to get it through Congress. It has passed the Senate—as it does year after year—by a huge majority. It is kept from a vote in the House of Representatives—as it has been year after year—by the Republican bosses which run that body.

Of course, when something suspicious is to be done, it can be done conveniently by the political bosses in the semi-annual short session of a "Lame Duck" Congress.

Let's have a vote in the House on the Norris Amendment by present Congressmen, so that we shall know where they stand, before they seek re-election in November.

Let us see how each one votes. Let's hear the words of explanation of every candidate who thinks that the Norris Amendment is bad legislation, and that Congressmen who have been repudiated in elections should continue to misrepresent the people.

Spring Close at Hand as Ball Players Head West

"O, wind, if Pirates go, can Spring be far behind?"

Cease to shudder, O, Shelley clan, for if this be sacrilege to Ode To The West Wind, remember that it is justified by the fact that the advance guard of our favorite baseball team is heading into the West wind to greet Spring in its nesting place, arouse it and send it scurrying eastward.

Harbingers of Spring, such as the first robin and a half-frozen snake, crawling out into the sunlight, have frequently proven so untrustworthy that we have come to believe that they are mostly deceivers. But when our b. b. boys don their spangles, as the sports department has it, we know they mean business.

So from now henceforth, the Pirates being on their way to practice the old sweet notes of the Chorus of Swat, which ranks next to Herr Mendelssohn's great composition as a paean to Spring, we will not be at much trouble to detect a scent of violets in every telegram Chilly Doyle sends from the sun-kissed sward of California.

Settle This Yourself

Which Is the Most Amazing?

Perhaps you are aware of the endless controversy concerning radio. Skeptics fear that the assault of continuous noise upon our collective nervous system will be disastrous. Enthusiasts declare that radio has salvaged the institution of the family—it keeps people at home. Boredom is slain. One group of viewers-with-alarm felt that fine old standards of taste would be swept aside by a deluge of carelessly selected and executed music. Optimists held that the deluge of music would seep everywhere, stimulating and awakening musical talent and appreciation.

The controversy is not settled, and now a new consideration bobs up. Mrs. Aurelia Marquez, replying to her husband's divorce complaint, declares that he used the radio to drown out her crying when he abused her. She contends this was brutal. But was it brutal so far as the neighbors were concerned? And the neat question arises: Which would annoy people most, the anguished cries of a housewife in distress or the anguished cries of a coloratura soprano in distress?

One Writer Who Likes Hollywood.

Writers lured to Hollywood to construct drama and write dialogue often complain about everything but the money. One of them recently said that he couldn't do his best work because of the sunshine. He needed dull skies and howling winds. Now comes Louis Bromfield, whose "Early Autumn" won the Pulitzer Prize, to confuse matters worse. He says:

"There is intelligence and talent in Hollywood. It is most hopeful, most interesting. I am fed up with Europe. It gives me a stomachache. I am tired of it, bored with it."

"Bugs" Baer Says:

Jungle Disarmament

THE animals had grown tired of snapping and clawing each other to elegant details. They decided on a peace conference and the lion was appointed head man by his own unanimous request.

"Bugs" Baer

It was agreed that they would humanize the claws, benevolize the mule's hind foot and philanthrophize the fang. No more would the Zeppeling baboon drop his cocoanut grenade on the non-combatant wart hog and the bee would beat his stinger into a knitting needle.

That musteline mammal, mephitis mephitis, was to curtail the exploitation of poison vapors and the puma was to refrain from impressing his dominant personality on the rabbit and the rooster.

Everything was to be canned peaches and evaporated cream in the new order of things as they are diplomated. No animal was to accept a mandate over small and defenseless comrades and peace was to be so thick that you could use it for blankets on cold nights.

The meeting broke up with many tight lipped smiles and congratulatory shakings of well sheathed claws. The fox left for his bungalow in a restricted section of the jungle. On the way he stopped to converse with a guinea hen in a tree.

"Come on down and have a dance," said the fox to the hen.

"I'll sit this one out," said the hen.

"Whattsamattah?" asked the fox.

"Nothing's the mattah," said the hen, "and nothing's gonna be."

"Aw, come on down, hennie," the fox coaxed, "we're pals now. Haven't you heard the news? We just had a peace conference and there is going to be a vegetarian holiday of 10 years with a reduction of armament and peace on earth and good will to those who can afford it. I'm your friend and your my little buddy."

While the fox was jamming the air with his city ways and store clothing, a new station tuned in. It was the baying of hounds and the mournful static made the fox's ears stick up like candles on a birthday cake. He started away from there at a slow lope until his engine got warm.

"Natta chance," said the fox, as he dashed from the main track and scooted up a siding. "I'm off. I know there has been a peace conference. And you know there has been a peace conference. But there's always some darn fools who may not have read the papers."

This story, if not exactly in these words, was told by Bob Ingersoll many, many years ago.

Paste it on your windshield for reference around 1940.

M. TARDIEU'S LITTLE JOKER

By Herbert Kaufman

MONSIEUR TARDIEU has a cold. No one DOUBTS that the raucous atmosphere of fog-locked Albion has ACTUALLY bitten into his membranes. Chill and dampness are no respecters of rank or responsibility.

Monsieur Tardieu not ONLY has a cold, but the deep SYMPATHY of all who realize how it MUST devastate the sensibilities of an eminent statesman to be forcibly retired from the disarmament conference, at its most acute moment.

Coincidence has a pestiferous habit of adding the best-laid plans—in just THAT way.

To impute that Monsieur Tardieu CONVENIENTLY arranged a rendezvous with an obliging germ, is too base and unwarranted a thought for contemplation.

And yet there ARE minds so warped and misanthropic, as to foster suspicion that the astute Andre MAY find consolatory compensations in his inopportune sore throat.

His compulsory exit from the conference—immediately after the delivery of an ultimatum that France must either obtain her full pound of naval flesh, or guarantees from the other four powers that any aggressor against her peace and sovereignty will receive no financial, munitions or sustenance aid from them—could HARDLY have been more strategically timed.

Monsieur Tardieu's absence not only interrupts the processes of negotiation, but provides the parties in interest with indefinite leisure to digest the significance of the French position.

The plot would NOW seem to center upon America's willingness to enter upon agreements which will defeat the avowed purpose of the conference or involve the United States inextricably with Europe's polemic fortunes.

France, in effect, offers us two alternatives: We must either give WHOLE HOG assent to her 1924 stand on naval parity, or abandon traditional aloofness from foreign entanglement.

In which latter case, the United States might just as well go hook, line and sinker and become a FULL-FLEDGED member of the League of Nations.

Thanks to the assurance of certain Francophile citizens who continue to conceive it our duty to place the arms and wealth of this country on promiscuous call—the old world can't bring itself to surrender hope of seducing us into treaties which will forever suspend a sword of Damocles over our local lives and destinies.

Our inordinate riches and decisive manpower would be such determining factors in any feud yonder, that Europe simply REFUSES to relinquish a 12-year dream of finessing the United States into some cat's paw contract to become its armorer, almoner and cannon-fodder silo.

Every French premier since 1918 has fostered the project of allying tri-color and stars and stripes, and has proceeded to mobilize sentiment to that end.

Now, the quai d'orsay boldly lays cards on the table and practically tells us that Washington must either accede to French terms or see the Kellogg Pact become a futile gesture.

If Monsieur Tardieu will INSIST upon playing solitaire, so must WE.

Whatever other courses America may adopt for the sake of universal amity, and a halt in the ruinously competitive armament budgets, popular sentiment, OVERWHELMINGLY recorded at three successive presidential elections, declares that our OWN emergencies and perils shall exclusively be vested with the right to order the youth and the industries of the republic into BATTLE.

Lead ANOTHER card, Monsieur Tardieu. The Stimson delegation is instructed to bet on TRUMPS not JOKERS.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Feb. 19.—The musical comedy touch the irrepressible John the Barber gave his recently opened barber shop on the Rialto proved a divertisement for even Broadway's blase. If he escapes a padlock which may follow a prohibition raid, many believe his idea may prove revolutionary.

John decided barber shops had become too sanitized—too austere. This followed his failure in featuring a shop with talkless barbers. Retiring for a period of reflection, he returned to the street and opened what is doubtless the gayest tonsorial parlor in the world.

He reasoned that many gentlemen will gladly pay $15 a seat to see gorgeous young damsels across the footlights. So why wouldn't they be attracted to a place that offered not only a closer view of such beauteous creatures, but a little hand holding to boot?

He scoured the theatrical agencies and gathered together 25 charmers, he proudly boasts are "the absolute pick of Broadway show girls, beautiful in form, face and ability." He sent them to a training school and installed them in his new bazar.

Here they sit at little topped spindly tables—blondes, brunettes and red heads—as though awaiting the orchestral cue to snap into a stirring song with accompanying steps. At first customers greeted the innovation a bit timidly, but now there is a waiting line.

Each one of the manicure girls has appeared in Broadway productions and not all just as chorus or show girls. Seven have had parts ranging from a thin line to those that call for names in caps in the program. With the show business in doldrums, the ladies welcomed their new roles.

Many while applying the meticulous polish will hum the latest tunes from current shows, and several upon occasions have snapped into a neat dance when they laid down their buffers. Such fun! John has given his salon a modernistic background and may yet install a jazz band.

John the Barber is one of those quaint and florid characters frothed up from the Tenderloin at intervals to join the Broadway immortals. His name is John Reissler and, like his gentry, is either flat broke or well heeled. He belongs to the hard-boiled valiants who are never vanquished. He once fought Sullivan, also managed Jack Dempsey and knows every actor or sportsman of prominence by first name.

Criminals often execute what Scotland Yard calls "grandma's glasses." That is, after a crime, they station themselves in a prominent place, a place so obvious and conspicuous no one as a rule would think of looking for them there. Detectives, however, acting on this theory, have recently trapped two hunted murderers.

The same authority tells me many fugitives are attracted to a police station after a crime. Passing by without detection gives them a renewed courage.

* * *

I was once with a detective who tapped a murder suspect on the shoulder in a western city. His snarl was like a trapped wolf baring his fangs, the most hideous expression I have ever seen. "You just think you caught me," he sneered and a half block away fell dead from a quick poison.

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE

By H. G. WELLS
In Collaboration With
Prof. Julian Huxley and George P. Wells.

IN THE violet and the wood-sorrel, which, being modest flowers, are apt to be overlooked, special flowers are developed toward the end of the season that do not open at all, but are regularly and automatically self-pollinated.

And many of the humbler flowering weeds, such as chickweed, shepherd's purse and groundsel, are nearly always self-pollinated.

H. G. Wells

Apparently self-pollination is perfectly possible and workable, but cross-pollination is in some way more desirable; the former is a second-best, a thing to fall back upon if the latter fails.

In contrast to the modest weeds that put up with this second best is the upright meadow buttercup, the ovules of which cannot be fertilized by pollen from the same flower. They just do not respond.

This is not in any sense a sign that self-fertilization is generally an impossible method; it is a device for securing that only the preferable method, cross-pollination, shall occur.

An enormous amount of unfounded belief has accumulated round the problem of self-fertilization and the closely similar problem of inbreeding.

They have been accused of producing a loss of vigor, degeneracy, and a number of vaguely defined phenomena of that kind. It is the exact study of heredity on the basis of Mendel's laws—the most important advance that biological science has made in the twentieth century—that has made the story clear, and put it into precise terms.

There is nothing inherently devitalizing in inbreeding or even in self-fertilization itself; the chief reason for its unpopularity, so to speak, lies in the fact that self-fertilized populations are more homogeneous, less variable than those in which cross-fertilization is the rule.

As we shall learn when we treat of evolution, variability of the species is a profoundly important thing, for it gives a basis for natural selection to work upon; in the long run variable, cross-fertilized species will tend to supplant homogeneous self-fertilized species merely because they are variable.

Therefore there will come to be more of the former. It is not that in-breeding is inherently bad and out-breeding inherently good; it is merely that the latter method affords more opportunity for evolution, for the adaptation of the race to the ceaselessly changing conditions of the organic world, that determines its predominance.

But we have dwelt long enough on flowers; let us turn to fruits and seeds, to the embryos that result from successful pollination.

We have described the process of pollination in the buttercup; let us proceed with our description, and trace the subsequent events.

The little bunch of green ovaries, each with a waiting egg-cell inside it, has been dusted with pollen; the sepals, petals and stamens, their purpose discharged, have withered and dropped off. The ovaries swell up and ultimately become dry and hard; inside them the egg-cells are also growing and organizing themselves into tiny embryos, each with a little store of food like the yolk of a bird's egg.

The embryo, together with its food store and the tough membrane enwrapping both, is called a seed; it is a compound reproductive body. The enlarged ovary that contains it is called a fruit. In the buttercup each fruit contains one seed.

At this stage the plant is faced with another problem, a problem analogous to that of pollen transfer already discussed. Supposing that the fruits were simply to drop off and that the seeds were to germinate in the ground beside the parent plant, what would happen?

There would result a bitter struggle between parent and offspring, their leaves wrestling, and fencing for light, their roots for moisture. It is better for the seeds to be sown in distant places, so that they do not interfere with their parent or with each other and so that the species may extend its range. They have to use the technical term, to be dispersed.

The fruits of plants are often variously and ingeniously contrived so that their contained seeds may be dispersed.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

YOU like to jest and in so doing you most enjoy that which comes nearest to a bitter truth.

Nearly everyone is sensitive in some way.

Do you get pleasure out of saying and doing things to annoy or embarrass?

Perhaps because the victim does not know your vulnerable points and so cannot retaliate.

You may be rather successful in hiding your weak spots, but you have them.

Even when said in a joking way, statements about physical defects or allusions to the undesirable stature of a person, leave a little sting.

They are unpardonable because they are defects that cannot be altered.

Attention called to a physique or mental make-up that was given by nature, not by will or education, are the height of cruelty.

Everyone wants to be as near perfect as possible.

Those who are fairly good looking, cannot realize the tragedy the ugly featured and poorly proportioned individual has to face every day.

When a person is worried over a handicap of physical defect, have you the nerve, the low-down meanness to twit on afflictions and call it a jest?
